Between the Acts.

Man (rising wearily to let late comer pass to his seat in the theater): "This eternal getting up is really annoying." Late Comer: "I know it is. That is the reason I never come in myself till the curtain is up."—Texas Siftings.

Actors are charitable. The record of their humanitarianism is wide horizoned. Their giving does not restrict itself to their own kind, but is made conspicuous in every line of outgo for sweet charity's sake. The public should recognize that generosity and on all fitting occasions reciprocate it.

The editor sat on a hard bottom chair, trying to think a thought, and he plunged all his fingers about through his hair, but not on topic they brought. He had written on temperance, tariff and trade, and the prospect of making a crop, and joked about making ice cream and weak lemonade, till his readers had told him to stop. And weary of thinking, sleep came to his eyes, and he pillowed his head on the desk, when the thoughts which awake had refused to arise, came in troops that were strong and grotesque. And as the ideas airy float, he selects the bright one of the tribe; and this is the gem which, while dreaming he wrote:—"Now is the time to subscribe."—Eaton Rapids Herald.

HELPING HIM OUT.

He was a bashful lover and had courted her long. She knew he loved her and knew that he was afraid to propose. She resolved to help him out.

"When I get married I hope to see you at my wedding," she said.

"Heavens!" he gasped, "I hoped to marry you myself."
"Well," she rejoined, as her cheeks flushed to the hue of a rosy sunset, "I meant I hoped to see you there as the groom." Then he fainted with joy.—New York Press.

Some careful person has estimated that there are 500,000,000 hairpins in daily use, not counting any of those the stable man picks up the next morning on the cushions of the sleigh.—Boston Globe.
