EMPRESS S. SCHOOL HOLDS CELEBRATION

Sunday Devoted to Forty-Second Anniversary of the Organization.

INSTALLATION SERVICE

Helpful Address By Rev. G. N. Hazen, Rev. J. E. Millard and Rev. Mr. Cozens.

The forty-second Sunday school anniversary at Empress S. School, Methodist Church, yesterday was one of the most successful in the history of the school. Rev. G. N. Hazen, who presided, in the morning, as he drew some valuable lessons from the postage stamp. In the afternoon Rev. J. E. J. Millard gave a most helpful talk on the Bible, using each letter in the word "Bible" to illustrate the book itself. Mr. Millard also gave a most helpful and inspiring address in the evening, on the value of the Sunday school to the scholar, to the worker, to the church and to the nation. The installation service in the afternoon conducted by the pastor, Rev. T. Wesley Cozens, was very impressive. The Sunday school orchestra and choir, also the regular church choir, furnished splendid music during the day. Great credit is due to Mr. R. G. Bowie and Miss Dewey for the musical program.

CAN'T KEEP SUNDAY WITHOUT A LAW

Secretary of Lord's Day Alliance Addresses Londoner's on Sabbath Observance.

MUST BE A HOLY DAY

Tells What Alliance Has Done To Secure Day of Rest For the Workers.

Rev. W. M. Rochester, secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance, addressed the meeting in the Y. M. C. A. Auditorium Sunday afternoon on the subject of Sunday observance. "The law touches industrial liberty, not religious liberty," he said. "Seventh Day Adventists don't have to work on Saturday, and they don't have to worship on Sunday, but they must keep the national rest day. We couldn't have a Sabbath without law, any more than a man could have a garden without a fence where animals run at large. The law only makes it possible for a man to have a Sabbath day. It remains with each man himself to say how he will spend it."

"Motormen and conductors on street cars and others who have to work on Sundays, forget that they owe their one day's rest in seven to the efforts of the Lord's Day Alliance."

"Sunday," said Rev. Mr. Rochester, "can only be kept as a holy day. Sunday excursions and concerts are responsible for seven-day bondage for tens of thousands of workers in England."

Referring to a Toronto weekly, which does not always agree with the viewpoint of the Lord's Day Alliance, Mr. Rochester said that "if what it says about finance and other matters contains as little truth as what it says about the Lord's Day Alliance, then it is indeed a blind leader of the blind."

Rev. Mr. Rochester concluded his address by telling what the alliance had done for bank clerks, drug clerks, freight handlers and what workers in lessening or preventing their labor on Sundays.

Mr. W. Stewart contributed a solo to the musical part of the program.

Too Much Frivolity. Mr. Rochester spoke at the King Street Presbyterian Church in the evening. He said: "The frivolous treatment of the Sabbath is responsible for unfounded criticism of the Lord's Day Alliance, yet our Sunday is the foundation of Canada's industrial prosperity. The superiority of the English-speaking race is due to their religious keeping of the Sabbath. There are people who would make Sunday a holiday instead of a holy day. These are people with low foreheads, high collars and empty laughs. You can buy collars, but you have to work for brains. The holiday Sunday saps the foundations of life and we must arrive at a correct estimate of the Sabbath or we will be going from one extreme to the other, from the open Sunday to the rigorously closed one."

"What we need is a Sabbath that shall give all men rest as far as it is possible to do so. The Lord's Day Alliance does not say that a man must go to church on Sunday, it only insists that every man shall have one day's rest in seven. The Lord's Day act is the only charter today that provides one day in seven to every man. There is a lot of unjust criticism of the alliance for attempting to enforce the act. But, you know, no law ever goes unless it is pushed."

GENIAL PREACHING AND GENIAL LIVING

Christ's Method of Teaching the Gospel the Best for Lost World.

At the Hamilton Road Presbyterian Church last evening Rev. Dr. McCrae preached to a large congregation on "God's Search for a Lost World." "This man receiveth sinners and eateth with them," was the text. The Pharisees and scribes murmured against the Saviour and criticised him. They thought him too genial in his preaching and teaching. "I believe in genial preaching and teaching and living," said Dr. McCrae. "But this does not mean the discussion of little, gossip, frivolous themes in the pulpit. People come to the house of prayer to worship, and are often sent away with a blessing and no better than when they came. Our preaching of the great themes of the Bible will hold men to eternal things. The trouble with us today is that we are losing our grip of a personal God in Jesus Christ. When we have no grip of God we lose everything."

APPEAL OF CHINA VISION FROM GOD

Request of New Republic For Prayer a Wonderful Thing.

SAYS REV. J. H. BOYD

Need for Many More Men to Preach the Gospel in Far-Off Lands.

On Sunday, at Adelaide Street Baptist Church, Rev. J. H. Boyd preached on "The Appeal of China." Taking as his text Paul's vision of the man from Macedonia, the preacher said: "This is one of the rare instances of a special vision from God. Paul got a vision of the needs of Macedonia and went over and helped them. Men like Robert Eaton, who are often sent away with a blessing and no better than when they came. Our preaching of the great themes of the Bible will hold men to eternal things. The trouble with us today is that we are losing our grip of a personal God in Jesus Christ. When we have no grip of God we lose everything."

BASES DISCOURSE ON GREAT PSALM

SHEPHERDHOOD OF GOD

Describes the Eastern Shepherd Life in Order to Illustrate His Text.

Mr. Hugh McFarlane, B.A., recently appointed assistant to Rev. Dr. Ross, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, conducted his first service in that church Sunday morning. The theme of his discourse was "A Song of Peace," and he based his remarks upon the 23rd Psalm.

"This psalm," he said, "has been compared to a pearl among precious stones, a harp among many sweet-toned instruments, or a lark among songbirds. It is a song of peace, and as we read it, we feel that it came about the heart of one who knew what peace was."

In order to properly understand the psalm, Mr. McFarlane said that it was necessary to know something of shepherd life in eastern countries, which, he said, was widely different from sheep-raising in Ontario. On most farms in this country it is taken up merely as a side-line, while in the east whole communities depend upon it for their livelihood.

He gave a vivid description of the life of the average eastern shepherd, showing his close relationship with the sheep, and how they are dependent upon him during the whole of their lives.

"There are thousands of people," he said, "who have not yet realized the shepherdhood of God. Amid the humdrum cares and pleasures of every-day life, they forget that God has been leading them beside the still waters."

He urged his hearers to come to a fuller realization that all through life God's hand is guiding them, and they are perfectly safe if they will only trust Him.

Miss Gladys Shaw rendered a solo in pleasing manner at the offertory.

PLAY COMBINATION AND NOT THE MAN

GET CLOSE TO ALMIGHTY

Noted Toronto Social Worker Addresses Men's League of Askin Street Church.

Mr. Robert Y. Eaton, of Toronto, was the principal speaker at the platform meeting held in Askin Street Methodist Church on Sunday night, which commemorated the first anniversary of the Men's League of that church. Other speakers were Mr. J. M. Gunn, president of the Federation of Men's Leagues of the city; Mr. A. E. Miller, president of the Askin Street League; Mr. John McArthur and Rev. W. H. Harvey.

Mr. Eaton, speaking from the text: "Such as I have, give I Thee," said that the success attained by Peter, Stephen, Paul and other men of the Old and New Testaments was due to the fact that they were in close touch with God.

Get Close to God. "You can come to church and sing and pray, but unless you get in touch with God, you lose the principle of Christianity. Oh, fellows, let us get close to God, so that we get our hearts and lives so full of Him that when a man comes in contact with us he cannot keep away. When a man gets into your business, and your business gets into him, you cannot let him go."

The bosses have to keep him and raise his salary. It is the low-priced, indifferent workman that is easily replaced. If you come in contact with God, and get close to Him, it will be impossible for you to leave Him and succeed."

Quotes Hockey Team. Mr. Eaton also referred to the London hockey team, and the final game with the Montreal Canadiens, which he witnessed. The London team, in his opinion, played the man too much, and neglected the combination. Clean play and combination is needed in the church in order to obtain successful results. The church plays the man too much and forgets the goal. "It is up to us men to get a hold on the man in the gutter and bring him to God. By the means of bringing God and your fellow men together, it is a wonderful work. Read the Word of God and pray, and you will have good success. One great problem to the fact is that of the young girls between the ages of 15 and 19 years. They are getting down in the streets more than ever before. It is not that the world is getting worse, I think that the men and women are getting better, but the girls have their clubs. We should go to these clubrooms, and see if the conditions are right. Young men of today do not work as much as they should, and yet they have money for gambling, ten-cent shows and cigarettes. Where they get it I do not know. As a final word of advice, let me ask you to get in touch with God, and let people know that something good is near them, because it is up to you."

The Laymen's Movement.

The work of the recently-organized Men's Federation was outlined by Mr. Gunn. The object of the federation is to make all the men workers for the good of the city. The Laymen's Missionary Movement is a man's work, and has met with success because of the organization. While the various men's leagues can do good, the federation will be able to cover all parts of the city, and many more problems."

He emphasized the need of united effort. Great nations had resulted from the union of a number of small states, and in the business and industrial life of a country there were unions, trusts and combines. In religious life there were also unions, the Methodists and Presbyterians, being bodies formed of smaller ones, and the movement is on foot for the union of these two bodies with the Congregationalists to form a large Christian church. While much good work is being done under secular auspices the best is the result of work with God.

During the service an anthem was rendered by a male choir of 50 voices, and a quartette by Messrs. E. W. G. Quantz, A. M. Hunt, W. Biggs and Ward. The congregation was large, and the centre aisles of the church were completely filled with men.

TAX WILL BRING IN $70,000,000

Tariff Bill Hits Big Incomes, But Is Easy on Small Ones.

A NEW ERA FOR THE U.S.

Representative Rainey and Other Speakers Strongly in Favor of Measure.

[Canadian Press.] Washington, D. C., April 28.—A rush of speech-making on the final day of general debate on the tariff bill made lively proceedings in the House. Most of the members had held back with a view to getting the large audiences expected with the closing of the general debate, and the shifting of the consideration of the Underwood tariff revision to a reading of the measure under the five-minute rule, beginning tomorrow.

Chairman Underwood has not changed his view that the bill should be disposed of in the House within a week from today, and that the sugar schedule is not likely to offer much real trouble. He hoped that unless the fight of the anti-free wool advocates spreads, the bill will emerge from the Senate substantially in the form in which it stands.

A New Era. Representative Rainey, of Illinois, who had charge of the agriculture schedule of the bill as a member of the ways and means committee, Representative Murdock, of Kansas, the leader of the Progressives, along with Representative Chandler, of New York, and others of that party, and some of the big guns of the Republicans, were on today's speaking program. Mr. Rainey declared that he will represent the dawn of a new era in the Government's fiscal policy, "making lighter the burdens of taxes upon consumers and compelling great wealth to contribute its fair share toward paying the Government expenses." He pointed out that no government that had adopted an income tax system and given it fair trial had repealed it. "We make the tax highest upon the great incomes and lowest upon the small incomes, taxing 425,000 in all, and expecting to collect from them at least $3,000,000,000."

Will Affect 125,000. He said the tax would reach 125,000 incomes, that amount to between $4,000 and $5,000 a year, from which the Government expects to collect only $500,000, an average of 45 per cent, and would reach 100 incomes amounting to more than $1,000,000 each per year from which a collection of nearly $3,000,000 is expected. Mr. Rainey said he knew of no swollen fortune which had not been made possible by the favors of Government, and that a protective tariff conferred upon protected interests the right not only to levy taxes, but to collect and distribute them in dividends to the holders of watered stocks.

"Nearly everything the consumer buys is taxed and the taxes he pays if he buys American goods do not find their way into the treasury of the United States," said Mr. Rainey.

WILL END ALLIANCE

He declared that the revision would end the alliance between the protected woolen mills of the east and the wool-producing states of the west.

"This," he concluded, "is not a free trade bill, but it will fall of its purpose if it does not bring about a freer exchange between the products of this and other countries, each nation, each section, producing what it is best adapted to produce, and trading its products for the products of other sections and nations."

Democratic Leader Underwood, the framer of the new tariff bill, contends the United States is entirely within its rights in the provisions of the bill against which foreign nations have protested. The clause which would grant a 5 per cent tariff preference on goods imported on American vessels, and which has caused protests from a number of nations, Mr. Underwood says, is to encourage the building of American ships, and he believes it violates no treaty.

The French protest is against the provision that foreign manufacturers and exporters shall submit their books to United States agents when demanded. This clause, Mr. Underwood declares, does not mean that the United States is going to try to learn the secrets of foreign manufacturers, as it will be used only in cases where there is reason to suspect that goods have been undervalued.

Excuse haste and a bad pen, is obsolete in modern business correspondence and is rapidly becoming so in social correspondence.

A hand-written letter inevitably has a repellent effect upon the business man who opens it. His first thought is that his correspondent who writes "longhand" isn't modern—isn't progressive—isn't up-to-date—in fact isn't a good business man.

Typewriter type, on the contrary, has a compactness, clarity and precision which begets confidence—and business.

The Monarch Typewriter

solves in a very satisfactory way the vexed problem—"what typewriter?"

It combines solidity of construction with a remarkable lightness of touch.

It is one of the newest typewriters on the market but it is making up in friends for what it lacks in years.

Stenographers like it, Business men endorse it, and Monarch letters need no excuse.
