PERSONAL BEAUTY.

Eve b Time a Woman Worries She Loses a Little of It. There is a saying that "Every time a sheep bleats it loses a mouthful of hay." Every time a woman worries she loses a little of her attractiveness and takes on marks of age.

If your servant scorches the soup or eannot afford to worry about it, and if you scold her you make up your mind to lose some of your beauty, to let go some of your magnetism.

If the members of the family are habitually late try to remedy it, but don't worry about it. If you do you will grow older in the process.

If your husband or children do things which do not please you do not nag at them. This will only aggravate the evil you complain of and it will cost you some of their love and respect.

Every time you nag you will lose a little of your power to charm and attract them to you.

If the cleaners spoil your favorite dress don't get angry about it. An outbreak of hot temper will take away much more of your attractiveness than your dress could supply.

If you lose your pocketbook don't worry about it. Worrying will not bring it back, but it will take out of your face and disposition that which money can never replace.

If you meet with bitter disappointment don't fret, don't cry over it. If you do you pay a penalty which you can ill afford. No woman can fret and nag and worry and keep away the marks of age—or retain her beauty and power to please.-Success.

The watchmaker may pay his bills, but he lives on tick.

Mr. Thomas Hope of Chelmsford was not only the proprietor of Hope's bank, the owner of three or four factories and the recognized business head of the town, but he was president of three or four societies and charities and of high standing as a church member. Whatever Mr. Thomas Hope said or did was always the correct thing. He and his wife could have existed without Chelmsford, but had they departed for other climes that town would have died-socially.

It happened that Mr. Hope had to make a trip to Paris in financial interests. He spoke to no one on his way over. Séveral strangers dropped re-marks to which he could have replied consistently, but he held himself aloof with true British reserve. When British reserve has money behind it, it is a stone wall. Mr. Hope might have replied to an earl or a lord had such a personage addressed him and had he been certain that there was no imposi-tion. The banker shuddered as he look-

Mr. Hope was not impressed with Paris. He had been there before. It was his duty to impress Paris Instead, and when he departed, after a stay of three or four days, he felt sure that he had done so and was very complacent over it. This self complacency serv-ed to a certain extent to thaw out his ed to a certain extent to thaw out his reserve. That is, he deigned to show himself among his fellow passengers on the boat instead of lecking himself up in his stateroom, but at the same time he let it be seen that his dignity was not to be trifled with.

was not to be trifled with, Suddenly something happened to the great man. A good looking young wo-man approached him and, addressing him as "My lord," asked the privilege him as "My lord," asked the privilege of speech. Never before in his life had he been addressed by a young woman —a strange young woman. His dignity would have received a fatal shock had she not used the prefix. His flattered vanity offset the shock. His wife had soveral times averred that he looked vanity offset the shock. His wife had several times averred that he looked like an earl, and now here was living proof that she was right. He put up his eyeglass and gave the young woman a critical glance and indicated by a cold bow that she might proceed.

She had a story to tell. She was an

She had a story to tell. She was an English governess who had passed the english governess who had passed the last three years in a Parisian family. As she had great property expectations the family wanted her to marry one of the sons. Because she would not—because she had said that as an English girl she would not marry an enemy of her country—she had been enemy of her country—she had been charged with purloining certain articles of jewelry and driven from the house. The incensed family might even seek her arrest.

It was a pathetic story, with many embellishments, and Mr. Hope's heart was touched—his British heart. It wasn't touched because the young woman was good looking but because wasn't touched because the young woman was good looking, but because she had continually addressed him as "My lord" and had appealed to him as the British lion itself. She wanted his protection while landing. That French family might have set the minions of law at work and she might be arrested and haled back to Paris and thrust into a dungeon for years without trial. Under the protection of "My lord," what officer of the law would dare look twice at her? If they looked many times it would mean war between the two countries.

Thomas Hope listened, was flattered, and his iron bound dignity became as putty. For the first time in twenty years he had some human feeling about him. He came out of his shell and discovered that there were joints in his backbone. Had that young woman made the mistake of appealing to him made the mistake of appealing to him as "Mr." or even as "Viscount" her petition would have been ignored, but that little trick of "My lord" worked like a miracle. She should land under his protection, and if interfered with grim war and all its horrors would burst on the country within two hours. Thanking him over and over again and with tears in her eyes as she repeated. Thanking him over and over again and with tears in her eyes as she repeated her thanks, the young woman returned to her stateroom and made some trifling changes in her attire. Shortly afterward the boat reached its dock on the English side of the channel.

Do you remember the little things that gave us so much pleasure when we were young? With what zest did we sit down to the table after our play was over and eat the mush and milk our mother put before us. But as we get older it takes more to give us pleasure. Mush and milk no longer tastes good to us, and our digestion may be impaired. The best advice we can give to such a person is to tone up the stomach with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is nature's most valuable and health giving agent—made without the use of alcohol. It contains roots, herbs and barks, and is the concentration of nature's vitality as found in the fields and woods. This remedy has a history which speaks well for it because it was given to the public by Dr. R. V. Pierce, founder of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y., nearly forty years ago, and has since been sold by druggists in ever increasing quantities. Some medicines, tonics or compounds, enjoy a large sale for a few years, then disappear from the public attention, but Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has proved such a reliable blood remedy and tonic that it often enjoys the confidence of everal generations in a family, and its increased sales year by year coming from the recommendations of those who have tried it, prove its less marit, so that every bottle bears the samp of public approval. Bvery other blood-maker and tonic for the stomach that we know of contains alcohol is contained in his "Medical Discovery." Poor Substitute. "Is there a barber on this train?"
"No, but you can stick your face out of the window and rub your whiskers off on the bridges."

The Difference Between Expert and Unskilful Tea Blending

THE qualities of different teas prove that there is a distinct difference between expert Red Rose blending methods and the usual methods.

Several kinds of teas may be blended, but if unskilfully selected they will not combine to make a perfect blend; they will retain their original individual characteristics with their roughness and harshness emphasized.

Such tea is bitter, poorly flavored in the cup (and there is much of it in bulk and package form on the market). It emphasizes the result of inexperience, lack of knowledge of combining qualities of different teas, imperfeet blending, poor selection, and the hundred and one other causes of poor tea.

But my expert Red Rose blenders select the right grades of strong, rich Indian teas and delicate fragrant Ceylon teas, and produce Red Rose Tea with entirely new characteristics-a tea with that "rich fruity flavor -a tea so exquisitely different and better than any brand of Ceylon alone, that no ope who once tries it ever goes back to Ceylon again.
