

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

TURKS AND LAUSANNE.
PARIS, March 14.
The Foreign Office received yesterday a detailed synopsis of the Turkish Government's reply to the Lausanne Peace proposals. From the synopsis it appears that a large number of provisions of the Lausanne treaty are called into question, and that acceptance of Turkish contentions would involve drastic changes in the original draft of the treaty. The French Government, however, is reserving its opinion pending receipt of the text of the reply.

JAPAN REJECTS PROPOSAL.
TOKIO, March 14.
Japan, to-day rejected China's proposal to abrogate the Sino-Japanese Treaty of 1915, which contained the noted "twenty-one demands," and extended for fifty years the Japanese leases on Kwang Tung Peninsula, including Dairen and Port Arthur.

Supreme Court.

BEFORE MR JUSTICE KENT.
In the matter of Ambrose James and Sir Wm. F. Lloyd, Guarantors.
On motion, and by consent of parties this matter was adjourned sine die.

Magistrate's Court.

A 38 year old laborer, given in charge by his boarding mistress, was allowed to go. The complainant failed to appear against him.
Two men for being drunk and disorderly, one breaking a pane of glass in Queen Lee's Laundry, were each fined $2 or 7 days.
An East End truckman was charged with assaulting and beating a clerk in Knowling's East End Hardware Store on the 10th inst. The accused admitted to the charge laid against him. The complainant in his evidence told the court he was assaulted. The occurrence was badly damaged, and was put in as an exhibit. The judge in summing up stated the defendant's actions towards the complainant was a very serious offence, and there was no other alternative left than to impose a fine of $50 or 30 days imprisonment. In the event of the fine being paid, the amount was ordered to be paid over to plaintiff to cover damages.

The Good Old Times.

We cannot bring back the good old days. This is beyond our power. But we can bring back the things that made the old days good and that will make our days as good as the old ones ever were. Times do not make men; but men make the times. The quality of the times depends upon the kind of men that live in them. If the present generation learns and practices kindness, politeness, modesty, self-restraint, simplicity of tastes, consideration and refinement of manners, it will seem to us that by some strange trick the good old times have come back. It is a great comfort to know that whatever was worth while in the past can be revived at any time and brought back into the living present.—The Standard and Times, Philadelphia.

Ladies' Hockey To-Night

IN AID OF GIRL GUIDE MOVEMENT.
To-night's attraction in the Prince's Rink will be the hockey match between the Spencer and Methodist College girls, part proceeds of which will go towards the Girl Guide Movement Fund. Two fifteen minute periods of hockey will be witnessed. A relay race will also be staged between the pupils of the three city colleges, which should prove very attractive. During the hockey interval Lady Allday will present the medals won at the recent Ice Sports Meet. The Mount Cashel Band, through the courtesy of Bro. Ennis, will be in attendance. Following the programme of events, eight skating bands will be indulged in.

Burin Schooner Makes Port.

TWENTY-FOUR DAYS IN ICE.
Schr. Harry and Verna, 47 days out from Turk's Island, with a cargo of salt, bound to Burin, put into port last evening. For the past 24 days the vessel has been in the ice, but fortunately came through without sustaining any damage. The captain reports that a few days ago he sighted a black painted schooner some miles astern, and also fast in the floes. It is possible that this vessel is the Gladys Hollett, which is now on the way to her home port. Another vessel, the Admiral Drake, is also due to arrive.

"Monchy" Resents Insult

TO OUTERBRIDGE FAMILY.
Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir—No one but a callous low-bred fellow of indifferent birth and breeding would make the vicious and unwarranted attack which the editor the Mail did in reference to the war record of the Outerbridge family. Sir Joseph Outerbridge, for many years was the O.C. of the Church Lads' Brigade, and under his guiding and generous hand much of its wonderful progress was due. Two of his sons were captains in the Brigade, and when the call to arms came in the great World War, though both were married, they threw up what must be regarded as lucrative positions as directors of Messrs. Harvey & Company and joined the colours with the hundreds of the Brigade boys who were either members or ex-members. One was killed and the other very seriously wounded. Another son with an extensive law practice in Montreal joined the Canadian Expeditionary Force, eventually winning the D. S. O. Though an old man, passed the allotted span of three score years and ten, Sir Joseph himself, with his good lady, immediately threw themselves wholeheartedly and unreservedly into War work; and many of the boys in the Regiment still speak in glowing terms of the kindness and generosity of the Outerbridge family. The only remaining son, Mr. P. E. Outerbridge, at whom this dastardly attack was launched, offered and was rejected so often by the medical board here, that in the end they refused to consider him as an applicant. If the editor of the Mail had been doing any war work himself he would have known this, but unlike his confreres he preferred to hide himself in the corner and surreptitiously enjoy the fleshpots, and bismark the characters of those whose boots he was not even fit to wipe. Possibly 'tis because of this gallant (?) editor's noble war record that the Premier, Sir R. A. Squires, saw fit to put him on the Pensions' Board to cut down the pitiful doles of our brave soldier lad while he himself enjoys an outrageous salary for his services in this connection. Had the writer of this scurrilous screed offered himself for election in the recent Municipal campaign he would have quickly seen where he stood in the estimation of the public, and let him be assured that he would not have secured even a fraction of the magnificent vote which the object of his vindictive spleen, Councillor P. E. Outerbridge, received from all classes and creeds.
Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for the opportunity you have given me of denouncing the author of this dastardly attack on the respected Outerbridge family,
I am, yours faithfully,
MONCHY,

Operations Performed.

SEAMEN LOSE PART OF FEET.
Captain Jones and seaman John Hynes of the ill-fated schr. A. B. Bartaux, were operated on at the General Hospital this morning. Each of the mariners had part of both feet amputated, and were reported as doing as well as could be expected after the operations. Dr. Keegan performed the amputations assisted by Doctors Wilson and Fox.

Shipping Notes.

S. S. Rosalind left Halifax at 6 p.m. yesterday, bringing a number of passengers and 177 packages of mail matter for this port.
S. S. Sable L. due here to-morrow from Halifax, had not reported up to noon to-day.
S. S. Digby, which was delayed yesterday owing to thick weather, sailed this forenoon for Liverpool.

Real Sea Serpent Seen off Africa.

Submerged mountains and caves that run along the West African coast from Gambia to Sierra Leone are the homes of the weird monsters of the deep about which mariners have spun yarns for more than 200 years, according to Arthur K. Sampson, a Canadian mining engineer, who recently returned from Sierra Leone.
Nearly all the sea serpent stories originated in these regions, Mr. Sampson said, and have been regarded by the people of other countries as myths, invented by imaginative sailors.

Certain sections along the coast, he continued, are avoided by the native fishermen, who dread the monsters which rise to the surface about sundown and lash the sea into fury with their immense tails.

One species, often seen by the fishermen in the distance, rears itself high out of the water and has a head like a horse. It assumes an upright position and has a body about 50 feet long. The fishermen say it has large projecting eyes and makes a hissing noise as it ejects jets of water 100 feet or more before diving down to its lair amidst the submerged forests below.

Mr. Sampson said that the fishermen told him the great sea horse, as they call it, frequently chased their boats, and some of them have been smashed to splinters by a blow from one of the enormous finlike paddles which propel the creature at great speed. It is seen only just after sundown or just before sunrise.

Shrimps Eyes in Legs.

EARS ARE IN HIS KNEES AT THE FIRST JOINT OF THE FIRST PAIR OF LIMBS.

(From London Answers.)
Are shrimps insects? The question is often asked by those who see those active little creatures for the first time.
Insects have six legs, but the shrimp has no fewer than 24. He is a crustacean—first cousin of the crab and the lobster and crawfish.
Many of the shrimps that one sees in shops are prawns. You can tell one from the other by looking at the head. The prawn has a long, sharp-pointed horn, edged with teeth like those of a saw. The shrimp's horn is small and smooth. Prawns become pink when they are boiled, but the shrimps become brown in color.
The eyes of a shrimp are easy to see since they stand out on stalks, but you might search for some time if you wish to discover his ears, for he keeps them in a very odd place.
His ears are in his knees. At the first joint of his first pair of legs, which, by the way, are not used for walking, is a little bag which contains a minute drop of water and this water-filled bag acts as an eardrum.

Russian Jewels not in Casket.

NEW YORK.—Another Russian crown jewel bubble burst here, when William Williams, United States Treasury agent, opened the grave of James Jones at Cypress Hills cemetery, but failed to find therein the Romanoff gems.
Persistent rumors that smugglers had hidden $4,000,000 worth of Russian jewels in Jones' casket while the former United States seaman was being brought back to this country for burial, caused the Treasury Department at Washington to issue orders that the grave be opened.
The grave in Cypress Hills cemetery had been guarded for weeks by a squad of soldiers. To-day the guard was tripled, every entrance to the cemetery was blocked by soldiers with fixed bayonets and every precaution as the coffin was opened.
There were no jewels inside.
It is a good idea to sew a small ivory ring in the lower outside corner of the bedroom curtains and place a small tack in the upper corner of the window sash. In this way the curtains may be lifted without being wrinkled, and more air is allowed in the bedroom.

Household Notes.

Attractive candy boxes may be made by covering ordinary boxes with pretty wall paper and brushing with painter's sizing, then chalking after sizing is dry.
Faded chenille curtains seem to have no use in the world, but if dyed may be made into very handsome capes. A pair should make two capes with large collars.
To make a dustless dustcloth put cheesecloth into strong hot soapsuds, to which a few drops of turpentine have been added. Allow cloth to stand for two hours; then wring and dry. Instead of using fancy crepe paper for hiding ugly floor receptacles at the church fair, use plain heavy paper in black, green or brown. It looks better in its uniformity than the fancy paper does.
To secure a smooth pie crust without blisters make dough, and after rolling it fit it over the bottom of pie pan and bake there. This leaves a smooth inside to the crust. Place it inside pan and fill as usual.
An attractive way in which to serve baked eggs is to fill a deep baking dish with hot mashed potatoes. Make dents in the potatoes with a spoon, and into nests break eggs. Bake in moderate oven until eggs are done.

If you wish to use short curtains for windows which are bigger than the windows for which the curtains were made, seam the curtains and make a deep tuck covering the seam. This will give the effect of a valance if pierced toward the top.
If the family is tired of plain gelatine, give them grapefruit and banana gelatine. Soak two tablespoonfuls gelatine in a half cup cold water for five minutes. Add a cupful boiling water and two-thirds cup sugar and stir until dissolved. Next add the juice and pulp of a large grapefruit and allow to cool. Stir in three bananas cut in slices when the gelatine has begun to stiffen. Pour into a wet mold and chill.

The Lighter Side.

DON'T CRY LITTLE GIRL.
There, little girl, don't cry, they have lengthened your skirts, I know; but don't you fret, you're a long way yet from the girls of the long ago. They have added an inch or two, but there little girl, don't cry, for a frisky breeze still shows your knees as the parade of men go by.
The musical comedy gets paid for making a fool of himself. But in real life the fellow who makes a fool of himself also does the paying.
One's friends never leave one flat. They wait until one gets flat to leave one.
JUST SO.
Bubbles: "What runs into St. John's but never moves."
Wobbles: "A ROAD!"
Luther Burbank, the plant wizard, was arrested by a California traffic cop. Luther was probably trying to cross a street with an auto.
A newspaper writer makes a comment on the number of women who are making a success of banking. Women have always been good at figures, especially their own.

The pessimistic, fault-finding husband chirps: "Man's work is from sun to sun, and woman's work is never done—right."
