A FEW WORDS ON A CANADIAN POLITICAL COIN.

BY WILLIAM KINGSFORD, ESQUIRE.

(Concluded.)

HE Quebec Gazette, started with the view of sustaining this clique, directed its efforts to create what is called a British party. Judged by their professed creed, the French Canadian has always been purely British. His attempts have always been directed to claim his priviledge as such. It is he who reminded Sir James Craig, that these were not the days of the French Intendents. In all the difficulties with which he has had to struggle, he has never been tempted to threaten a southern connexion as an extrication for them. Men, however, are always ready to catch at words, and in this case the trap was baited with all that prejudice could suggest. Mr. Cary, the editor of the paper, inaugurated much of the bitterness which subsequently arose. The Assembly, however, were not to be outdone, and on some journalistic criticism, Mr. Berthelot, in his place declared, that Mr. Carey had presumed to interfere with the proceedings of the House. Mr. Carey was taken into custody and very humbly apologised. So he was allowed to return to
