RESTIGOUCHE, QUE.

Restigouche is experiencing an epidemic of influenza, there being about twelve cases in all. On Sunday deaths occurred, when Mr. Edmond Loubert of Maria, but who has been living here for some time, died, after a very brief illness. He was buried on Sunday evening at Restigouche. He was twenty-two years of age and is survived by his mother and two brothers of Maria, Que.

BLACK CAPE.

There is quite a lot of sickness in this community, and a few cases of influenza are reported.

The sad news has been received here of the death of Harold Campbell which occurred in the hospital at Campbellton on Sunday after a brief illness of pneumonia.

Mr. Harry Fairservice was called up to Quebec last week to report for Military examination but we are pleased to see that Harry has been returned home.

Miss Ida Fairservice and Miss Janie Powell have returned from Port Dalhousie where they have been employed in harvesting fruit.

Churches and Schools have been closed on account of the epidemic of influenza.

Tragic Story of the Awful Horrors of War

things. When the English were drawing near to Bohain, she said that all the German soldiers began to laugh and shout. "Some of them called out to me, the English will soon be here. They are already at Frenmont. Bravo, the war will soon be over. They had only one thought, it was to get taken prisoner by the English, so that they should have good food, for they are starving, and never get enough to eat and they want the war to be over quickly, and do not mind how."

I could write many narratives of the things I heard in Bohain and in Selvigny, and in other villages, stories such as Guy De Maupassant wrote about the war of 1870, but more grim. There is no space for this, and what I have told is typical.

In Caudry it was the same. There were 700 factories round that town employing 6,000 work people before the war making silk and tulle and cloth as in Bohain, and two and a half years ago the enemy sent down a commission to report upon them and after that all the machinery was removed and much of it was broken, and the industry of the people was ruined.

A few days ago there were heart rendering scenes when 5,000 males between the ages of 14 and 60 were sent away further into the German lines. They were assembled in the chief square, where they carried little parcels and handbags, and from their wives and mothers and children there rose loud wailing and all the men wept as they embraced those who were dear to them and there was an agony of human hearts. Why write any more. There reaches me the astounding news that Germany has surrendered. If this be true, and I can hardly believe it, because after all these years of war my imagination cannot adapt itself to the belief of such a sudden ending. There will be no need to write any more of these horrors but henceforth these will be the joy of recording the gradual healing of the heart of the world and getting back to life after all this death and the memorial of all that heroic youth which has fallen in the gaining of this victory by which liberty comes to us again and justice is done.

SIMPLE REMEDIES GIVEN IN LETTER TO BOSTON PAPER

Dear Nomad—Being a reader of the Boston Transcript nearly every day, I was shocked to learn by last Friday's issue of the large number of death from pneumonia the last ten weeks in Boston. Also quite a number from la grippe, especially as these two ailments are speedily cured by simple remedies that are hereby given: viz., "Remedy for the cure of pneumonia":

"Take six to ten onions, according to size, chop moderately fine and put in a large spider or stew pan over a hot fire; let them cook for a few minutes, then add about the same quantity of rye meal (if rye is not obtainable, use Indian meal), then add enough to form a thick paste. Let this cook a few minutes, stirring it that it may be thoroughly cooked. In the meantime have two cotton bags made large enough to cover the lungs. Fill one and apply to the chest as hot as the patient can bear, and in very severe cases it is well to apply to the back also. During this, prepare another poultice to take the place of the first, and apply in ten or fifteen minutes; then the first can be re-heated and applied again. Generally three or four applications will clear the lungs—and the patient is out of danger."

This remedy I firmly believe would have saved the lives of every one of the large number named in your paper the Friday of last week. It is remarkable that double and typhoid pneumonia yield just as readily to it as cases of a milder form.

To prove this I will mention two or three cases. A friend of mine several years ago, (Mr. Solon Wilder, treasurer of the town of Lancaster, Mass.), was stricken with double pneumonia. Dr. Hartwell, of Ayer, medical examiner, said there was no hope from the first, as there was no known remedy for double pneumonia, and his family doctor gave him up the day previous to my seeing him. It was only by the earnest entreaty of his brother that I was induced to go and apply the remedy. I found him just faintly breathing, and I doubt if he could have lived more than one or two hours at the longest when I applied the first poultice, as only a portion of one lung was in action and he was sinking fast. Yet after the third poultice his lungs cleared and he could speak in his usual tone of voice and was out of danger, and in a few days was able to attend to his daily duties.

This simple remedy cured one of the worst cases of the typhoid type of this disease that I have known in the thirty years that I have studied this malady. His name was John R. Peirce, a farmer, in the north part of this town. In his delirium he would tear the poultices off his chest and throw them against the side of the room as fast as the attendant could put them on, and it was only after a nearly all night vigil that the remedy could be kept on long enough to clear his lungs which was finally accomplished, I think, by binding them on. The family physician, Dr. Godfrey, was powerless to aid by any medical remedy, but as soon as the lungs were cleared in the fever and delirium left him, and in a few days he was able to be around as usual.

My friend, the late Doctor John Urch, one of the most successful physicians of Boston, used this remedy for several years, and told me that he never lost a case after he commenced to use it, having been given up by two physicians; yet this remedy saved them all. Dr. John McCallister, of Waltham, told me that he never lost a case, using this remedy for more than twenty years, several of which had been given up by other physicians.

The Grippe—This disease is caused by inhaling its poisonous germs, that float in the atmosphere, and while those cause fevers go to the intestines and secretions, these always go first to the stomach, and if not removed within three days will be absorbed into the system and will find their way always to the weakest part, generally the heart or lungs.

Genuine la grippe can be told from a severe cold by a peculiar distressed feeling in the head, followed by pains in the cords of the neck down to the shoulder. The germs then are in the stomach, and if two tablespoonfuls of castor oil mixed with a teaspoonful of lemon juice be taken, the poisonous germs will be carried out of the system and the cure is accomplished. I have never known this to fail when taken within three days after the attack, although I have seen a person where the disease was so far advanced that he was delirious, yet cured within twenty-four hours, and in a few days after took his seat in the legislature, to which he had been elected.

This was during the scourge about fifteen years ago, when over a thousand died in Boston alone.

Yet there was one physician who used this remedy that never lost a patient out of the many he treated, while they were dying by scores under the treatment of others.

Truly the foolish and weak things often confound the wise and mighty.

The High Cost of Whims

THE United States Government has found it necessary to issue strict orders regulating the styles of shoes. Why? Because the high cost of fads imposes a burden all along the line—upon manufacturer, dealer and consumer, and upon the Government itself.

Such action may be avoided in Canada, if you—the consumer—will co-operate with the manufacturer in reducing the demand for extravagant styles—if you will buy prudently, for service rather than for effect.

To do this will be a direct benefit to you. You will get better and longer service, more comfort, and your shoes will be quite as neat and attractive. You will need fewer pairs of shoes in the course of a year.

More than that: you will help to cut down needless extravagance, to reduce superfluous stocks on the dealers' shelves, to keep prices down, and to release essential supplies of leather for our forces overseas.
