LITERARY NOTES

A prominent feature of the June number of Rod and Gun, published by W. J. Taylor, Woodstock, Ont., is the campaign against wolves in Northern Ontario, a matter in which Canadian sportsmen cannot help feeling interested. A fine article by Mr. R. Of the two kinds of cellular formation composing the retina one is called the "rods," and contains a purple chemical secretion which heretofore has not been regarded as essential to the sight function because it is not also present in the other formation, known as the "cones." Hence the exact visual process has until now remained unexplained.

Dr. Elredge-Green has worked on the assumption that, contrary to the received opinion, the cones were absolutely not sensitive to light, while the rods were highly sensitive to it. He has held that the purple secretion in SOLDIER FARMING the rods creates the visual effect at the back of the retina, and that the cones are the terminals of the optic nerves, affording the link through which the impression is conveyed to the brain. He says that his experiments made upon monkeys and other animals have fully established these distinct functions of the rods and cones. Much of the failure of sight is due to a deficient secretion of the chemical purple two means. One is to teach improved supply, a constant renewal of which

WOMEN'S GLOVES.

In a recent divorce case in Scotland it was testified that a lady searching her maid's trunks found 200 pairs of her own "Abroad," said a dealer anent this hapold gloves therein. pening, "it isn't unusual for a woman of fashion to have 200 pairs of gloves. At the sale of the Duchess of Somerset's things, over 2,000 pairs, all as good as new, were put up.

"You see, gloves are cheaper abroad.

Over there you'll pay a dollar for an article that would cost you two and a half here. But aside from that, foreign women incline to go in more for gloves-and boots, to-than we do. The foreign woman is likely to be better gloved and booted than her American sister."-Philadelphia Bulletin.
