Orders for Fall Come in Well in Face of Advancing

Prices.

Bradstreet's weekly report says of trade in Toronto: Wholesale drygoods houses state that the belated spell of real summer weather has meant some activity in the line of wash goods, but dealers have been forced owing to the lateness of the season to dispose of these materials in job lots, at a sacrifice. Wholesale drygoods trade is as a rule dull during the month of July, but it is expected that this year, July will show up well in the year's aggregate. Business to date shows an enormous increase over the same period a year ago. The continued inability to secure certain lines of materials has been the cause of some difficulties in meeting the requirements of the trade, but on the other hand orders for fall have been coming in well, even in the face of advancing prices. Collections have been good.

In groceries there is a steady normal trade being done. Sugar is unchanged in price, and supplies appear to be fairly ample for the demand. Fruits are coming along in good quantities but a heavy demand from the canners has kept prices at unusually high figures. Eggs continue at high levels but this week consumption has fallen off considerably. Butter is easier. Live stock prices again receded this week, but the hog market is strong. The grain trade is fairly aetive in regard to corn, there being quite a demand for the milling grades. New crop barley is offering in Essex

New crop barley is offering in Essex County, and Toronto dealers are bid-ding $1.26 for it at shipping points.
