All this talk about Western wheat flour being "pastry" flour, is just plain talk. Anyone who knows anything about wheat, knows that Western wheat flour cannot and does not, make as good Pastry as "Beaver" Flour.

Western wheat has what the bakers call strength. It makes a big loaf of bread—but the bread is spongy and lacks flavor. Ontario wheat, blended with spring wheat, makes the ideal bread and pastry flour.

The bakers of Toronto and London—the experts at the agricultural colleges—and thousands of homes in Ontario, Quebec and the Maritime Provinces—have proved that "Beaver" Flour is superior to any Western wheat flour, and is equally good for Bread and Pastry. Try it.

Divorced Life.

By HELEN HESSONG FUESSLE.
Absorbingly interesting serial novel each day exclusively in The Evening Telegram.

Is divorce an evil? Is it a menace to American life? Does divorce lower or raise the standard of womanhood? Is it the easy solution of marital unhappiness? Just what is the price that modern life exacts from a divorce?

These and hundreds of equally vital questions are answered by Helen Fuesle in her absorbing daily serial story entitled "Divorced Life," which will appear each week day exclusively in The Evening Telegram. The story of what befell Marian Winthrop, a young woman who, after two years of married life, obtains a divorce, is related in it.

"Divorced Life" is a cross section of the life of the great middle class, gathering with reality. It sets forth the high lights and low lights of a divorcee's career, along with the middle lights which faintly tint the most commonplace episodes of a woman's life, especially when viewed and narrated by a writer who is at once woman, artist and philosopher. Helen Fuesle, author of "Divorced Life," has made a broad study of many angles of the growing feminine unrest which has laid hold of American life in the 20-ways as well as the high-ways.

Born in the middle west, educated in Boston and a student at close range of many of the causes underlying the feminist movement in many cities, Mrs. Fuesle, in writing "Divorced Life," has been able to bring into play a wealth of observation, experience, and sympathy. As a practical sociologist, working among shop girls, factory girls and the people of the slums, she learned basic lessons in human nature which have stood her in profitable stead in the execution of her novel. She also has a knowledge of theatrical life such as is possessed by few women writers; she has had a chance to see and understand the under currents which draw so many girls and women into the toll of the footlights, and what awaits them when they get there.

The successive chapters of the serial move on with swift action. Mrs. Fuesle pictures both the cold realism and the warmth of occasional romance which run through the career of Marian Winthrop, divorcee. Too self-reliant to ask or accept alimony, the plunge of this modern heroine of fiction into the struggle for a living is depicted, revealing the contact into which she is thrust with many types of men. There are some unpleasant episodes, but they picture life.

"Divorced Life" tells the truth about divorce, regardless of where the trail ends. It cannot shed profitable light upon a subject which unreasoning prejudice has kept all too deeply hidden. It is a stirring and valuable document. It presents a difficult subject at once delicately and truthfully. It is the sort of thing that only a woman could have written—a woman who knows life and appreciates its values. It is a timely and vital contribution to social literature. A frank and earnest study of the social and economic problems that overtake a young woman who honestly believed that divorce was the only solution of her marital error. "Divorced Life" cannot help touching and uplifting the men and women who read it.

Read "Divorced Life" begun yesterday, and each week day thereafter, exclusively in The Evening Telegram.

C. E. T. S. Meeting

The meeting of the C. E. T. S. held at the Synod Hall last evening, was largely attended. Rev. J. Brinton presided and the yearly report was again read for the benefit of those who were unable to be present at the annual meeting. One applicant for membership was admitted after which the usual business was transacted and the session closed.

Man Homeless and Destitute.

Last night an elderly man, who had been in flourishing circumstances in his day, applied at the police station for admission, as he had no place else to go. He was thinly clad and destitute. He was given shelter for the night and it is likely will be sent to the Poor Asylum.

Blake Knocked Out.

London, March 2.—Bombardier Wells, the former British champion heavyweight pugilist, to-night knocked out Bandsman Blake, the middleweight champion, in the fourth round. Blake had never been defeated and was regarded as England's white hope for the world's championship. Blake was 28 pounds lighter than Wells.

LAD TO REST.—The funeral of the late James Nash took place from his late residence, Topsail Road, yesterday afternoon, and was largely attended. At the Cathedral Rev. Fr. Conway officiated. Interment was at Belvedere Cemetery.

How Mailman Paten Was Treated

AFTER EIGHTEEN YEARS SERVICE
Editor Evening Telegram.

Dead Sir.—Please allow me space to pass a few remarks re my dismissal from the overland mail service. In January, 1896 I was engaged by J. O. Fraser, Esq., who was then P. M. G., through Mr. M. Alcock, the postmaster at Grignet, to convey mails to and from Flower's Cove.

The journey at that time was anything but pleasant, as not a mark of any description had been erected to guide the traveler in rough weather. For years I performed my work satisfactory to public and officials alike. As the mails became heavier the Government decided to shorten the route and employ more men to render the work less arduous and fatiguing. In so doing my route ended at Lock's Cove, Hare Bay, about one-third the distance to Flower's Cove.

I travelled that route with the same result as Flower's Cove, giving entire satisfaction and doing all in my power to benefit the public.

Again the Government thought it would hasten the mails by still making shorter routes; consequently, I was appointed to go to St. Anthony, another man being engaged at that place for Lock's Cove.

This change was made last year, when the change was made I wrote to the P. M. G. to know if I was to carry the mail for the ensuing year. In answer I received a letter from the Chief Clerk saying as I was an old servant I was to be kept on although they had tenders in for less money.

In November last I wrote again (as was my custom) to know if I was to be engaged for this year, 1914, and received the following instructions from the Postmaster General:—

GENERAL POST OFFICE,
St. John's, Nov. 17, 1913.

Dear Sir,—

Your letter received, you can take mails to St. Anthony same as last year, you can also take mails to Cook's Harbour when Fogota can't get there.

Yours truly,
H. J. B. WOODS.

Mr. J. Paten, Grignet.

As I had always got my instructions in a similar manner to the above letter, I was quite contented and made preparations for the work.

Now, Mr. Editor, you can imagine my surprise when I called at the Post Office to know when the first overland mail was going, to find that my services were no longer required, as Mr. Henry Weir, the J. P. of Grignet, had been appointed. I told the Postmistress that I held instructions the same as last year, but was told Weir got it by tender.

I wired the P. M. G. and received the reply, It ran thus:—

"To John Paten,—

"Tenders being issued for which you were aware of; contract awarded to Weir; P. M. has no authority to give you mail.

P. M. G."

Now, Mr. Editor, I would like to know why the P. M. G. accepted tenders after giving me my instructions, was it fair play? I think not.

Since the route has been shortened there was an inducement to get me dismissed; forgetful of the fact that I once had to bear the burden and heat of the day in past years. There is an old saying which says: a covetous man is seldom satisfied, and I think it stands good at this date. The above mentioned man whom the Government has thought fit to select as a mail courier is also a J. P. and a member of the Road Board. His daughter is operator and postmistress. Politics has made it good for him. It's politics, why so? We returned Mr. Clapp for St. Barbe District and I herewith appeal to him for satisfaction. I still hold my instructions and intend to prove for myself if my appointment is legal or otherwise.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for space.

Yours, etc.,
JOHN PATEN.

Grignet, Feb. 9th, 1914.

Last Night's Lecture.

Capt. Saunders lectured on Marine Curiousities before a large and enthusiastic audience at St. Patrick's Hall, last night. For over two hours the lecturer entertained his audience with a vivid description of the methods of salvage, and particularly the use of compressed air in saving stranded ships. The salving of the "Royal George," which was stranded in the St. Lawrence a couple of years ago, was graphically described and illustrated by interesting slides. Several other pictures of interest were shown including photos of the collision between the Bonaventure and Beothic when leaving for the seal-fishery last spring. At the close a vote of thanks proposed by Mr. J. L. Slattery, and seconded by Mr. John Barron, was heartily accorded. The proceeds, which amounted to a considerable sum, will be devoted to the Holy Cross Extension Fund.
