Axes and Saws.—We are requested by W. C. Bogie and James Bogia to re-mind the laird of Cedar Cliff of their challenge of last May for a chopping and sawing contest with him and his mate James Kennedy, of Leeburn, for any stake as high as $50. They are anxious to hear from the "old fellows."

Mrs. Henderson, of Goderich, spent several days here last week, visiting friends,

D. Cumming spent a few days with friends in Ashfield last week. Jacob Rielly, the popular mill teamster, goes this week with his team to reside with Mr. Neibergall, at the Sheppardton saw mill for the winter months. He entertained a number of the young folks at a social hop on Friday evening by way of a good bye.

ACCURATE We recent to learn that ACCIDENT.—We regret to learn that J. N. McArthur cut his foot badly while chopping the other day. He was taken by his comrades to the residence of the engineer, where one of the sick committee skilfully dressed the wound.

No pastor appeared last Sunday to preach at the Preabyterian church here. A service was conducted by the elders, assisted by W. Clutten, sr.

Arthur Horton returned home last Monday, after a week's visit to friends

A midnight messenger disturbed the slumbers of our tall laird on Friday, by mistaking the cellar door for the porch. The fall did not hurt the visitor, but alarmed the laird, who, on learning his mission, accompanied him to a gathering of young folks, taking with him his trusty violin.

Bayfield.

The annual meeting of the Stanley Branch Agricultural Society was held at Morgan's hotel, Bayfield, when the following officers and directors were appointed:—George Castle, president; Mm. Townsend, vice president; Mm. Townsend, vice president; Jas. Armstrong, sec. treas. Directors—Jos. Wild, Alex. Granger, R. Penhale, Alex. Sparks, jr., John Parke, J. Hárrison, T. J. Moorehouse, John Johnston, Gabriel Elliott, D. Moßrien. The finances are in good shape. After the regular business was gone over it was proposed to organize a joint stock company and sell shares at $10 each. A good number of shares has already been disposed of. It was thought advisable to call a special meeting of the directors and those interested in the matter at R. Bailey's, Bayfield, on Wednesday, February 3rd, at 2:30 p.m.

Colborne.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Sallows, of Maplewood, tave one of their popular dancing parties last Friday evening, which was a success. The violinist was a little late, but when he came things were lively until 7 a.m.

while 7 a.m.

A CHALLENGE.—Having heard that W. Gregg and H. Swede have said that they could cut more wood than Reed's whole gang, we the undersigned hereby challenge said parties to cut a cord for any amount from $5 to $30, cutting to be done in Baer's woods. Wm. Reed,
S. Drawh.

PERSONAL.—Your scribe paid his customery annual visit to one of our Colborne sailor kings, Capt. J. Bogie, at his residence, Eaglefield, a few days ago. We found him in the bosom of his family, and relating many a yarn of his 32 years experience on the vasty deep. The jovial maricer has his pets around him, as usual, being particularly taken up just now with a pair of little Skye terriers, now with a pair of little Skye terriers, which he said are the finest he ever had.

Archy Eyvel has come back from Da-kota. He looks hearty, and seems to be doing well there.

Mr. Thompson has been teaching for D. Fraser during the past week, that gentleman being away visiting friends. The singing class, under Mr. Coates' able management is doing well. Mr. Coates deserves praise, for singing has been sadly neglected here.

Armstrong Musgrove's genial face could be seen in Bluevale last Friday and Saturday, and no doubt many a warm hand-shake did our old teacher receive. A real live mosquito was seen in town the other day. It was remarked by someone that it might have followed some of the fugitives from the North-

On Friday evening Robert Leethorn was taken suddenly ill in the new Fores-ters'hall. He was taken to the fresh air and soon recovered country to air and soon recovered enough to go home. We are glad to see him about

On Saturday morning, 16th inst., Mrs Atcheson, who has been ill for some time, passed quietly away to her long home. Her remains were followed to the Bluevale cemetery by a large number of friends and relatives on Monday, the 18th inst. Another gone from our midst, and who can tell who will be the next.

About two months ago it was proposed by some of our enterprising Foresters to add to the dimensions of Bluevale, and also to improve it, by building a hall. Accordingly a committee was appointed consisting of Messrs. J. Garness, (chairmán), F. Pattersou, R. N. Duff, Thus. Nixon, and wm Messer, (secretary). These gentlemen threw themselves soul and body into the work, regardless of first Number for James of the Bazar begin with the first Number for James of the Bazar begin with the Nixon, and we messer, (secretary). These gendlemen threw themselves soul and body into the work, regardless of labor or expense, spending days of their own time in hastening the completion of the work, and are now rewarded by search and visit of the best hall in this pirt of Huron. It is to be regretted that Bluevale is not blessed with a few more such live energetic men, for if there were, who would say that Bluevale might not yet wake from her slumbers and rise to world-wide family. The huiding was duly finished, and was formally opened by Mr. Elliott, C. H. R., of Listowel, assisted by ethers, and dedicated to Liberty, Concord and Benevolence. In the evening a most successful concertives held. A good program had been a povided, and though the evening was stormy, the music-loving people in and around Buevale turned out and filled the hall. Rev. A. Y. Hartley occupied the chair, and gave the performers a free advertisement in, his opening a dress. Of course everyone knew Mr. Hartley could give satisfaction, and he did not disappoint anyone. The musical glasses played by Mrs. and Miss Sage, of Walton, were a great attraction, and it is to be hoped snother opportunity will soon be given to the citizens of Bluevale to hear these ladies perform again. The rest of the programme consisted of readings, speeches by Mr. Elliote, Listowel, and Mr. McIntyre, Lucknow, and vocal and instrumental music, Mrs. Whitney, of Wingham, presiding at the organ.
