THE WEEK

A JOURNAL FOR MEN AND WOMEN.

A POET'S LAST WORDS.

Go little book! and meet what greeting Canada gives thee,
Good report or ill, purchasers many or few—
Go with thy verse-wreath, sought from woodland, river and hillside,
Record of fifteen years lived in the Maple Leaf land,
Quint's calm blue bay, and Ottawa's hurrying waters,
Or where the City Queen sits by Ontario's wave:
Now 'mid the stately streets, and now 'mid wilderness sylvan,
Home and mirror and bath, still of the Dryad unscared,
Yet they have soothed my days, those well-known classical echoes,
Yet 'mid life's losses and cares, HOMER and HORACE were mine.
