

DECLARES FISHERMAN WAS DELIBERATELY MURDERED

Sensational Story Is Told By Pal of Dead Man
Results in Arrest at Warton in Connection
With the Mysterious Death of Charles Jones.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Warton, Oct. 10.—Sensations are expected to develop as a result of an inquiry to be made into the death of Charles Jones, who was drowned on Tuesday.

Emerson Darrach, an Owen Sound sailor, was arrested last evening, and it is now alleged that Jones did not fall overboard during a heavy fog, as was stated, but that he was thrown over by Darrach, following a drunken quarrel.

"Shanty" Fanning, another fisherman on the boat, declares that he saw Darrach throw Jones overboard after they had been quarrelling. He declares that all were more or less intoxicated, but that Jones was the most sober, and was doing the steering when the row started.

All efforts to locate the body have so far proven unsuccessful.

SMALL AUDIENCE AT LAMBETH LISTENS TO FINANCE MINISTER

Mr. Glass Also Speaks—Naval Question the Uppermost Question
—No Hint Whatever of a Permanent Policy.

[By Our Own Man.]

Lambeth, Oct. 9. — One black cat, three reporters, seven speakers, and an audience of about 80 men and women constituted a Conservative rally held in the town hall here this evening. By actual count the total number of those present, including the aforesaid black cat, was considerably less than 100.

Mr. Richard M. Piper was chosen as chairman, and the East Middlesex standard-bearer of the party, Mr. S. Frank Glass, proceeded to set forth the Conservative policy on the tariff question. On this point, Mr. Glass' credit, he was quite definite, and held that Canada needed protection for her industries as much as in the past, and that the Conservative party was as formerly in favor of a strong protective tariff.

Not Definite.

On the naval question, Mr. Glass was not so definite. "What the ultimate policy of the Conservative party may be," he said on this question, India, and dilated upon the development of Egypt under British occupancy, the continuance of which all depended on increased naval armaments.

A trifle vaguely, Mr. White detailed the Canadian naval dispute down to the present. The nucleus of the Canadian navy established by the last Government had to be manned by English sailors, he said. Canadians "only time and necessity will reveal," straightforwardly admitting that the Conservatives had little or no idea what they would do with the naval situation in the future should their proposed contribution get by the people.

He did argue that it was the duty of the British Empire to prepare for war in time of peace, that Germany had dark objects in view in her enormous naval and military expenditure, that Canada should contribute to the maintenance of British naval supremacy, and that the British admiralty knew best in what way Canada should make her contribution.

Something for Nothing.

Speaking of agricultural matters and referring to the Hon. Mr. Burrell's bill for the assistance of agriculture, Mr. Glass quite made it appear that the farmers were getting something for nothing, and altogether forgetting to point out that the revenues for this appropriation in the first place are largely drawn from the farmer, through the taxes on his farm machinery and other supplies.

The audience listened attentively, including the black cat, which walked up and down the platform and rubbed its fur against the speaker's feet quite fearlessly. And they do say that black cats are bad omens.

In concluding, Mr. Glass expressed regret for the lack of interest which many Canadians take in politics, and urged upon his listeners the desirability of polling every available vote.

Hon. W. T. White, minister of finance, received an ovation that was quite apparently an unfair division of labor on the part of the audience when he rose to speak. He paid a tribute to the late Mr. Peter Elson, M. P., whom he referred to as a man of "very fine personality, and a man of sterling worth and character."

Three Replied.

"I suppose there is no doubt about you electing Mr. Glass to succeed him," said Mr. White. Three voices answered: "None." Thus reassured on a point in regard to which he may have been in doubt, Mr. White in turn assured his hearers that he would not relish the old arguments of the rectitude campaign last election, including the much-recited quotations from Champ Clark's famous oration about the Stars and Stripes and the North Pole, or Taft's letter to Roosevelt, relative to making Canada a mere adjunct to the United States.

He referred to Hon. Martin Burrell's bill, which he declared was the bill of a real statesman, not of an opportunist or a politician. So long as he (Mr. White) was finance minister, other objects if worthy would receive recognition and financial aid in their turn, but he had assured Mr. Burrell that there would always be plenty of money available for the agricultural interests of Canada, and this, he said, was the only sane policy for any government.

A Big Expenditure.

He admitted a largely increased expenditure by the Borden regime, but attempted to justify it by the growth of the country in the last few years. He wanted to speak very earnestly on the naval question. They must deal with it as citizens of the empire. Not only Canada's protection, but Canada's self-respect was involved.

In the last century Britain had maintained a two-power, plus ten per cent, standard. Now she was barely maintaining a one-power, plus 50 per cent, standard. Thirty years ago the total naval expenditure of all the powers was less than the expenditure of Great Britain alone today. Mr. White did not make quite clear the point of this argument.

Naval Expenditures.

One might gather from it, rightly or wrongly, that it must be expected that the naval expenditures of the nations will go on rapidly increasing from now to doomsday, and that the farmers, artisans and other workers must not squirm about paying the piper.

Mr. White lauded British rule in could not be got to serve at 40 cents a day.

The Navy Issue.

"I don't want any better issue than the naval issue," said Mr. White. "If Mr. Borden's proposed policy of a contribution to the British navy had been carried through, it would have been effective in a diminution of the naval building program of many nations." Thus did Mr. White make the Liberal party appear the enemies of the world's peace propaganda.

Hon. Mr. White, like a certain gentleman of mythology, can twist the Scriptures to serve his end, and so he parodied, "Seek first the supremacy of the British navy, and —" He did not conclude the sentence, but it might be presumed that the nations should live happily ever afterwards.

Not Much Interest.

Mr. White, like the other speakers, deplored the failure of the present voting generation to take a greater interest in public affairs, and expressed great anxiety that every vote should be polled at the forthcoming election.

The eyes of Europe were on Canada, he said. "When you vote for Mr. Glass, you're voting for Borden. Don't take any chances on this election."

Major Samuel Sharpe, of North Ontario; Major Thomas Beattie, of London; Mr. J. E. Armstrong, of East Lambton, and Mr. Hume B. Elliott, of London, were the other speakers.

LOAN SHARK TOLMAN SENT TO PENITENTIARY
Was Driven Out of Montreal and Winnipeg by Authorities.

New York, Oct. 9. — David H. Tolman, notorious as a loan shark, was convicted this afternoon of violating the state law against usury and sentenced to serve six months in the penitentiary. The complainant, a clerk, testified that he had paid interest at the rate of 200 per cent a year for the use of $10 for three months. The defendant said he had conducted between 40 and 50 loan offices throughout the United States.

"This is the most flagrant case of usury that has ever come to the attention of the court of special sessions," said Presiding Justice Zeller. "Tolman, you are a most miserable usurer."

Warrants for Tolman's arrest on usury charges were issued some years ago in Montreal and Winnipeg, but he was careful to keep out of the jurisdiction of the Canadian courts.

Each season hundreds of men find out that they can buy clothing to better advantage at GRAFTON'S than anywhere else in London.

Sixty years of this finding-out process have brought us the largest Clothing business in the city, and each year our leadership becomes more pronounced.

Now it will be perfectly clear to any man who gives the matter the least thought, that such remarkable success could result only from remarkable inducements.

And it will be equally evident that our leadership could only be maintained by providing something better for the money to the several generations of men who have been our customers during the sixty years.

Competition is too keen and rivalry too strong among clothing merchants to allow such unequalled success under any other conditions.

We've had to give more for the money, and we do. We sell you Clothing made in our own factory, with but one cost added to the cost of making.

In any other store you have to pay two profits — the maker's and the retailer's.
