

MOUNT EVEREST

The expedition that set out to reach the summit of Mount Everest has failed in its objective. The brave, adventurous explorers were unable to conquer the lofty summit of the highest mountain on the earth. But though the expedition has failed, it has not been defeated. Again and again, perhaps, the hazardous attempt will be made, until success at last crowns the work, and man can reckon Mt. Everest among his many other conquests of earth, air, and water.

To stand where no man has stood before has had a peculiar fascination for mankind. To plant a foot upon the topmost pinnacle of the globe has become the acme of human endeavor in the physical world, since Peary discovered the Pole. By the same methods by which the Pole was reached, will the summit of Mt. Everest finally be attained. Repeated failures through long years finally resulted in success. Each time something new was learned, some obstacle avoided, some progress made. A small advance each year and the world awoke one morning to read the startling news that Peary had reached the Pole. So we may confidently expect that the 29,141 feet of Mt. Everest will yet surrender to the adventurous spirit of man.

What is the use of it all? How much better off will the world and its peoples be, if Mt. Everest is at last conquered? No better off, perhaps, nor happier in the material sense. But much better off in a higher sense, in the good that will come through the scientific investigation of the secrets of nature at high altitudes, and in the inspiration received from a brave deed done.

There is a mighty lesson to be learned from the labors of these intrepid explorers. Undeterred by obstacles, undaunted by perils, pushing onward and upward with the goal ever in sight, they have made of their present failure the stepping stone to future success. We all have Mt. Everests to climb. The life of man is a constant struggle onward and upward against seemingly overwhelming odds to the goal that the Creator keeps ever before us.

Happy are we if we take such precautions, learn such lessons, and persevere through apparent defeat until victory looms in sight. A little advance here, a slight objective gained there, some obstacle to our progress removed and some reserve strength brought forward, and the conquest of the spiritual life proceeds. Failures come as failures must come, but in the end, the persevering soul makes them but helps to victory. There is no finer line in Tennyson than that which tells the truth "that we may rise on stepping stones of our dead selves to higher things."

Not Mt. Everest the pinnacle of the earth is our goal, but the heaven which this majestic work of God's hands seems to pierce. Happy shall we be, if we continue on our climb with the same perseverance, the same intrepidity, the same industry in the conquest of the spiritual mountain, as these hardy explorers have shown in the attempt to conquer the material Mt. Everest. Working as if all depended on our own efforts, and praying as if all depended on God, we shall one day stand not on the top of the world but in the highest heavens.—The Pilot.

FIGHT TO SAVE SCHOOLS

Portland, Ore.—With the object of appealing to the sense of justice of the people of Oregon, the Catholics of the State, under the leadership of Most Rev. Alexander Christie, Archbishop of Oregon City, have begun a campaign to save their schools from destruction at the hands of bigots who are pressing the adoption of a law compelling all children between the ages of eight and sixteen to attend Public schools.

Organization of committees in every political division of the State has been undertaken, and plans for cooperating with other denominations whose interests are affected by the proposed legislation are being formulated. Already the Lutherans and Seventh Day Adventists, both of which conduct private schools, have indicated their intention to combat the measure. The Catholics contemplate forming joint committees upon which will be represented Lutherans, Seventh Day Adventists and members of other Protestant churches opposed to the closing of private schools.

Catholic opponents of the proposed law have begun the publication of advertisements in the secular papers as a means of pointing out to fair-minded citizens the hostile intent and the ruinous results of a successful attack on private schools. These advertisements expose the false and slanderous charges upon which the campaign against the Catholic schools has been predicated, cite the patriotic services which Catholics have rendered to the country in peace and war, and prove the educational and civic value of the Church's institutions.

To reach and impress the nearly 250,000 voters who will be entitled to record themselves either for or against the proposed law, it will be necessary for the Catholics and their Protestant collaborators to conduct a state-wide campaign, with organizations in each county, city and village. The funds necessary to meet the expense of this campaign are now being subscribed. The Scottish Rite Masons, the Ku Klux, Orangemen, Guardians of Liberty and other anti-Catholic societies are busily at work to insure the adoption of the law, which takes the form of initiative legislation. These several organizations are getting financial help, literature and speakers from outside the State and have many newspapers either openly or passively supporting the proposition.

The Oregon-Washington district meeting of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod has condemned the proposed measure. They have not yet taken formal steps to organize their adherents to oppose it. The Seventh Day Adventists have expressed their opposition to the measure in a resolution adopted by the Western Oregon Conference of their Church. This resolution commits the Conference to "oppose any bill looking toward religious legislation, or any measure having in view the closing of private, religious or other sectarian schools."

The initiative law is to be submitted to the Oregon electorate at the next general election, November 7, 1922. Petitions for its submission have already received several times more than the requisite number of signatures.

OBITUARY

ALEX. J. WARNOCK

Alexander Joseph Warnock, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Warnock, lost his life by drowning while bathing in the Windermere river at Dalton, Ont., on Sunday, July 16th, about 8.45 o'clock. News of the occurrence caused profound sorrow in Arnprior. Alexander Warnock was one of the town's most popular young men for whom the future held great possibilities; he was a good student, a prominent athlete and a companion who was beloved by young and old; he was frank, straightforward and manly and one could not know him without appreciating his many excellent qualities, and nowhere, outside of his family circle, will his death be more keenly regretted than among the students of the Arnprior high school, with whom he was a general favorite. He was this year in the matriculating class and next term he was to have commenced a university course.

Deceased was a native of Brantford, having been born there nineteen years and four months ago. He graduated from the Separate school of Arnprior to the high school. At the conclusion of his matriculation exams, two weeks ago, he left for Dalton to accept a clerical position with the lumbering firm of Austin and Nicholson, with which his father has held a responsible position for years.

Dalton is visited only once a month by a priest and Sunday last happened to be the regular day for the visit; the young man attended Mass and as was his custom received that morning the Sacraments of Penance and Holy Eucharist. He again attended the Benediction services in the evening and before retiring decided to go to the river to bathe, his companion being Mr. Allan Mabee, Ottawa, son of former principal of the Arnprior high school. During most of the time they were in water that was very shallow when suddenly the deceased dropped into a hole twenty feet deep. Then young Mabee went to his assistance, and boats were quickly put out; with some difficulty Mabee was saved, but his companion sank to rise no more.

The entire crew from the mills and offices began search for the body with motor boats and search lights and about 2.30 next morning their efforts were rewarded when they located the remains close to the spot where the accident happened. The body was taken to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Buckley, formerly of Arnprior, and on Tuesday morning the entire community followed the remains to the depot where it was placed on the train, arriving in Arnprior at an early hour on Wednesday morning. The father, who was returning east and who received the terrible news at Sudbury, returned immediately to Dalton and accompanied the remains home.

Before and after the body reached there hundreds of citizens called at deceased's home on Elgin street to express their sympathy. To the bereaved parents, the brother and five sisters. The casket was covered with spiritual bouquets while the house was a bower of fragrant flowers, conspicuous among which were tributes from Mr. A. McNish Austin of Dalton and Messrs. Austin and Nicholson of Chapleau. The funeral on Thursday morning to the Catholic church was very largely attended, people from all parts of the countryside assembling to pay a tribute of love and respect to a very worthy young man. The remains were laid at rest in the family plot at Sand Point, the pallbearers being Messrs. Wm. Otterson, Harold Dorion, Robert Riddell and three cousins, the Messrs. May of Brantford. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. J. T. Warnock of Toronto, uncle of deceased.

Among those here from out of town for the obsequies were Mrs. Coleman of Winnipeg, mother of Mr. D'Alton Coleman, a vice-president of the C. P. R., formerly of Brantford, Mrs. Patrick Armstrong of Ottawa, and Mr. Frank Lavallee of Dalton.—R. I. P.

NEW OFFICES FOR THE SALADA TEA CO. IN LONDON, ENGLAND

The Salada Tea Company has just removed its London office from 1 Mincing Lane, to the magnificent new "Port of London" Building. This was recently erected because the reviving throb of World Trade made larger and more commodious quarters necessary for the many busy port officials. The flow of shipping to and from London, (which by the way is the greatest port in the world) is again established. For some time much shipping was diverted to Liverpool and Southampton, but the facilities now offered by the port of London to the merchant ships of the world are such that the miles of docks and warehouses are again pulsing with activity. As London is the Tea market of the world, The Salada Tea Company maintains there at all times a staff of experts to arrange for its large requirements. The new offices in the "Port of London" Buildings will offer very much better facilities for transacting this "Salada" Business, and in securing at all times the finest teas on the market.
