

Wolgast Says Ritchie Is False Alarm Champ

Michigan Wildcat Is Still Under the Impression That He Can Regain Lightweight Title—Has Not Thought of Retiring Yet.

Cadillac, Mich., Sept. 26.—"On the square, I hope I may never knock out Willie Ritchie, the female impersonator, if I am not telling the truth when I assure you that all the birds talk indulged in the past about me quitting the ring is untrue. I most positively have not retired from the ring, and moreover do not intend to retire," said Ad. Wolgast, erstwhile lightweight champion, and today the most restless ex-champion afoot.

No Retire For Him.
"Retire? Huh! I have passed up many chances to make easy money in the past, but what's the use of saying that I am through with the game? It does not get me anything to say that I am going to cut out the ring and tie down on a ranch. There is time enough for me between tricks to retire to my ranch. I am not so fastened to the soil as all that, and you know it costs money to run a farm. Guess I am finding that out here on the old place. Whenever I go away the fellows loaf on the job and it takes more effort to get them doing something than it does to get a tireless auto into town 10 miles away. No, I am not going to retire until the Divine Sarah makes her farewell tour."

Lost Title On Frame-Up.
"I might give a bond to quit the game for sure six months after I regain the title that I lost on a frame-up, certainly not until I have closed tight the mouth of Bat Nelson and a foul."

MANY LONDON FANS WILL ATTEND WORLD SERIES GAMES

Large Number Have Already Secured Tickets For Big Baseball Event—Advertiser Will Bulletin Games Play by Play For Those Who Don't Go.

Several London fans intend taking in the world series, and already some of them have written away for seats for the first games. A few days ago, the Advertiser had no less than three telephone calls from fans who wanted to know who to write to for world series seats. No end of telephone calls and inquiries through the mail have been received from fans wanting to know the dates on which the games will be played, and from all appearances London will be well represented at the big baseball event.

Tickets Sold Already.
The local ticket offices report several sales of tickets to fans who are going to attend the series, so that there seems to be just as much local interest in the series this year as in the past. Opinion as to who will win the world championship is pretty evenly divided, however, and each team has about an equal number of London supporters. Many are confident that the Athletics will repeat, while there are others who believe the Giants will turn the trick this year.

Advertiser Bulletins For "Stay-at-Homes."

For those fans who cannot take in the games, the Advertiser bulletin boards will be the chief place of interest. The Advertiser will bulletin the games, play by play, this year as in the past. This year's service will be the fastest and best obtainable, arrangements having been completed for a wire from the Polo grounds and Shibe Park right into The Advertiser office.

TORONTO, Sept. 26.—Union Stockyards,

WARREN CORYELL, ex-Varsity Rugby player, who is coaching the Parkdale Rugby squad.

The run here yesterday totaled 152 cars, containing 2,612 cattle, 635 calves, 1,512 hogs, and 3,556 sheep and lambs. The closing day saw no change in the cattle market. Prices on all grades remained firm with the opening and trade was fairly brisk. There was a good demand for the better quality of butcher cattle, but as has been the case all week, the commoner grades were harder to dispose of. The call for stockers for Buffalo was fair, but not as good as in the former part of the week. Prices, however, did not decline. Feeders for distillery purposes were an active trade at very low prices. There was no change in sheep, lamb and calves, all trades remaining firm with the opening and each showing a fairly active tone. Hogs closed at Wednesday's increased prices, each class showing a range of about 10c above the opening day's quotations. The outlook for next week is good. There is little indication of another exceptional run, and the market should get off to a good start. The past week has not been good as far as the quality of the shipments was concerned, much stock being of a low grade. Next week, however, should show a more uniform quality, and the market should open firmer than this week. The trade for stockers is as yet uncertain, but they, too, will probably find a good sale during the coming market. Hogs have recovered from their slump and will open at about 10c above today's prices. Sheep and lambs are not likely to show any material change, while calves will undoubtedly remain at their present high figure.

THERE'S QUALITY

We Don't Rely On the Price As the Attractive Feature

CHOICE OF MATERIAL Suit or Overcoat MADE TO ORDER

Another thing that goes to the attraction of our clothing is the fact that our business is one long established. It is not a fly-by-night affair with a signboard as the lure, but a concern which depends on the fitness of each suit and overcoat turned out to promote further patronage. Every garment sold by the SCOTLAND WOOLEN MILLS COMPANY is regarded as an advertisement.

The streets east and west, north and south, are made strikingly attractive either day or night, by the screaming advertisements of the "one-price" tailors. It wasn't like that a few years ago, and we take no little satisfaction in looking at them, for we flatter ourselves we caused the transformation. Don't think, however, that there is any competition where we are concerned, for there is not. We have the only "Mill-to-Man" proposition in the business, and our clothes are still in that class by themselves, as when we stuck up our sign board in Canada some years ago.

AT THE SEASON'S END.
The dusk comes soon and the game is slow; Only a day or two until The stands are bare and the park is still; Only a day or two to score The winning run to a frenzied roar; The players file through the home-bound gate— The season ends—but the Records wait.

The dusk comes soon whatever the game: The day is brief on the trail of Fame; But we loaf along and we loaf ahead; Till the race is run and the dream is dead; Until, far back of the winning score, We find that we come back to bat no more.

We curse the luck, and we call it Fate— The season ends—but the Records wait.

HEAVILY FINED

Mr. and Mrs. Garrison Insulted Young People on Street.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Sarnia, Sept. 26.—Mr. and Mrs. John Garrison were fined $5 each in police court today for using insulting language to two young girls and their boy friends. The young couples were standing on the street corner talking when the Garrisons came along. It was then that the insulting and uncalled-for remarks were made. The young people made no reply to the taunts, but complained to the police. Mrs. Garrison was up last August for a similar offence.
