Laurier's Majority

In a Full House it Will be Thirty Five.

Independent Support.

Ottawa, July 4.—Some of the general public seem to be in a haze about Mr. Laurier's majority. The closest count that can be made, dividing the House into two on a vote, is 122 Government 89 Opposition, giving Mr. Laurier a majority of 35. This reckoning concedes Mr. Clarke Wallace, Mr. J. Ross Robertson, Dr. Sproule and Mr. Rogers (Patron), of Frontenac, to the Conservatives, though it is by no means certain that all these gentlemen may not give an independent support to the new Government. At all events, most of them will be against the Conservative Opposition if Str Charles Tupper leads it, and good judges would not be surprised if Mr. Laurier's majority

A Damper on Yale's Chances - Their Trainer Not Satisfied.

Henley-on-Thames, July 4.-The rowing enthusiasts are crowding to The town is alive with bunting, and one dealer is displaying a huge stock of Yale flags. It must be admitted, after seeing Yale's work today, after getting the opinion of several of the leading rowing authorities, that Yale's chances of winning the Grand Challenge Cup are not of the best. The men do not seem to pull together, and the numerous changes made in boats, of oars and rigging, have made them nervous and unset-tled. While admitting this, one of the Yale men, who has been with the crew throughout, says they will do better in the actual race, when each one realizes what depends on him, and the men are not thinking that the eyes of the coachers on the banks are upon them. All the Americans are in the best of condition, and the apparent collapse of Longacre and Treadway,

No Offense Within the Meaning of the Charlton Act-A Mother's Confession. The trial of Michael Bird, the color ed man, for criminal relations with Maud Phoenix, a girl under 16 years And is Not Likely to be Under 40, With before Judge Edward Elliott. Maud of age, was commenced this morning Phoenix, in her deposition, said her child was born in the City Hospital on April 22, and that Bird was the father. Mr. Love defended the prisoner, and Mr. Magee appeared for the Hannah Phoenix, mother of the girl in question, underwent a severe cross-examination by Mr. Love, who forced her to admit that she herself had had improper relations with the pris-oner. These questions greatly exasperated the witness.

Mr. Love wanted to know if the lodging of this information against the prisoner was not an action of revenge on the mother's part because Bird didn't marry her (the mother), but the witness said she didn't care for Bird any more than any other

The judge dismissed the prisoner on the ground that he was not being tried for the secuction of the girl, but upon the more serious charge of having criminal relations with a girl under the age within the meaning of the Charlton Act, upon which charge he was indicted. The penalty for this was life imprisonment and a whip-

The judge found that the girl's age had not been sufficiently proven to convict Bird, and he was discharged.

Up-to-Date Palmistry

He (witness) saw several sixpences given to the prisoner. A girl named Packer had her palms examined. Krampa looked at her face and told her that she had a bad temper and that she was a spendthrift, fond of life, and fond of reading novels, the girl denying that she was possessed of any of these attributes. He also told her the way she would read would be The Connolly Bros. She would, he added, neglect her husband and allow his dinner to burn, reading novels instead of cooking it properly, and that she would live to an old age, and that she was very cheeky. The girl replied. "That's very different from what you told me last week." She gave him sixpence and walked away, remarking to the prisoner, "I have sufficient cheek for you." Altogether 30 persons were examined, their hands in each case being inspected. About 5:30 o'clock the witness told the prisoner that he would have to go to the police station, where he would be charged under the vagrant act with pretending to tell fortunes by means of palmistry. The prisoner said: "Will you allow me to explain? I claim that I do not read fortunes. I read lines." He gave his correct name and address In cross-examination the officer said that he did not caution the prisoner, who did not say he was an American, ing the law. All the people in the crowd were amused and laughed heartily. They gave the sixpenny pieces oluntarily.
