Home News From Abroad.

According to an Ottawa despatch of last Thursday, no mention of which was made in the Government cable messages which reached this office, an International Tribunal will sit at Washington on April next to arbitrate upon the outstanding pecuniary claims between the governments of Great Britain and the United States. The agreement was made on August 18th, 1910.

According to the despatch, "The United States set up a great many claims against Great Britain, arising out of happenings in various British dominions. There are numerous claims against Newfoundland, most of them for repayment of various impositions upon United States fishing vessels paid under protest and which in consequence of the decision of the Hague Tribunal upon the Atlantic Fisheries question, the United States contend should be refunded. These claims do not aggregate a great amount in money, and it is said that there is a strong probability that they will be adjusted without recourse to the Tribunal."

Surely, it is time the public of Newfoundland were afforded some information. It is a strange feature of the way the Government is handling this matter that the only information available as to the present standing of the matter comes from abroad.

Fish Held Back.

Several crafts from northern outports arrived here this morning with cargoes of fish. They report that the weather to the northward this season has been the worst in the history of the country, and that the greater portion of the fish caught this year will be kept in "salt bulk" until next spring to be "made" as the fishermen are of the opinion that all the warm spurts for curing purposes this season have passed. This will mean that a smaller amount of dry fish than usual will be marketed this fall.

Wedding Gift

To Mr. W. G. Atwill of the G. P. O. Saturday afternoon in the office of the Postmaster General, Mr. Wm. G. Atwill, Despatching Clerk of the G. P. O. who was recently married, was presented with a splendid dinner set, the wedding gift of the officials of the Department. The presentation was headed by the Postmaster General who in a neat speech tendered Mr. Atwill the congratulations and best wishes of all the postal staff, for a happy and successful career to the bride and groom. The recipient was much pleased with the token of appreciation from his fellow workers and in thankfully acknowledging the gift expressed the hope that the good wishes of the donors will be amply fulfilled.

Personal.

We are glad to learn of the success of Mr. William Haynes, son of Mr. Thos. Haynes, who left here some 14 years ago. He is now at South Australia and is engaged as mate on the Cave Tug Company's boat Ellinor and was married to an Australian girl last October. While in South Africa he contracted fever and was for 6 months at the point of death at the Hospital there. He is now enjoying good health and wishes to be remembered to his many friends in Newfoundland.

No Sign of Green's Body.

The search party organized amongst the friends and supporters of John Greene, who is missing since September 2nd, and for whose whereabouts there is a hundred dollars reward offered, made their final tour of the country roads yesterday to try and locate his body, but without result. The search party scoured the roads and hunted the woods carefully, despite the unpleasant conditions, but after a search of several hours had to give up.

Whaler Arrives.

ENGINEER ILL.
The whaler Port Saunders arrived here this morning from Catalina. She has been picking off there and at Cape Bonavista and to date has only secured twenty fish. The weather has been very bad for some time past, and the last fish was taken off the Cape eight days ago. The fish are scarce. The vessel came here to land the chief engineer, Mr. Abrahamson, who is very ill of an internal malady and who will likely go to hospital.

Naval Race.

At 11 o'clock to-day an exciting race was witnessed on the Harbour between four boats from H. M. S. Sirius. This consisted of a cutter, two heavy barges and a small boat in which 3 men rowed. The boats pulled up the Southside turned a craft anchored off Bennett's wharf and back to the ship. One of the barges led, closely followed by the latter with the second barge behind these and the little boat away last. In this order they arrived home and as they went down the harbour hundreds of fishermen and labourers cheered them from the heads of the docks.

The Calhoun Lumber Company's big mill at Lauzeaux Coustine, near Gaspé, Quebec, was burned to the ground with some six million feet of lumber. The loss is estimated at $160,000.

HAMPSTEAD, To-Day.
John Longstaff, a former English army officer, was killed while flying in a Farman biplane and his machine seriously injured. Longstaff held a pilot license from the Royal Aero Club, England. He had been flying about with the insurgent army in Mexico until recently.

BELFAST, To-Day.
In an interview, Sir Edward Carson said, it is in no spirit of defiance we take this pledge, but in a determination with God's help to keep what we have got, defeating a wicked conspiracy against Irish civil and religious liberty that endangers a free and blameless God-fearing people. The Government for party purposes proposes to deprive us of our constitutional rights. It says we must submit to a constitution which has never been submitted to us or to the electors of the United Kingdom. The thing is absurd. We have equal rights. We have an equal share in all that belongs to the British Empire. We receive equal justice. That is what we are asked to give up, in order that here may be in this country an ascendancy of one religion over another, an ascendancy which we have been attempting to put down through all these past centuries. We are asked to accept what is admitted by a subordinate parliament of the Empire, to dissolve a partnership with the richest Exchequer in the world, to surrender our part in the direction of imperial affairs, an expansion for which all who have gone before us have shed their blood and to have our lily lives managed by those who have never been anything but a disloyal faction. No part of the great United Kingdom is to be ours. It is policy is persisted in, there is no length to which we may not be compelled to go, no sacrifice we may not be compelled to make. You cannot coerce a nation for being loyal. This question arose at the time of the American war, when our soldiers were sent to coerce our own fellow subjects. History may repeat itself. It is worth remembering that when our friends and supporters of John Greene, who is missing since September 2nd, and for whose whereabouts there is a hundred dollars reward offered, made their final tour of the country roads yesterday to try and locate his body, but without result. The search party scoured the roads and hunted the woods carefully, despite the unpleasant conditions, but after a search of several hours had to give up.
