In a hot day it is always cool and pleasant, and would have many visitors both from city and country by having it made a little more attractive. I should think it would pay the Street Railway Company to defray part of the expense, as no doubt they would have the financial benefit. They would have many excursionists and band concerts to convey to said grounds."

Fred Scott, who was arrested on Tuesday, charged with stealing paints and oils from Mr. S. Marshall's livery, was this morning tried before Police Magistrate Parke, found guilty and sent to jail for two months. The evidence of Scott's mother was to the effect that he had kept oils and paints at home for sale, and that he was subject to fits. Mr. Marshall had on Saturday last purchased oils, varnish, paints, etc., and had hired Scott to do some painting for him, which he started to do and the oils were missed. Some of the articles Scott sold to Mr. Turner, and he had a half a bottle of oil in his possession when arrested. A can of varnish, worth $4.50, is still missing.
