TURKISH CABINET RESIGNED.
Minister of War Assassinated—Looks Like More War.

Constantinople, January 23.—Nasim Pasha, the former War Minister, and commander of the Turkish army, was shot dead during demonstrations here today.

Nasim Pasha was shot during the demonstrations which preceded the resignation of the Cabinet. Enver Bey and Talaat Bey had given explicit orders that no blood should be shed, but Nasim Pasha's Aide-de-Camp fired from a window of the Porte at Enver Bey and his companions, and they returned the fire.
Their bullets killed Nasim Pasha himself. In spite of this tragedy there was no disturbance of order elsewhere.

The Turkish Cabinet resigned because the National Assembly decided to give Adrianople to the Bulgarian Allies and the Aegean Islands to the Great Powers.

The young Turks party are now in power, and whether that means more war is still in the balance.

The Allies at the Peace Conference are more than angry at the turn of affairs in Constantinople, and they are in no mood to be further trifled with.

RURAL CONTENTMENT.

"Some way when I visit in a village or city, there comes over me a pent-up feeling. The sameness of it is tiresome, and I doubt if I could enjoy it as well as my country home with its broad, fertile acres. Back of the house we see the hills and woods, and I often think of the words, 'The strength of the hills is His also.' I wonder if I should be as contented should I ever leave the home where the happiest and best years of my life have been spent."

WOMEN DIVE FOR PEARLS.

The pearl-divers of Japan are women. Along the coasts of the Bay of Ago and the Bay of Kokasho the thirteen and fourteen year old girls, after they have finished the primary school work, go to sea and learn to dive. They are in the water and learn to swim almost from baby-hood. They wear a special dress, with the hair twisted up into a hard knot. The eyes are protected by goggles to prevent the entrance of water.

A boat in company of men is assigned to every five or ten women divers to carry them to and from the fishing grounds. When the divers arrive on the grounds they leap into the water at once and begin to gather oysters at the bottom.

The oysters are dropped into tubs suspended from their waists. When these are filled the divers are raised to the surface and jump into the boats.

They dive to a depth of from five to thirty fathoms without any special apparatus, and retain their breath from one to three minutes.—Stray Stories.

BOYS, LOOK!

"Pipes Out, No Smoking!"—Two of the largest American concerns, the United States Steel and American Bridge Corporation, have issued orders forbidding the use of tobacco by their employees while at work, on the ground that it is an injury to health.

Bob Bredette, in his wise way, says:

"My son, as long as thou hast in thy skull the sense of a jay bird, break from the cigarette, for lo, it causeth thy breath to stink like a glue factory; it rendereth thy mind less intelligent than that of a cigar store dummy, yer, thou art a cipher with the rim knocked off."

"We do not employ boys in the Larkin office who smoke cigarettes.
An applicant addicted to the use of cigarettes would hardly interest us; but if he seemed to possess qualifications that made him desirable, he would have to decide between the cigarettes and the job."—W. R. Heath

CIVIC REPRESENTATIVES AT ANNAPOLIS.

A meeting of the joint committees of the incorporated towns of Bridgetown, Middleton and Annapolis Royal met a special committee from the County Council on Wednesday evening last, in the office of the Town Clerk to talk over the matter of assessment between towns and county. Considerable discussion was entered into, but no feasible scheme was propounded that was considered in advance of the present methods of settlement considering present conditions.

Mayor Goucher, Councillors Gates and B. H. H. represented Middleton; Clerk H. Ruggles and Councillor Salter the towns of Bridgetown, and Mayor Hawkesworth, Clerk F. W.

JAPAN'S FLOWERS.

Wealth of Beauty Confronts Eye of Traveler on Every Hand.

Japan is a kingdom of flowers. Each month of the year has its favorite, and it is always a question whether the chrysanthemum or the cherry blossom is entitled to be called the national flower.

In April the cherry trees are radiant with blossoms. Usually pink in color, these beautiful flowers grow in clusters several inches wide. They have been the favorite theme for the songs of poets for centuries, and are to Japan what the rose is to western nations. Their blooming time is the occasion of one of the national festivals. Some avenues in the island kingdom are lined with these resplendent trees and are noted for their rare beauty and coloring. In Tokio there is a little river which, in April, for a distance of two miles, flows between banks laden with these blosoms. People come for miles around to behold the beautiful blossoms, and the newspapers announce each day the variations in color assumed as the trees come into their full regal splendor. Maps of the city are sold on which are indicated by pink dots the location of the cherry groves. A perfect cascade of rich bouquets, in clouds of pale pink blossoms, stretches out in the perspective and all nature seems to sing the requiem of the winter and the glad tidings of the vernal birth.

The glory of the month of August is the sacred lotus flower, which is, par excellence, the emblem of the Buddhist faith. But the chrysanthemum, because it is longer in bloom than any other native flower, is regarded as the emblem of longevity, and perhaps better than any kindred bloom, typifies the national character.

The chrysanthemum is, of course, the November bloom, but the Japanese are wonderful floriculturists and they manage to have almost all the flowers indigenous to the country for their autumnal festivals. There is a gorgeous natural display which in Japan adorns with a continuous brilliance the path of the revolving year, but in the autumn the grandeur of the foliage surpasses anything in the world. The maple trees, in the poetic language of the land, then put on their damask robes, and the varicolored leaves are regarded by the natives as flowers, as part of Queen Flora's decorative scheme.

On one occasion when I visited Japan in the fall, writes an enthusiastic traveler, although the ground was covered with a white frost, the chrysanthemum was in the full blush of its maturity and the foliage rivalled the changing colors of the kaleidoscope. There was every shade of orange, green, vermillion, red and purple, which, in the light of any climate, would have been beautiful, but here, at the first touch of dawn, the vision was one never to be forgotten, comparable with nothing we had ever beheld even in my own glorious California. Now we walked through the fallen foliage as if deep, now it dropped overhead, and before us stretched a path glittering with the bright crystals of frost which reflected the brilliant colors of the autumn leaves like jewels in the diadem of an Indian queen, an Egyptian princess or a wind of some diamond-decked grotto.

Japan's Pancake Women.

One of the familiar sights on the streets of a Japanese town is the pancake woman, who, with her little brazier of coals and her tiny frying pan, is usually found on a corner not far from a school. She has a bowl full of delicious batter, a ladle and a cake turner, and there is apt to be a hungry crowd around her little stand as soon as school is out, for not many of the children are able to resist the smell of the crisp pancakes, at least if they have any money. For a very small coin a child may fry and turn his own cakes, and happy is the one who has a number of coins in his little kimono sleeve and can fry and eat to his heart's content.

Advertising.

Until business is successful without a proper store, proper employees and the right amount of capital it must be assumed that these three conditions are essential to the conduct of profitable trade, and it is as obvious that so long as advertising accomplishes the business of profit advertising is necessary for the upbuilding of business. The mere appearance of advertising indicates that business is being done or will be done, and so long as everybody prefers to buy of men of success rather than of men of failure just so long will the man who advertises be likely to do the largest business.

Beating the Waiter.

One of the regular customers of a city restaurant observed for several mornings that when serving the dishes a new waiter would invariably get his fingers in the meat and vegetable dishes. When the aforesaid waiter came around to the table one morning the customer gave the following order, supplemented with some sarcastic comment:

"Give me two hard boiled eggs with the shells on a coconut and a pot of ten. Now, get your fingers in 'em, will you?"

Her Course in Life.

"Professor," said Miss Skylight, "I want you to suggest a course in life for me. I have thought of journalism."

"What are your natural inclinations?"

"O, my soul yearns, and throbs, and palpitates with an ambition to give the world a lifework that shall be marvelous in scope and weirdly structured in the vastness of its structural beauty!"

"Woman, you're born to be a milli-ner."

The Persian Apron.

An apron is the Persian royal standard. A Persian who was a blacksmith by trade raised a successful revolt, and his leather apron, covered with jewels, is still borne in the van of Persian armies.

Carmangay

"The Star of Alberta"

PAST The splendid strategic site of Carmangay was discovered by a far-seeing, shrewd railway engineer attracted to the district by the lure of the finest wheat in the Canadian West. He saw a new lands where the wide canyons of the Little Bow River narrows to a point. Here must all railways cross. The C. P. R. came and the shipping center created went ahead by leaps and bounds.

PRESENT Carmangay to-day is a thriving incorporated town, with not less than 53 business places. Her up-to-date electric and natural water supply systems are owned and operated by the people. Carmangay boasts an eight-roomed schoolhouse, two banks and four big elevators, shipping over a million bushels in 1911 and 1½ millions in 1912. Carmangay has coal mines operating, and the entire district is underlaid with coal of finest Galt quality.

FUTURE Carmangay grows as Alberta grows. That means a wonderful future. Four new railroads are heading for Carmangay. Four new elevators are trying to cope with the tremendous wheat yields of the district. The mines are opening up splendid prospects. Carmangay is being rapidly developed into one of the greatest towns in the Canadian West. YOU can just as confidently invest in Carmangay as her own people do, who are building in brick and stone for a tremendous future. Carmangay has her own supply of finest brick clay and stone right at her doors, and will soon supply her sister cities in Alberta.

ATTEMPT TO ROB BANK AT ED- MONTON FOILED BY LIVER- POOL YOUTH.

Edmonton, Alta., Jan. 26.—The most daring bank robbery in the history of this city, was pulled off, at half-past twelve this morning, in the most thickly populated part of the city.

Two unknown masked men, carrying a coil of rope, entered the Bank of Nova Scotia, and at the point of the gun demanded of the only person in the building, a ledger-keeper named Clare West, that he throw up his hands.

West refused to comply and a desperate struggle ensued, while many late pedestrians passed by, totally unaware of what was going on inside the bank. Eventually the robbers managed to bind West and hurriedly proceeded to the outer safe, which they rifled of a hundred dollars.

While they were continuing the search, West managed to secure his revolver, which was lying nearby, and fired four shots at the men.
They returned the fire, hitting him in the fore arm. Then they made their escape through the rear, while those on the outside who heard the shots were unable to get in the front door, which the robbers had locked after them.

Inquiry this morning at the local agency of the Bank of Nova Scotia elicited the information that young West, the hero of the occasion, is a native of Liverpool, Nova Scotia.
He is a son of F. C. West, and has been in the employ of the Bank for little over a year. He is about twenty years of age.

MANY YOUNG LIVES SAVED

Says the Victoria (B.C.) Colonist:
"Two hundred orphan children were saved from fire in Montreal by the use of the fire drill. Forty years ago fire drills in schools were unknown. It happened one day that a newspaper editor in St. John (N.B.) said, good-by to his little children at the door of a school house several stories in height. The thought occurred to him that a fire in that building would surely be attended with grave loss of life.
When he reached his office he wrote for the Daily Telegraph an editorial calling on the school board to institute a system of fire drill. The board acted immediately on the suggestion. The School Board at Boston, Massachusetts, followed suit, and one board after another all over America fell into line. How many young lives have been saved as the result of this newspaper suggestion it would be very hard to say."
