Hints about Buying a Horse.

The News of the Week says:—At the cession of Fiji, the King of that Island expressed a desire to present to Queen Victoria his Royel club, with which he boasted to have brained a few hundred men and women of his subjects. The present was, on behalf of her Majesty, gratefully declined by the Governor of the new Colony; at which, as the rumor goes, the King If the Windin, as the rumor goes, the King If the Winding and the to go and they of palm-wine, and ordered a Council of State, to which no one of his ohlefs would come, as his Majesty was seen to be wirling about his club in a very suggestive fashion. But eventually the storm blew over, and another and more sensible present from the King was exceed exhibition of his most Royal pleasure and gratitude for benefits he received, though it takes a different direction. It seems that since he has become only nominally King, he has grown quite lavish in his liberality, for his pay is regular and he has never been better off in his life. The King says that he finds that everyone has been kind to him, and especially the missionaries. They really do great good. He especially admires pictures in the tracts. The best Missionary society is that of the London Mission. He understands that Dr. Mvellans is the king of that society, and reigns under Queen Victoria in London. He wishes, therefore, to send a mark of his esteem to good Dr. Mullins. So, if the governor of Fiji would kindly forward to Dr. Mullens seven young women as wives—I It appears that this request too, has been refused, and there has been another wild bout of palmwine, terrific yelling, brandishing of the royal club, and a precipitate oisappearance of every man, woman and child from the vicinity of his majesty's person.

It seems to be demonstrated that within historic time a vast inland sea filled the depression marked by the vast plains of Turkestan, that it included the Sea of Aral, the Caspian Sea and the Black Sea, and that the change, which is still going on, was inaugurated by the opening of the Bosphorus, which some suppose to have been the deluge of Deucalion.
