Today's grain receipts were disappointing, buyers expecting the sleighing to produce heavy deliveries. This, however, was not the case. Prices ruled steady in both grain and hogs, with a bleady in both grain and nogs, with a further advance in the latter. Hay was quiet and unchanged. The following list gives latest quota-

PROVING SIFTON'S SIGNATURE

Occupies the Attention of the Assizes Court.

Nothing Startling Brought Out in the Testimony Given This Morning.

The hearing of the Siftion will case was continued before Mr. Justice Robertson, at the assizes this morning. The interest of the public continues unabated, as was evidenced by the large attendance of spectators. There was no evidence of a startling nature elicited during the morning, the testimony put in being devoted mainly to identifying a number of signatures of the late Joseph Hammersly Sifton. Among those in attendance at the trial are the plaintiff, John James Sifton, and the defendant, Alley Sif-PITTSBURG, Jan. 14.-Oil closed at ton, brothers of the deceased, Miss Sifton, sister of the deceased and Mrs. Gerald Sifton.

PROVING SIFTON'S SIGNATURE. Warden Sutherland, manager of W. T. Strong's drug store, was the first witness called on the opening of the CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—Butter, inactive; creamery, 14c to 19c; dairies, 11½c to 18c. Cheese, dull, 10½c to 11¾c.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—Butter, steady, at the decline; creamery, 16c to 21c; factory, 11c to 14c; June creamery, 15c to 17c; June cr plication for the license, signed by deceased, and identified the signature.

Joseph Winters, the second witness called, knew Joseph H. Sifton, and was a felllow-member of a lodge of the Patrons of Industry. In 1892 J. H. Sifton was secretary of the lodge. Witness identified a copy of lodge minutes produced and identified the writing of the minutes as that of J. H. Sif-Witness having witnessed the writing of them.

John Sinker who, at the preliminary examination of Gerald Sifton and Wallter Herbert, gave evidence as to the event which immediately followed the falling of the elder Sifton from the end of his barn, was the next witness called. He was acquainted with the elder Sifton, and had held Sifton's note for $250, dated from June 8, 1900. Mr. Magee, acting as solicitor for Edgar Morden, had paid the sum and taken the note.

Thos. Clark, the well-known auctioneer, was well acquainted with the late J. H. Sifton, who had often purchased stock at sales conducted by the witness. Witness identified notes produced as some he had seen J. H. Sifton sign. In the opinion of witness the signature to the disputed will did not resemble the signature of the late J. H. Sifton.

Miss Lawson Williams, niece of the late Joseph H. Sifton, was the next witness called. On several occasions she had loaned money to ther uncle and in May of last year she had loaned him $200, receiving his promissory note. She identified the signature to the note produced. John Webb testified that he had been well acquainted with the late J. H. Sifton, and with him and others had entered into a note for $1,000 on behalf of the Arva Methodist Church, Witness identified the signature on the note produced.

Barrister D. H. Tennent has been employed professionally by the late Joseph H. Sifton. In 1893 witness had drawn and was an attesting witness to an agreement betwen J. H. Sifton and Joseph Sifton. Witness identified signatures to an agreement, which was produced. Barrister Geo. N. Weekes identified

J. H. Sifton's signature to a conveyance made in 1896. Fred J. White, of the firm of George White & Sons, produced an agreement made last year between his firm and the late J. H. Sifton. Witness identified the signature of J. H. Sifton. Robert North, a former employe of Joseph H. Sifton, had had a dispute with the latter about wages, which they agreed in writing to submit to arbitration. Witness identified Joseph H. Sifton's signature to the agreement pro-

Peter McDougall, agent for the London Township Mutual Fire Insurance Company, identified the signatures to two applications for insurance as being those of the late Joseph H. Sifton.

P. Graydon, barrister, identified J. H.Sifton's signature to a mortgage pro-Shephen Corsaut identified J. H. Sif-ton's signature as indorsation of notes made by witness. Barister U. A. Buchner had had professional dealings with the late Joseph H. Sifton, and identified several signatures of the deceased. Witness had enough confidence in his knowledge of Sifton's signature to cash the latter's note for $48 a couple of months before the death of the latter. Witness would not accept the signature to the disputed will as that of Joseph H. Sifton. In his opinion the writer of the signature to the will was more accustomed to writing than J. H. Sifton had been. Sifton always separated the "S" from the rest of the word "Sifton," and made the "i" very small. Witness never knew Sifton to omit the initial "H." from his signature, and never knew him to sign "Joseph," but always "J. H."

Donald McMillan, former manager of the Royal Standard Loan Company. testified to J. H. Sifton's obtaining a loan of $3,500 from that company in 1892. Witness identified the application made by J. H. Sifton, upon which the loan was granted.

COL. STACEY TO RETIRE

From His Office at Wolseley Barracks-Regretted by District Militiamen-A Capable Officer.

District orders issued by the district officer commanding, Monday contained the following: "The period of employment of Lieut .-

Col. J. Stacey as district staff officer having expired, he will be struck off the strength from this date. 'The district officer commanding desires to place on record his high ap-preciation of the work performed by Lieut.-Col. Stacey during the time he has been employed upon the district staff, to express his regret at his departure, and hopes that the near future may see him again actively employed in a work at which he has la-

"J. G. HOLMES, Lieut.-Col., D. O. C., M. D. No. 1." The sentiments expressed by Col. Holmes are those entertained by all cit-izens of London who have met Col. Stacey, either in his private or official capacity. During his residence here he has made very many friends. His efficient military work in the district has won high praise from all the officers who have come in touch with him. In November of last year, when it was anticipated that Col. Stacey's present position would be made practically per manent, he was offered a splendid official position in a southern republic. The negotiations in this connection were that he may secure it. Whether he obtains this, or remains in the Canadian service, his abilities will doubtless win for him speedy promotion.
