

Distributing the Holy Scriptures.

Mr. William Walters, the esteemed founder and secretary of the Scripture Gift Mission, passed away recently while on a visit with his eldest daughter at Woking.

Furtherance of science, which was barely kept alive within the Christian church. The fathers of the church, writing commentaries on the week of the seven days, often took occasion to insert long elaborations on the atmosphere and the phenomena.

POLICE DOGS AT WORK.

A Casual Encounter of Dona and Nogi on Duty in Brooklyn. A night worker on his way home in the Prospect Park section of Brooklyn at an early morning hour recently saw a dog with a jingling tag fastened to its neck come running along the opposite side of the street.

Judging from the usual conduct of dogs the first thought was that this one was either searching for its home or looking hungrily for a stray bone. At the next house the same performance was repeated with equal thoroughness. A little further down the street a man swung the gate open and entered the yard at about the time the dog arrived.

THE COME AND SEE SIGN

This sign is permanently attached to the front of the main building of the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company, Lynn, Mass.

What Does This Sign Mean? It means that public inspection of the Laboratory and methods of doing business is honestly desired. It means that there is nothing about the business which is not "open and above-board."

It means that a permanent invitation is extended to anyone to come and verify any and all statements made in the advertisements of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Is it a purely vegetable compound made from roots and herbs—without drugs?

Come and See. Do the women of America continually use as much of it as we are told? Come and See.

Was there ever such a person as Lydia E. Pinkham, and is there any Mrs. Pinkham now to whom sick women are asked to write? Come and See.

Is the vast private correspondence with sick women conducted by women only, and are the letters kept strictly confidential? Come and See.

Have they really got letters from over one million, one hundred thousand women correspondents? Come and See.

Have they proof that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured thousands of these women? Come and See.

WHAT OF BRITAIN?

When All Nations Equal Her in Possession of the High Seas?

What of England, the country which of all has most to lose and least to gain? How is she contemplating the era when all nations equal her in possession of the atmospheric ocean, the higher seas? When the aerial fleets of the world can pass as readily as her own 'ot into, but over, the Cinque ports; over St. Paul's, and Lombard street, and Buckingham Palace; over Windsor, over Manchester, and Birmingham and Sheffield; and over the length of the fairest, strongest, securest, most historic and richest of argosies, from Land's End to John o' Groat's—her new naval base at Rosyth to the Borden of the Mersey?

Major F. S. Baden-Powell, late of the Scotch Guards, summed up the whole matter, last year, with so quiet a significance that one would think there could be no other subject so occupying the mind of his countrymen. "If in the future all nations adopt airships for war, much of our insularity will be gone, and we must make due preparation."

But in the event of England's loss of insularity, her preparation, or equality of aerial equipment, can restore to her a specific supremacy like that—with all it includes—which is possessed by her, so long as sea power is the sovereign power, and "Britannia rules the waves"?

Recalling the past, it is typical to say the least, that no England is not at this moment evincing for once a just apprehension; not of defeat in war or even of violence at alien hands, but of the falling-in of that concession of specific immunity which has been a sound warrant for the "audaciousness of heretofore."

The subjugation of the atmosphere has not come impressively like the steam-boat of Fulton, or the "What hath God wrought" over Morse's wire, but has crept slowly from the diversion stage to the equalization of advanced engineering and equipment.

Who can doubt that the actual condition is understood in the chancelleries of Europe—it must be that cabinets and rulers have an inkling of it, that British statesmen know what it means, else why are they watching so intently the efforts made by one another? England, as usual, is letting others pull the chestnuts out of the fire, ready to profit in imitation of what others may produce; although, even she, at last, has tested, rather unsuccessfully, a dirigible airship of her own.

And yet, if the statement of the great powers really appreciate what is coming, why do they insist so on the increase of their navies?—From Edmund Clarence Stedman's "The Prince of the Power of the Air" in the May, Century.

CRAMP RINGS.

Once Highly Recommended by the Medical Profession in England

Formerly it was customary for Kings of England on Good Friday to hallow certain rings, the wearing of which prevented cramp or epilepsy.

They were made from the metal of decayed coffins and consecrated with an elaborate ceremony, some details of which are still preserved. They were "highly recommended by the medical profession" about 1557, for Andrew Boorde, in his "Breviary of Health," speaking of cramp, says: "The Kyng's Majesty hath a great helpe in this matter in hallowing Crampe Ringes without money or petition."

Occasionally cramp rings played a persuasive part in diplomacy. Lord Berners, our Ambassador at the court of Charles V., wrote in 1508 to my Lord Cardinal's grace for some "crampe rings" with trust to "bestowe them well, by God's grace."—Westminster Gazette.

Get acquainted with Black Watch the big black plug chewing tobacco. A tremendous favorite everywhere, because of its richness and pleasing flavor.

Chinese Doctor's Prescription.

The brilliant Chinese Ambassador, Wu Ting-Fang, was recounting to a group of correspondents—but not for publication—his view of a certain selfish politician.

"In short," said Mr. Wu, "the man reminds me of a doctor of Shanghai. A mandarin came to this doctor for advice. He could not sleep, had no appetite, suffered a good deal from depression, and nevertheless was taking on fat at an alarming rate."

"We'll soon put you in condition again," said the physician. "What you need is exercise—good, hard exercise. Four times a week you can come here and put in the morning polishing my floors."

"But why not my own floors?" the mandarin inquired.

"Mine," said the physician, "are larger."—Washington Star.

Rifle and Smooth Bore.

The main difference between a rifle and a smooth-bore gun is that the inner surface of the rifle barrel has one or more spiral grooves cut into it. The object of this is to permit a portion of the material of the barrel or projectile to sink into the grooves. As the projectile is forced out of the barrel these projections into the grooves tend to remain there, thus giving rise to a spinning motion. In fact, it is not only going forward, but is rotating rapidly as it goes.

The axis will tend—in accordance with the gyroscopic principle—to maintain, without change, its direction. But that is really saying that the projectile will tend to remain in its true course. So this is why a rifled gun shoots straighter than a smooth bore.—From J. F. Springer's "The Gyroscope," in March St. Nicholas.

Moving Day. "Say, ma," said the irate head of the family, "I don't mind your moving once a year. But couldn't you possibly persuade those moving men to start in carrying out the things in the other rooms? They took my bed from under me this morning, and confound 'em, they got my clean shirt and my only necktie stowed away in that moving van before I had time to get out of my pajamas."

Keep Minard's Liniment in the house.

Rather a Compliment. "I don't like the looks of that young man you had in the parlor last evening," said the irate old gentleman.

"He's a nice young man, pa," hastened the pretty daughter.

"Well, I had the pleasure of calling him a 'young squirt' to his face."

"Oh, he didn't mind that, pa; he took it as a compliment."

"As a compliment?"

"Yes; he belongs to our volunteer fire department."—Chicago News.

"Yes; I know who that is."

"Ah, you have seen her?"

Hated Parsimony.

A leading official in the Young Men's Christian Association of New York said the other day of the late Morris K. Jessup: "Mr. Jessup's charity was ever broader than his wealth. Naturally, then, he hated parsimony. I never saw him indignant save when some instance of parsimony would crop up."

"At this new one here of a particularly mean trick that had been played upon him by a multimillionaire. He said the man had inherited his meanness. His uncle, a Westport farmer, had been famed as a miser all over Connecticut."

"The farmer's cousin died in the sixties, and the old man attended the reading of the will, for he had hopes."

"And, sure enough, in one of the later codicils, a certain eight-acre field was left him."

"As the bequest was read out the farmer sat up in his chair, rubbed his hands and smiled delightedly about the room."

"But the lawyer, reading on, made known that the very good gray mare then grazing in the said field was bequeathed to a nephew."

"At this news the farmer clenched his lips in rage and piped excitedly: 'Then she's eatin' my grass!'"

Impracticable.

"Your husband smokes his pipe in the house, does he? I suppose there is no way of getting the odor of tobacco out of the room, either."

"Yes, there is one way—but I hesitate about resorting to it. Our house and furniture are only partly insured."

Minard's Liniment Lumbermen's Friend.

"Evangeline is an up-to-date girl," confided the young man in the pearl-colored hat.

"How so?" asked his friend.

"Why, in the parlor there is a celebrated painting entitled 'The Kiss. I have been calling on her two years and I never noticed anything unusual about that picture until last night."

"What do you notice?"

"What did I notice? Why, right under it there was a sign: 'Do it Now.'"—Chicago News.

A Curious Souvenir.

A short time ago, Pope Pius X gave an audience to a group of distinguished Americans. While they were conversing, the reverend gentleman took from a compartment in a near-by desk, a piece of paper, and handing it to one of the party said: "By the way, allow me to present you with a little souvenir of your visit to Pius the Tenth." The recipient, upon examining his treasure, found it to be the return coupon of a railroad ticket from Venice to Rome. It was the one purchased by Cardinal Giuseppe Saraceni to attend the meeting of Cardinals at Rome after the death of Leo. As we all know he has never returned to Venice.—From the May Bohemian.

Better Than Spanking

Spanking does not cure children of bed-wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box 8, Windsor, Ont., will send free to any mother who successfully treats her child with full instructions. Send no money but write her to-day if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adult and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

Undressing.

Sometimes, when father's out of town, At bedtime mother brings my gown And says to me: "The fireplace is warm and bright, You may undress down here to-night, Where I can see."

So then I sit upon the floor, And mother closes every door, Then in her chair She rocks, and watches me undress, And I go just as slow, I guess She doesn't care.

And then I stand up in my gown, And watch the flames go up and down, As tall as me! But, soon I climb on mother's lap, And listen to the fire snap, As com'f'rly.

Then mother rocks and cuddles me Close in her arms, where I can see In the coals shine red, I don't feel sleepy, but some way, When I wake up, then it's next day, And I'm in bed! —Century Magazine.

Education in India.

Education as now understood in India is an exotic and arouses nowhere any real enthusiasm. The Indian trader, banker or money lender has accumulated his wealth without any very obvious aid from English education, and he probably therefore does not see why he should help others to what he has himself disdained with.—From the Calcutta Englishman.

ROUND SHOULDERS.

A Deformity for Which There Are Simple Remedies.

According to the newest theories, round shoulders are not to be cured by exercise alone. For they are caused not merely from a careless way of holding the back, but indicate a weak condition of the entire system, and so a special diet calculated to supply the missing strength forms an important part of the straightening process.

A treatment to effect a cure for this trouble should include an invigorating tonic, such as quinine and iron, and the most simple and regular way of living. Only easily digested and nourishing food should be eaten, and sound sleep necessary for perfect rest must be secured.

Being out of doors all that is possible is part of the cure, the theory being that fresh air tones and strengthens the entire body. Walking is the best of all exercise to take at such times, making every effort to hold the shoulders back, expand the chest and breathe deeply, says the New York Evening Telegram. Once chest expansion is gained, round shoulders are banished, for the spine takes on its proper line and the shoulder blades go back into place. Bicycle riding is good to straighten the back, always providing that one does not go in for "scorching," but rides slowly and easily, sitting erect. Horseback riding is the perfection of exercise to remedy such trouble.

"You did say Atlas held up the world?"

"I did."

"Carried it on his shoulders?"

"Yes, sir."

"He must have been a remarkably strong man. No man could do that nowadays."

"But things are different now."

"In what way?"

"Well you see, there was but a small part of the world discovered when he held it up."

Tourist and the High-priced Candles.

A tourist was shown to a room in a hotel in Brussels, where he found twenty candles stuck in a chandelier. As it was dark the attendant lighted them all; but the guest had been in Continental hotels before and made him put them out immediately.

This was of no avail, however. In his bill next day he found them charged, "Twenty candles, 10 francs."

The tourist thereupon went back to the room and took out all the candles, wrapped each one in paper and put them into his pocket.

When he was about to leave the house he found the servants drawn up in two lines in the hall, ten men servants on one side, ten maid servants on the other, all smiling and ready for the expected tip. Then he drew out his package and distributed the candles, one to each.

"Allow me, monsieur," he said, with a bow, "permit me, mademoiselle. They are very superior candles, I assure you; I paid half a franc apiece for them," and he left them all staring at the candles in their hands like so many altar boys.—Tit-Bits.

Ask for Minard's and take no other.

A father, whose looks are not such as to warrant the breaking up of all existing statues of Apollo, tells this on himself: "My little girl was sitting on my lap facing a mirror. After gazing intently at her reflection for some minutes she said: 'Papa, did God make you?'"

"Certainly, my dear, I told her."

"And did He make me, too?"—taking another look in the mirror.

"Certainly, dear. What makes you ask?"

"Oh, I don't know. Seems to me He's doin' better work lately."

Enchanting Echo.

"Lucy," gasped the despairing youth, "are you going to throw me over and marry some rich nabob?"

"Yes, Bob!" she whispered softly.

"No, dear! Not even one more!"
