

Beacon Hill Park

NOT content with the many lovely beaches which almost encircle the city, Victorians have a beautiful resort in Beacon Hill Park. The name is due to the fact that in the early days this commanding eminence was used for beacons to warn mariners of dangerous reefs off-shore. The park is a happy combination of the natural and the artificial. The lake shown here is inhabited by swans and ducks, an unfailing source of pleasure to the children.