MILLICENT and MAGOO

Criticism is an impersonal thing, or so we are led to believe. Mr. Bolster attacked the character of L.L. rather than his criticism. In his opinion the Red 'n' Black was sadly lacking. We agree perhaps not to the extent of Mr. L.L. It was obvious that an M.C. would have lent continuity to the show, that there was an overload of outworn humour and that originality was lacking. However the show did have some good points. Model Parliament was terrific. The best variety show of the year and an educational one at that. It seemed to us that the C.A.'s should have won a fleur-de-Lis and a Shamrock while the others should have sported Union Jacks. All in all it was a great success — Don't miss it next year . . .

Culture will invade the area in the next few weeks. My Fur Lady, The Canadian Players and the Seven Year Itch all promise escape of quickly approaching exams.

Also do have one last fling at the Con but the S.D.C. watches you so don't fling too high or too handsome. Big brother watches you and we must go and study.

A Smile, or two

1st Co-ed: Did you hear about the two brooms who had a little whisk?

2nd Co-ed: No. Why?

1st Co-ed: Well, it was so funny because they hadn't swept together.

One of the Engineering Students at UNB was extremely worried for fear that he had a dirty mind. So he decided that he would visit Professor Fletcher of the Psychology Department.

When Professor Fletcher had heard the case history he drew a square and asked the student what it reminded him of. The student replied, "Two people in bed." Thereupon the Professor drew a somewhat larger square and again asked the student's opinion. This time the student remarked, "Four people in bed." Again he drew a yet larger square and the young Engineer said "Why, it is eight people in bed."

At this point Professor Fletcher looked at the student and exclaimed, "You do have a dirty mind, don't you?" "Hell, no," said the student, "It's just those dirty pictures you've been drawing."

By the "Jones Boys"

Canada's Oddest Student Publication

Oh! the Jones' boys,
They're here again
Ain't it a shame
They're bad enough just once a week
But twice in that time sends us to l-k

Well, no-one put up a flag on our flagpole — it is good to see Sinn Fein Associates respect Residence traditions. Our flagpole is strictly reserved for the flags symbolic of pantie-raids . . .

A woman wrote to the "Gleaner" this week saying she preferred the girls in the Albert Street "Green 'n' Gold" Revue (Ages 6-9 inclusive?) to those in the "Red 'n' Black". We know which we prefer . . .

Certainly if the 'Red 'n' Black' controversy is kept up much longer it will be in time to be part of next year's publicity for the 1959 show . . .

"My Fur Lady" is here. Which reminds us to ask why "Around the World in 80 Minutes" isn't on the road yet. Is a Broadway offer involved?

As the snow thaws quickly, the spring is sprunging and all that jazz. And with a production of the "Seven Years Itch" just around the corner Love is once again in the air. Remember gang, whiskey gets 'em frisky, but rum gets . . . well, whatever you want out of life. . .

In Residence all is quiet, all are working hard — at least till Friday evening; which reminds us that's THIS evening.

LET'S GO . . .

An Ominous Note

To students who hope to pass their final examinations

Are you still living a life of leisure and liquor? . . . Then BEWARE . . . Exams are creeping up on you. Statistics prove that students taking FIVE (not six or seven) courses are still able to devote one and one-half weeks to each subject.

Of course we must take a bit of time to attend the last hockey games, basketball games, Tri-Service Ball, My Fur Lady, the Con, odd movies and last but not least a good rest over the Easter Holidays.

There are a few students on the campus who did start to at least think about exams shortly after the beginning of the term and even at the beginning of the year! These people will not have the worries that usually accompany writing examinations. At that time they will be able to take in all that goes on and still most likely come out with honours.

Those who are lagging behind in their work should take note of the following quotation: "He who starts studying last graduates last."

Two Red 'N' Blacks In '58 ? ? ? ?

Although the echoes of this year's Red 'n' Black have barely faded from hearing, already plans are forming for next year's Revue.

The biggest change yet known are the dates for the show. Until now it has been customary to present the Red 'n' Black in February or March, but the tentative dates for next year's Revue have been set for the third week in November.

Reasons for the change include the expanding Winter Carnival which takes so much time and energy of students who had previously used their talents for Red 'n' Black. Also many have started serious exams studying by February or March. On the other hand, the only big events of the Fall Term are the Residence and Fall Formals.

The Red 'n' Black next year will be produced by Bill Byrne, who, we hope, will be assisted by enthusiastic casts and crews. It would be appreciated if all of you would be on the alert for interesting skits or ideas during the coming holidays. Remember the Secret of Red 'n' Black is Hard Work and lots of SUP-PORT.

NEWMAN CLUB HOLD RETREAT

The Annual Newman Club retreat commences this evening at 7:30 in Rosary Hall. Father Duffy formerly of this Parish and presently of Halifax will conduct the retreat. Other times for the meetings will be announced at the first gathering this evening. At last Sunday's meeting Father Carrol enlightened Newman Club members about the Shrine at Lourdes.

Marie Dube reported on the National Federation of Newman Clubs regional conference held in Moncton recently. President John Reinsborough asked for nominations for the '58-'59 executive to be handed in at the next meeting.

The remainder of the evening was taken up with a Social in conjunction with the C.Y.O.
