(from telegram of Christmas Moeller, former Danish Minister of Commerce (escaped to Britain) said Denmark was half starved by Nazi-occupation forces; most of middle class and working people of Denmark had insufficient funds to feed themselves adequately; only some 200,000 farmers and wealthy people can get enough to eat no tea, coffee, or chocolate. He makes breakfast at home & the only meal it might come from being eaten at home. He claims other breakfasts are not available when he visits relatives & friends. His government has not yet taken any steps towards making things better. He says there is no chance of getting any food sent from abroad or in mind of any government in America.

In your opinion are standards & methods of living & of food eaten by you best of all countries? At the time Japan was invaded by the U.S. were their standards & methods of food eaten by Japanese better than those of the U.S.? Is it better to have a good government & good laws or a bad government & good laws? Is it better to have a good government & good laws or a bad government & bad laws?
