FRENCH AND ENGLISH.

Never go to France
Unless you know the lingo.
If you do like me
You will repeat, by jingo.
Staring like a fool,
And silent as a mummy,
There I stood alone,
A nation with a dummy.

Signs I had to make
For every little notion,
Limbs all going like
A telegraph in motion.
For wine I reeled about
And made a pair of horns
To ask for "beef and bully."

"Moo!" I cried for milk,
I got my sweet things snigger
When I kissed Jeanette,
'Twas understood for sugar.

If I wanted bread
My jaws I set a-going,
And asked for new-laid eggs
By clapping hands and crowing!

If I wished a ride
I'll tell you how I got it—
On my stick astride
I made believe to trot it.
Then their cash was strange,
It bored me every minute;
Now here's a sou to change,
I worried how to do it.

Never go to France
Unless you know the lingo.
If you do like me
You will repeat, by jingo!
Staring like a fool,
And silent as a mummy,
There I stood alone,
A nation with a dummy.

Mr. Herbert Yates of Detroit is the guest of Mrs. H. G. Yates, Wynard-st.

Miss Marjory Wilkes was in Toronto a couple of days this week, returning to town Thursday.

Mrs. James Cockshutt and her daughter spent part of the week in Toronto, returning home Thursday.

Mr. Homer Watson Doon (brother of Miss Watson the talented art teacher in town) is in Toronto for the exhibition of the Canadian Art Club. Mr. Watson has a trans-Atlantic reputation in his art. Some of his pictures have been purchased by Royalty.

Next Saturday the 9th, the Golf Club will be in fete. For the occasion it will be given over to the Mayor and city council, to receive His Royal Highness and Princess Patricia. Tea will be served. Everybody is cordially invited to be present at the auspicious event.

The I. O. D. E., which includes the Dominion orders, will hold their annual meeting in Toronto next week, from Tuesday until Friday. Mrs. E. C. Ashton, regent, Mrs. Gordon G. Duncan and Mrs. Moxton Cutcliffe, will represent the local orders. The programme will be a very interesting one. The wide range of usefulness in the past, and detailed plans for the future discussed.

Miss Morgan is a woman of the simplest tastes, both in her dressing and eating, and if one should happen in the "Spug" restaurant at luncheon time one might not realize for the moment that the gray-haired woman with the strong face and ordinary black gown and hat was the daughter of the late czar of finance, rather she might be taken for a self-respecting business woman of moderate income.

Students of the Tango turned out in force on Monday night, with notebooks in their hands and an expression of intense mental strain, to see Donald Griem in "The Marriage Market" at the Princess. For Donald, having been the chief Merry Widow Walter of his day, is now a leading whirlwind Dervish of the Tango, as well as a prancing pride of the Maxixe (oh, pronounce it any old way you darn please!) also the envy and delight of those who "hesitate" but are not lost.

Wednesday evening Mrs. Albert Gooderham of Toronto (the Dominion president I.O.D.E.) will entertain the various chapters at her beautiful residence, with spacious grounds "Deancroft," to an at home Wednesday afternoon, Thursday evening they will be the guests of the Toronto chapters at a theatre party, when Sothen will be the star actor on the occasion. They will also be entertained at Government House by Lady Gibson. Friday the party will be given in Hamilton of the chapters of the I. O. D. E. in that hospitable city.

It was a great treat for those who were so fortunate as to hear Mme. Clara Butt sing in Hamilton Thursday evening—a prima-donna whose fame has been built upon one of the most extraordinary voices of this generation and who might be supposed to be content with vocal achievements alone. The curious part of progress in singing, is stricter attention to the intellectual, and Mme. Butt says, "Singers are not so cultured as their predecessors; the modern singer developing his brain at the neglect of his throat."

One of the most genuinely interesting literary women in England has just celebrated her 90th birthday, which found her in the best of health and spirits and brimful of energy. She is Mrs. Katherine S. Macquoid who began writing when she was 35 and since then has just published no less than 63 novels and other works, and who is now hard at work on her 64th. Perhaps the best known of Mrs. Macquoid's romances are, "His Last Card," and "Drifting Apart," and her name was a household word thirty years ago. Even to-day her stories, which are filled with good humor and a quiet optimism, enjoy a steady sale and Mrs. Macquoid continues to turn them out at the rate of about one in nine or ten months, exactly as she has done for upwards of fifty-five years. She is a widow, and was the artistic comrade of her husband, Mr. Thomas Macquoid, the famous water color and black and white artist. Mrs. Macquoid was born the last day of January, 1824. She was asked her recipe for being hale and hearty at four score years and ten. "Work keeps me young," she said. "Work keeps me young," she said. "I have just finished the first chapter of my fifth novel, she added sipping before a background of her books and the plot of it is quite complete in my mind. I work every morning from eleven o'clock until noon. I never think of staying in bed for breakfast," she went on. "I get up at half-past seven and go to bed just before eleven o'clock. I eat very little meat and believe in a great deal of sleep. But work is what I believe most in. For myself I do not know the meaning of the word 'dull.'"

During his stay in town, Rev. J. Paterson Smyth, B.D., rector of St. Georges, Montreal, will be the guest of the Venerable Archdeacon and Mrs. Mackenzie, at the rectory, Albion street.

Miss Anna Morgan takes most of her lunches at the new "Spug" restaurant that has recently been opened for the working girls of lower New York. The restaurant serves to the members of the "Spug" club appetizing food served in the daintiest manner.

Newly arrived from the Highlands, Jack McTavish wandered about the big city until fairly tired out. Long had he hesitated about entering any of the brilliantly lighted restaurants, but at length he mustered up courage, and was ushered to a table. The waiter handed him the menu card, which was a foreign language to McTavish, finally, in desperation, he said to the hovering waiter: "Ah! I'm no hungry, no hungry at all! Just me a plate of 'whusky an' a wee spoon!'"

Mrs. A. J. Wilkes has kindly put her house at the disposal of the match committee of the Golf Club, for this afternoon (Saturday) from 4 to 6 o'clock. "The Dausante" will be a novelty in town; the new dances will be the order of the afternoon. Tea will be served by the members of the committee. The fee is 35c. to aid the helpful out-of-door game the coming season. A cordial invitation is extended to the members of the Golf Club to be present.

Last month occurred the thirty-third anniversary of the death of Benjamin Disraeli, Earl of Beaconsfield, and on the eighteenth of April, England, blossomed in primroses. "Dizzy's" favorite flower, thereby keeping the anniversary of his death in the mind of the people, observed not by Conservatives or Unionists alone, but by the admirers of the most interesting Englishmen in the last century and yet he was not an Englishman in any racial sense. His courage in persevering in a political career, in spite of tremendous odds, at length won the admiration of the British who are always willing to acknowledge the proven bull-dog qualities, and, at the time of his death, Disraeli, or Beaconsfield, was one of the most courted men of the day. His tactfulness was proverbial and measured much in his career. It is said that Mr. Gladstone never remembered that Queen Victoria was a woman, and that Disraeli never forgot the sex of the sovereign. One occasion a great lady was speaking of her conversation with these two distinguished men. "Mr. Gladstone impressed me that he was the greatest man I had ever met, but Disraeli made me feel that I was the first woman he had ever seen."

The Royal Visit.
It will indeed be a red letter day at the golf links next Saturday when His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught and the Princess Patricia honors the club with their presence. "Arthur" was the favorite son of Queen Victoria who:
"More long, more loved she reigned than all,
The kings of days gone by,
Sceptre may fade and Empire fall,
Her name will never die."

The Duke of Connaught during the past and present reign is a power behind the throne. The greatness of the events in which he has played a leading part, the tact and brilliance with which he has played that part, all combine to make him a remarkable figure in the history of the empire, as well as his great popularity as our Governor-General. The trappings of royalty are trifling compared with the illustrious life behind it. The power and the goodness of his ancestral number of deaths during the month compared with a year ago. The next lowest rate for March in the decade was 12.6, in 1906.

The Montreal Board of Control adopted the plan for the George Etienne Carter memorial, and voted $21,500 to complete it.

All the Tired Nervous Women
Can Find a Cure in Dodd's Kidney Pills.
Madame Perreault Tells How She Cured Her Kidneys With Dodd's Kidney Pills, and Found Health and Contentment.

VERNER, Ont., May 1st.—(Special) "I am very content. Dodd's Kidney Pills have made me well. Those are the words of Madame Eugene Perreault, a highly respected lady of this place, and mother of a large family. For twenty years she was a sufferer. But, let her tell her own story.
"I was always tired and nervous," she states. "I felt heavy and sleepy after meals. My limbs were heavy, and I had a dragging sensation around my loins. My skin itched and burned at night. I had a bitter taste in my mouth, especially in the morning. In twenty years I hardly knew what it was to have a well moment. Then I commenced to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Six boxes cured me."
Madame Perreault's symptoms were those of kidney disease. They are the symptoms of nine out of ten of the nervous, run-down, pain-racked women of Canada. Madame Perreault found a speedy and complete cure in Dodd's Kidney Pills. They simply cured her kidneys.

New Ways TO DRESS THE HAIR

Although originality remains the secret of the successful coiffure new tendencies are noticeable that promise radical and delightful changes.
By degrees the hair is being brought higher and higher on the head, particularly for evening wear; ears are once more permitted to peep forth, after long banishment, and the contour of the head is preserved by the close, soft arrangement of the hair that predominates.
The newest coiffure being worn in Paris has the hair evenly waved in a large loose wave and then drawn smoothly back from the temples with-out the least tendency to a pompadour. The hair is drawn straight back from the forehead also, sloping up to the back of the head, where it is coiled, quite high, in an invisible chignon, leaving the nape of the neck uncovered. Soft little ringlets fringe the temples and there is a flat curl in front of the ears, the lobes of which are exposed.
Very bewitching and quaint is this coiffure when three little curls, like one sees in old daguerotypes, are permitted to fall in front of the face. One may buy by the pair specially made and beautifully waved "burnsides" to carry out this effect. Indeed the variety of forms in which hair is made up nowadays makes possible the conversion of the most unmanageable head into a charming coiffure. There are separate curls, of all lengths, from the saucy "beet catcher," planned to fall upon the forehead, to the long Colonial curl worn so as to rest upon the shoulder; there are thick braids with both ends finished by curls, and there are coils and frames and fringes galore.
Somewhat novel is the coiffure which makes the natural parting of the hair into a charming coiffure. There are separate curls, of all lengths, from the saucy "beet catcher," planned to fall upon the forehead, to the long Colonial curl worn so as to rest upon the shoulder; there are thick braids with both ends finished by curls, and there are coils and frames and fringes galore.

Those who have found the casque style of hairdressing suited to them may wear their hair thus arranged with the assurance that it continues to large wear—the jeweled ones that come in such variety for the evening coiffure—may be used to hold in place the strands that swathe the head.
With the low style of hair dressing, which will by no means be forsaken by the woman to whom it is particularly becoming, the "burnsides" arrangement of the hair brought well over onto the cheek continues popular. NASTY FALL
Arthur Usher Sustained a Fracture of the Skull on Market Street.

A rather simple accident with serious results happened to Arthur Usher, a man of 47 years of age who resides at 13 Searle avenue. He was proceeding along Dalhousie street and had turned the corner on to Market street when he slipped and his head struck the curb stone in the fall. He remained prone on the ground and a large scalp wound, coming two inches over his forehead had been inflicted. Usher was unconscious and was conveyed to a nearby drug store, where the wound was hurriedly dressed by Dr. Fissette who had been called. Later he was taken to the hospital where he regained consciousness about 7 o'clock last night. Further examination showed that the wound was not as serious as was at first supposed when the man's injuries looked fearful. He will be able to leave the hospital in about a week's time, but will need medical attention for some time to come. Usher can not account for the accident and remembers only the actual slip.

In large cities it is becoming compulsory to pasteurize all milk offered for sale. This is not because of any whim, but because it is the only ECONOMICAL and SAFE way to handle it.

PASTEURIZATION of milk removes all danger of transmitting disease, enhances its keeping quality and preserves that natural milk flavor.

It makes our milk far the most ECONOMICAL for use.

WISDOM will direct you to buy our milk. Ask your physician.

Keep Your Furs in Their Natural Cold Climate This Summer

This can be done by sending them to our storage vault.

We do more than merely protect your furs and other winter garments from moths by means of a constantly circulating current of dry air. We produce the natural cold climate that is best for furs, and in this way prevent them from becoming matted or dull looking. Our charges are moderate.

Pasteurized Milk IS EVER GAINING PREFERENCE

The Health Officer's monthly report showed that the Toronto death rate in March was the lowest for that month in ten years, being 11.6 per thousand per annum, compared with 13.8 in March, 1913. In spite of the increase of population, there was a decrease of 70 in the actual number of deaths during the month compared with a year ago. The next lowest rate for March in the decade was 12.6, in 1906.
