The wagon, left with a team of horses mysteriously at Mr. Harvey's hotel, Wendigo, has found an owner. It appears Mr. E. Day, of Thamesford, sent his hired man off with his team and wagon to purchase a load of some description. The hired man evidently thought the best thing he could do would be to make off with what money he had and as much more as he could get, so he traded of a good team for one of no much value, leaving the team at the above-named hotel in Wendigo, when he left for parts unknown. Mr. Day accidentally hearing about it, arrived at that place this afternoon when he recognized his wagon, and left the same evening for London to try and get trace of the horses.

Anti-treating societies are spreading in Ontario. The people in the Upper Province are recognizing the fact that it is not so much the love of strong drink as the custom of treating that does the harm. If men are let alone and not invited "to take a nip," very few of them will "go on a spree," or make merry over the punch bowl. If we had no treating men would drink when they were thirsty, and no one but a confirmed drunkard would be seen "rolling home in the morning." If every man paid for his own drink, there would be less heartaches in the world, and less sin to count for in the world to come.

The hose carts arrived on the ground in three four and five minutes, respectively, after the first alarm was sounded and in about eight minutes water was procured from the hydrant, and in a very short time thereafter three powerful streams were being thrown. Everything worked splendidly, showing that the entire department is well equipped and in good working order. The call was made about half past seven in the evening, and the firemen had no previous knowledge that they would be required on that evening, so that the test may be taken as a very fair criterion of what could be done were their services really required.

We have to record the death of Mr. Robert Scott, of this town, another old resident of the county. He came to Huron many years ago from the county of Waterloo and settled in Kimbryn, where he carried on the shoemaking business. He continued in business there until about two years ago, when he came to reside in Seaford. He has been in feeble health for some time, but it was only within the last few weeks that serious apprehensions were entertained. The cause of his death was an affection of the heart. He was a remarkably quiet man, but those who were acquainted with him valued his friendship highly. He was an extensive reader, and being possessed of a retentive memory, few had greater stores of general information. He was an enthusiastic Liberal in politics, and although he seldom took any active part in political contests, it took a good man to withstand him in argument. He was ever a conscientious, honorable, well meaning, generous man, and those who knew him most intimately were those who esteemed him most highly. The funeral took place on Wednesday, and he was buried in the family burying ground at Kimbryn, where he had lived many years resided.—Expositor.
