TO PICNIC AT PORT

Union Sunday School Outing To Be Held From Ingersoll.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ingersoll, June 27. — July 17 has been fixed as the date of the union Sunday school excursion, which will be run to Port Stanley. This, for years, has been one of the biggest outing the townspeople enjoy. Business is usually suspended and a big percentage of the population go to the lakeside for the day. In the past two large special trains have carried the crowds, and it is expected the exodus this year will be as great as formerly.

Mrs. B. L. Scott is visiting friends in Stratford.

Mrs. George Batcheller and daughter, of Brantford, are visiting relatives and friends in town.

while the Alaska will proceed east 600 miles to Victoria Island.

"If the prevailing winds are from the east, we should have open water. Although the Karluk is smaller than Peary's ship, the Roosevelt, she carries more than twice the provisions taken by the Roosevelt. Our provisions are all concentrated. We have little of the sort of supplies taken by whalers, such as salt beef and canned goods, preferring dried fruits and grains, which require much less room."

Mr. Stefansson said that if the expedition met with no mishap and everything went according to schedule they would return to civilization in October, 1916.

May Cure Deaf Son of King Alphonso

[Canadian Press.]

New York, N. Y., June 27. — A cable from Madrid says:

Don Jaime, the second son of the King of Spain, who has been deaf and dumb since his birth five years ago, is said to have greatly improved in health since his recent operation in Switzerland. When a book was dropped on the floor behind him he started perceptibly and it is now confidently hoped that he will be cured of his deafness, and perhaps in time taught to speak.

The new Spanish prince, the latest child of King Alfonso, will be named Ferdinand Carlos.

STEFANSSON TO SPEND 3 YEARS IN THE ARCTIC

Explorer Arrives at Seattle to Make Final Preparations for Trip.

Plans to Make Extensive Investigations at the Mouth of the Mackenzie.

[Canadian Press.]

Seattle, Wash., June 27.—Vilsjalmur Stefansson, the explorer, who will lead the Canadian scientific exploration expedition into the Arctic next month, arrived from Victoria, B. C., last night, to make final preparations for his three-years' stay in the Arctic.

Tuesday Mr. Stefansson, Dr. R. M. Anderson, the biologist, who will be second in command and James Murray, Oceanographer, will board the steamship Victoria and leave for Nome, Alaska, where they will join the party of twelve scientists, who left Victoria on the exploration ship Karluk ten days ago.

J. F. Hicks Going.

Mr. Stefansson was accompanied from Victoria, where he superintended the dispatching of the Karluk by J. F. Hicks, an official of the Esquimault navy yard. Mr. Hicks came to Seattle to assemble equipment shipped from the east too late to be sent north, and to purchase additional supplies for the expedition. These will be sent on the Victoria to Nome, where they will be transferred to the Karluk and to the gasoline boat Alaska, which will be used as an auxiliary to the Karluk, and will carry Dr. Anderson and eight of his fellow scientists to Victoria Island, where they will undertake a complete scientific examination of the land.

"Without a doubt the Karluk is the best equipped exploration ship ever sent to the north," said Mr. Stefansson.

Plan Exploration.

"But what the results of the expedition will be I cannot forecast. We are going to explore a large area north of the mouth of the MacKenzie River. We shall go farther north than a ship ever has sailed in that quarter. We cannot foretell what we shall find. We do not know whether we shall find land, and if we do, we do not know that it will be inhabited. If it is inhabited, it is certain the people will be a tribe of Eskimos, but there is little probability of there being any people that far north even if there is land. We are not going out to look for people, but to explore the vast region that now is a blank on the map."

Leave July 20.

Mr. Stefansson expects to leave Nome on the Karluk about July 20, and to reach Point Barrow, the northernmost point of Alaska, by the end of the month. From Point Barrow the Karluk and the Alaska will sail to the mouth of the MacKenzie, which the explorer hopes to reach by Aug. 10. From the MacKenzie the Karluk with Stefansson aboard will sail northward,
