and a few important lessons were learned in building it up. One of them was that it is impossible to do constructive that it is impossible to do constructive work without having and keeping the animals in first-class health. How can a cow be a heavy producer if she has not the full vigor required to give large quantities of milk? How can a number of females be regular producers if contagious abortion is present in the herd? How can strong helfers be raised if cell scours see that vitality ed if calf scours sap their vitality when young? It may thus well be said that no constructive breeding can be done unless healthy animals are used. adian Cow Will Come

BETTER MILKING QUALITY

The herd of French-Canadian cattle at the Cap Rouge, Que, experimental station may not be the largest in existence today, though it numbers about sixty head of registered animals, but no other herd can boast a larger proportion of record of performance adone unless healthy animals are used.

Another lesson which was brought distinctly to light is that it is impossible to improve the milking qualities of dairy cattle, however good the females may be, unless the sires are out of heavy producers. When starting the Cap Rouge herd, a magnificent looking bull was bought, one that could have won at all the shows, and, moreover, an animal which, according to ordinary standards, was of good dairy conformation. But every one of his daughters, over twenty-five in numbetween the dams of these poor milkers were bred to bulls out of known heavy producers, they gave helfers of record of performance

There is not a cow having which easily qualified for record of two periods of lactation which
