Pioneer craft demonstrated

Betty Dewar, an instructor with the Peel Board of Education, demonstrated rug knitting at The Bradley House last weekend. The demonstration was one of a series of exhibitions of pioneer arts and crafts which the museum stages Sunday afternoons. Admission is free. For more information, phone 822-4884.

Proposal may scuttle regional condo groups

A proposal to decentralize Condominium Ontario into nine regional corporations could mean the death knell of regional groups such as Peel Condominium Association (PCA) says a local man.

Ken Oakes, a condominium owner in Park Royal, is strongly opposed to the plan, which was drafted by representatives of the Federation of Ontario Condominium Associations (FOCA) and representatives of the board of directors of Condominium Ontario.

The proposal calls for establishment of nine regional condominium corporations which would each have a three-man staff.

The new proposals came about because of dissatisfaction of FOCA and regional associations with the role of Condominium Ontario in its first year of operation.

Mr. Oakes claims any regional association which agrees to the plan is "signing its own death warrant." The proposed regional corporations are "grandiose, bureaucratic and unnecessary" claims the Bromsgrove Rd. resident.

The underlying problem in condominiums is that the owner's interests aren't necessarily represented, said Mr. Oakes.

"Many boards are self-serving and self-seeking and don't represent the owners' interests," he said. The regional associations don't necessarily represent the corporations' interests and the provincial organization (FOCA) doesn't necessarily represent the regional associations' interests."

Do You Love Them Enough To Keep Them?

It is often difficult to show our family how much we love them. A family group portrait is the perfect way to capture your love, and your loved ones, and hold them forever.

A professional portrait will provide a beautiful tribute to your loving family long after they've grown and left home.

Don't let another year slip by without capturing your memories in a family portrait.

For a limited time we will be calling families in the Mississauga area, at random, and offering them a Complimentary home family portrait sitting, plus a free enlargement.

Just in time for Christmas.
