BAD WEATHER IN THE BAY

Steamers Which Arrived This Morning Had Rough Time in Yesterday's Gale.

The Donaldson line steamship Athenia, Captain McNill, arrived in port this morning at nine o'clock from Glasgow, with 205 passengers and a large general cargo, including 7,824 bags Scotch hard coal, nine stock horses and 1,025 packages of sugar.

The steamer was off the mouth of the Bay of Fundy in yesterday's storm, when it blew a gale of wind, and there were heavy snow squalls.

The Athenia will go into No. 3 berth at the west end this afternoon to land her passengers and cargo for the west, after which she will come over to the east side and dock at the new city wharf.

The Furness line steamer St. John City, Captain Evey, arrived this morning from London, via Halifax, with a large general cargo. This steamer had a very rough time coming around from Halifax, meeting yesterday's storm off the coast of Nova Scotia and at the mouth of the Bay of Fundy.

For four hours it blew a gale with heavy snow and it was hard to keep the steamer under control. The captain reports that he sighted a steamer last night off the Lurcher light, probably the West India steamer Olanda from Bermuda, now two days overdue. She will probably be here this afternoon.

The Boston steamer Galva Austin, in command of Captain Thompson, arrived in port this morning from Boston, via Eastport, with 30 passengers. The Austin arrived at Eastport on schedule time and stayed there on account of the storm. The steamer will sail for Boston and Maine ports tomorrow morning.

The steamship Olanda, Captain Bridges, arrived this afternoon from Bermuda, Windward Islands and Demerara, with passengers and general cargo. The steamer met yesterday's storm off the mouth of the Bay. The trip up from Bermuda was very hazardous which made the Olanda two days overdue.

Edward F. McSweeney Addresses Boston College Alumni Sodality

(Boston Post.) The February meeting of the Catholic Alumni Sodality, which was held yesterday morning in the chapel hall of Boston College, brought together the largest number of members gathered at any such function for a long time.

Aside from the members present were many gentlemen prominent in Catholic affairs. Henry V. Cunningham presided. The special feature of the meeting was an address on "Immigration" by Edward F. McSweeney.

He claimed that "the more immigrants the higher becomes the wage-scale." "The immigrants who come to us now come as individuals to a nation foreign in customs, manners and government to the one they left," he declared.

"The immigrants to French Canada did more to bring civilization and Christian influence to the aborigines than all the other colonies combined," he stated. The Rev. Thomas I. Gasson, S. J., president of Boston College, made a brief address.

This is a stirring drama of modern life and character. The scene is laid on the coast of Maine. The play possesses a powerful heart interest, genuine comedy, powerful situations and grand climaxes.
