the same kind, already laid down for something about twice the number of consumers. With such facts before them, the Directors are at a loss to know from what data, you, and the meeting you represent, drew your conclusion, that the Company have advanced the price "without any reason for so doing." Nor do the Directors believe, that you is a Merchant, or any of your Committee, would continue to supply cordage, gin, brandy, ram, currants, copper, coal, wood, candles, or any other article of merchandize this year which may have greatly risen in price, at the same rates at which you, or they, supplied customers previous to such rise. Since the formation of the Company, the sum of £11,262 13s. 4d has been expended, and no interest has been paid to the Shareholders, nor is there much prospect of their receiving a dividend for some time to come; but from the arrangements that the company have recently made, they trust to be able to carry on their works at a reduced expenditure in future, and it will afford them much greater pleasure to reduce the price hereafter, if circumstances will permit, than it did to raise it. During the last 20 months and apwards, the Directors have met once each week, and sometimes oftener, besides having incurred individual liabilities in Great Britain and here to a considerable extent, without any view of reward or prospect thereof, more than their desire to be useful the same kind, already laid down for somethic about twice the number of consumers. With su considerable extent, without any view of reward or prospect thereof, more than their desire to be useful to themselves and to the prospect thereof, more than their desire to be useful to themselves and to the community at large. At the same time, they feel the responsibility they are under to the Shareholders who have committed the management of the Company to their care and direction; and cannot suppose, that the Capital invested in the undertaking should be sunk for the use and benefit of the public, without yielding at least the common or usual interest; nor does it appear to the Directors at all reasonable, not to say narriotic. to the Directors at all reasonable, not to say patr in you or committee to expect or demand any such sacrifice of property from others, while nearly all of you reliased to take shares, or pay any capital in aid of the undertaking.

And I am further instructed to state to you, that as far as the Directors are individually concerned, they shall be most happy to transfer or hand over their entire interest in the Gas Works to you or your Committee, on payment of what the same has already cost them, and that they shall not cease afterwards to consume Gas nor to camplain of the florwards to consume Gas nor to campiam or the resent prices, until after they shall be satisfied that on shall be in the receipt of more than six per cent. Here anoum interest on your outlay.

I have the honour to be, my dear Sir,
Your very obedient hamble servant,
ROBERT HYNDMAN, Sec'y.
