the east end; among these alone there are at least 400 children. Another lady in the west records 200 visits to families, but as all the visitors did not record the number of visits paid, merely the number of families assisted, the number of visits cannot be given.

It has been the aim of the visitors to foster a spirit of independence and self-reliance by giving work and tools instead of gratuitous help. One hundred and seventeen garments have been made by those who have received help; several children have been taken care of who would have been sadly neglected. A great quantity of cast-off clothing has been collected and distributed, and very much individual charity given, which has been called forth by tales of sorrow which the visitors have made known. The incidental good done in this way cannot be recorded here, but is not forgotten by Him who has said—"Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."
