NO MASSACRE

A letter was received in London from Kikuyu, British East Africa, which disposes of the story received at Rome from Benadir, saying that the Spanish sporting expedition, which left Berbera, East Africa, last year, arriving at Lugh, Somaliland, about the middle of November, proceeding thence towards Lake Rudolph, had been attacked by a band of Amharas, who murdered all the members of the expedition, consisting of two Englishmen and ninety Ascaras. The later news says that Cavendish, who is a nephew of the Duke of Devonshire, and Lieut. Andrew, his companion, arrived at Kikuyu on Aug. 5th, after a trip around Lake Rudolph, which up to that time had not been explored. Cavendish and Andrew had trying time. Their head man incited the Ascaras to mutiny, and the constituted as follows: Senor Sagasta, two Englishmen were forced to yield to their demands. But near Kikuyu, Cavendish and Andrew seized the two ringleaders, who have since been sent to the coast for trial. The expedition discovered a new lake and two active volcanoes and crosses from the Gulf of Aden to the Zanzibar coast by much the same route as that previously followed by Dr. Donaldson Smith, of Philadelphia.
