[Correspondents are requested to make their inquiries as brief as possible, and to write on one side of the paper only. It is impossible to give replies within a stated time, as all letters have to be answered in turn. No letters can be answered privately.]

To Prevent Rust.
Dear Miss Grey—I am worrying about a few matters. I wonder if you can help me? I see by your letters you help a good many, and I look for your page every day. I am going away and shut the house up for two months in the summer. Can you tell me how to keep the stoves nice while I am gone, and will the piano come to any harm being left, or do you advise its being sent away, and if left home shall I leave it open or shut?

A few weeks ago I saw a letter in The Advertiser from a lady, telling how to get rid of fat around the abdomen and thighs. Can you tell me what paper it was in, and if I could get it again? I hope I am not troubling you too much. I shall anxiously await an answer. Yours truly,

A SPARROW.
A.—1. A good way to prevent stoves from rusting is to clean them thoroughly inside and out, blacken in the usual way and polish; then go over the surface of the stove with linseed oil applied with a woollen rag, and keep a slow fire till it dries.

2. As to the piano, I do not think it will be injured by being left in the house; pull it well away from the wall; close the cover down and swathe in cotton sheets during your absence.

In regard to your last query, this must have been an advertisement; I am quite sure it did not appear on this page, and really, I know nothing about it.

This is From Biddy.
Dear Miss Grey—I am an interested reader of your columns, and would be pleased if you would answer a few questions for me.

1. Is hair dye injurious to one's health?
2. What do you think of an elderly lady of refinement using hair dye?
3. What do you think of a marriage where the man is 45 and the bride 18?

Yours, BIDDY DEAR.
A.—1. Not that I know of.
2. I think it is a mistaken idea; an elderly woman looks much better with white or "iron-gray" locks; to dye the hair deceives few if any people.

3. There might be exceptional cases, where such a marriage would bring happiness, but in the case of the average pair the discrepancy in years would be too great to make for congeniality.

Sending a Present.
Dear Miss Grey—What should one write on a card which accompanies a wedding present to a bride? If one is not able to attend a wedding would it be proper to send an excuse, and what should one say?

M. M. E.
A.—One could write on the back of the card some sentiment or just say: "This gift is sent with loving thoughts to you and when used may its sender be remembered." If the invitation to the wedding is just for the church service no regrets are needed. But if the person is asked to the house or reception, then regrets are sent, stating the reason if possible.

Likes One Best.
Dear Miss Grey—I have come to you for help.

1. I am 20 years of age, and I have been going with a fellow for two years. I don't love him, but my parents do. I love a boy I went to school with, but my parents do not like him so well. My mother would not stop me from going with him, but I would not like to go if my mother didn't like it. But, Miss Grey, I love the boy I went to school with best. So I would like you to tell me what you would do. ROMOLTA.

A.—I suppose that your parents' preference for the one young man is based simply upon "liking," and not because he is of superior moral or mental culture? If they are apparently equals in these respects, and you prefer one above another, your personal feelings should certainly be considered by your parents.

I think if you explain this to your mother, she will surely understand and sympathize.

HOT CROSS BUN AN ANCIENT CUSTOM FOR GOOD FRIDAY

Before 1712 the English People Were Eating Them—Famous Chelsea Buns.

In London and all over England the morning of Good Friday is ushered in with a universal cry of "Hot Cross Buns!" The hot cross bun is rather a small bun, more than usually spiced, and having its brown sugary surface marked with a cross, writes William Walsh in "Curiosities of Popular Customs." The ear of every person who has ever dwelt in England is familiar with the cry of the street bun-venders:

"One a penny, bun,
Two a penny, bun,
One a penny, bun, a penny,
Hot cross buns."

or this:
"One a penny, two a penny,
Hot cross buns.
If you have no daughters,
Give them to your sons.
But if you have none of these merry little elves,
Then you may keep them all for yourselves."

Men, women, and children used to be early astir to supply the general demand, carrying large baskets covered with flannel and white cloth to keep their fresh wares warm. For a century and a half Chelsea was famous for its buns. Swift mentions the "rare Chelsea bun" in his "Journal to Stella" in 1712. These were made and sold at the Old Chelsea Bunhouse in Jew's Row. It was a great meeting-place on Good Friday mornings, sometimes as many as fifty thousand persons calling for buns, two hundred and forty thousand of which have been sold in a single day.

The history of the cross bun can be traced to the time of the Jewish Passover cakes, and the cross-marked wafers mentioned in St. Chrysostom's Liturgy.

In many parts of England a small loaf of bread is baked on the morning of Good Friday and then put by till the same anniversary in the ensuing year. This bread is not intended to be eaten, but to be used as a medicine and the mode of administering it is by grating a small portion of it into water and forming a sort of panada. It is believed to be good for many disorders.

Songs We Used to Whistle and Sing

Remember, Boy, You're Irish.
Oh, how well do I remember, when but a little boy,

Standing by my dear old mother's knee While the pearly tears of love like dew-drops from above

Would fill her eyes with joy and ecstasy, As she'd take me in her arms and press me to her heart.

As only mothers can do for their own, While my native country, fresh and green, Where the open-hearted lad and pretty, blue-eyed lass,

She'd say to me: My boy, where e're you roam: The land where the shamrock grows.

CHORUS—
Remember, boy, you're Irish; born on Irish soil;

Your father was a Kerry, your mother was a Doyle.
Be an honor to your country, 'tis the land of heroes bold;

The land where the shamrock grows. The fact that I am Irish I never will deny; I love my native country, fresh and green, Where the open-hearted lad and pretty, blue-eyed lass,

The wild flower of her country may be seen. The singing of her birds, the singing of her winds,

Echoes sweet her prayers and melody. Be it in a lonely hut, or palace, rich and grand.

To beggar, lord or prince, I'd proudly say: CHORUS—

Soon the dear old harp of Erin from slumber will awake:

Its echoes sweet will lead thro' out the land and

To show that still she lives in every home and clime

Like treasured gems of love both true and grand.

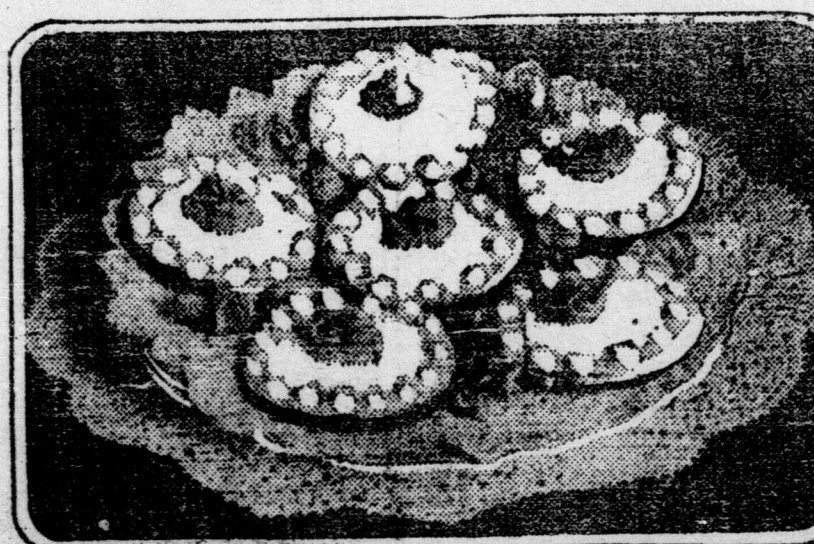

Like the warmth and dew of spring, Which brings to life and strength.

The flowers and blades from mother earth so dear; So from silent graves of woe the tears of joy shall flow,

And then from every heart and tongue you'll hear:

CHORUS—
Miss Edith Stilson and Mr. R. W. Perke have returned to Toronto, having spent a very pleasant week in the city the guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Larkin, Adelaide street.

TESTED RECIPES BY CAROLINE COE EASTER CAKES

These are the famous Oster Kuchen of the Germans and are always served to friends on Easter week.

One cup of pulverized sugar.
One-half cup of butter.
One and one-fourth cups of flour.
Four eggs.
One teaspoon of baking powder.
Two teaspoons of vanilla.
Two teaspoons of sweet cream.
Cream butter and sugar, add eggs one at a time, beating thoroughly. Sift baking powder and flour three times and add cream, vanilla and flour to the butter and egg mixture. Beat thoroughly. Bake in well greased muffin pans, putting only a very little on the bottom of each pan. When they are baked these cakes should be about an inch and one-half thick. Ice them with boiled icing tinted green with spinach water and decorate around the edge with pieces of marshmallow and stick candied violets in the center.

SOME USES FOR BACON.

Dried pea and bean soup are deliciously flavored if bacon is cooked with them.

Any roasting meat can be flavored with slices of bacon laid over it while it is cooking.

A slice or two of bacon cooked with string beans or peas gives them an unusual flavor.

Bacon invariably improves egg dishes. A little chopped broiled bacon can be added advantageously to any meat salad and to some of the vegetables.

Doctors recommend bacon boiled dry without burning to small babies that have hardly begun to eat solids.

Broiled bacon is the best from a dietetic point of view.

Bacon and cheese toast is a nourishing and tempting luncheon dish.

Bacon and apples can be temptingly prepared and the bacon adds just the flavor that is wanted.

Bacon always makes a dainty spring breakfast, any way you cook it.

WOES OF MRS. NEWLYWED

"When I scorch milk I suppose it is spoiled for good, isn't it?" queried Mrs. Newlywed.
"Oh, no," answered Mrs. Neighbor, "for milk that has become scorched the taste may be restored by again standing it in a pan of cold water, to which a pinch of salt has been added."

THE HOROSCOPE

SATURDAY, APRIL 11, 1914.

Faise is the lead
Toward lucky deed.

Jupiter is in benefic aspect, but Venus, Uranus and Mercury are all adverse today; so the astrologers give warning that the astral influences are unfortunate.

The Sun in quadrature to Mars is read in England as ominous, since the interpretation is that it signifies unrest and strife in the east and north of Europe, Belgium, Germany, Russia, Turkey and North Africa are all believed to be involved.

Selling is under a fairly good sign, but, owing to the malefic power of three of the planets, care should be exercised in all financial matters.

Venus is in a place said to presage dissensions and schisms among women's organizations. Suffrage affairs are under a sinister influence which spreads trouble in the ranks of the reformers even while it is slowly working toward national recognition.

Matters associated with professions, finances and property of all sorts are subject to an unfavorable rule.

Persons born between April 21 and May 21 are likely to be sensitive and easily offended while this configuration prevails. They should be careful to control their emotions.

Writers, teachers, editors and advertising men are subject to an unfortunate sway today. They should defer business of importance.

There is a prophecy that a college professor will win national distinction by a deed of heroism.

Children are still under rather un-lucky government and parents are cautioned against permitting too much freedom, showings and other accidents will be numerous next summer.

The Moon is in a sign formerly believed to be beneficial for the treatment of diseases of the eye.

According to ancient lore the influences should be most encouraging to fishermen.

It is predicted that artists, authors and women of talent will find success and prosperity in London this season.

The death of a famous English woman is prophesied before the end of the summer.

Persons whose birthdate it is are warned to conserve their health and beware of accidents in the coming year. Men are likely to encounter unusual business anxieties. Changes or removals will not be successful.

Children born on this day have the augury of danger from water. Both boys and girls may be unhappy in marriage. They are subjects of Aries and their principal ruling planet is Mars.

Oatmeal Crisps.

Cream one tablespoon of butter, one cup of sugar, add gradually two and one-half cups of rolled oats, two eggs (well beaten), one and one-quarter teaspoons of salt, two tablespoons of vanilla extract. Drop in spoonful on buttered tin and bake in moderate oven.

Potato Salad.

Cut cold potatoes finely and mix with salad dressing. The same dressing as given above may be used, only leave out the eggs, in order that the dressing be white; boil two or three eggs very hard; chop the whites and mix the salad, using the yellow part with the shredded lettuce, as a garnish for the top.

Laugh—and Live Longer

A "Smile Talk" to the Woman Who Belongs to the "Tearful Society."

BY IDAH MCGLONE GIBSON.
Are you never going to smile again? Who?

Why, you, my little lady, with the drooping mouth and morbid passion for sympathy; you, whom mother called "giggler" only a few years ago, because it was simply impossible to suppress the smiles and laughter. Why do you now look as though you had struck the "drop, ping off place"?

You surely can't have forgotten those jolly, rollicking days when with Anne, or May, or Bess, you snuggled down into a corner and giggled at anything—nothing. Wasn't it a bit, though? The very thought of it almost makes you giggle again.

Troubles? Just disabuse your mind of the fact that they are all showered on you. Everybody has them, though some people don't shake them out and hang them up in the air all the time, to display them for the entertainment of their acquaintances. And "the woman worth while is the one who can smile when everything goes dead wrong."

Also she will live much longer than if she allowed her troubles to drive the laughs away.

So send your resignation to the Tearful Society and join the Royal Order of the Smile That Won't Come Off Club. It's a lot more fun.

Chiffon taffeta, in a pretty shade of tan with embroidered crepe for the vest, was used to make this attractive model. The skirt is gracefully draped in back and front, and the waist, which is especially suited to slender figures, has some new style features. A tiny undervest of the silk is outlined by the over-vest of crepe, and is topped by a little yoke of lace. The sleeve, close fitting at its lower part, meets the long shoulder at the upper part of the arm. The waist pattern is cut in five sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches, bust measure. The skirt in five sizes: 22, 24, 26, 28 and 30 inches, waist measure. It requires 5 1/2 yards of 44-inch material for a medium size, for the entire dress. The skirt measures 1 1/2 yards at the foot.

This illustration calls for TWO separate patterns, which will be mailed to any address on receipt of 10¢ FOR EACH pattern in silver or stamps.
