MARRIED ON THE STUMP.

A Jig Dancer Without Legs Captures Handsome Wife-A Case of Love at First Sight.

Miss Squeers admired Nicholas Nickleby breause he had "such be-yootiful legs," but there was a pretty girl in this city last week who fell desperately in love with a man who had no legs. Probably she fancied him because he never put his foot in it and he loved her because she never trod on his corns. Frequenters of the Royal museum will remember a legless jig dancer named Eugene Ward who played an engagement there recently. He had an engagement there recently. He had had his legs taken off in a railway accident and had learned to dance jigs, hornpipes and hoe downs on his stumps. He was quite a card and drew a big salary. Mr. Ward boarded at Mr. Fitzgerald's York hotel on York street, where he waxed fat on the good things provided. She who waited on him and handed him his ham and eggs of a morning was a big. ham and eggs of a morning was a big, handsome, buxom English girl lately out from the old country. Her name was Annie Jones, and between her and him from the first it was a clear case of love at first sight. Her voice was low and sweet when she asked Mr. Ward if he would have some more milk toast or buttered pan-cakes. Like all of her sex, she knew that the shortest cut to a man's heart was through his stomach, and she went down his throat with his toast. She went to see him dance, and that finished her, and from that moment it was a settled thing with both of them. Ward took the precaution to consult Mons. Bushnell, a memcaution to consult Mons. Bushnell, a mem-ter of the company, as whether he would be sacrificing his dignity by marrying a waiter girl, but Mons. Bushnell gallantly replied that as far as he was concerned if he loved a girl he would marry her, no matter who she was. Mr. Ward said that that coincided with his ideas ex-actly, and that he would wed with Miss Jones, even though she had not a second dress to her back. He consequently called a hack, took his love to a minister's, and, standing up on his stamps like a little man. standing up on his stumps like a little man, got married. They went away:

Two souls with but a pair of legs,
Two hearts that beat as one.
They left that night for Steubenville,

W. B. Scarth, land commissioner of the Northwest land company, who is about to make Winnipeg his headquarters, had a clinner given in his honor on Saturday night by the members of the Albany club. night by the members of the Albany club.
Nearly forty sat down to a magnificent spread. At the head of the table was Mayor Boswell and on his right and left the guest and Governor Robinson. There were also noticed ex-Governor Morris, Ald. Turner, James E. Smith, F. D. Barwiek, Mr. Beddoe, W. G. Falconbridge, H. T. Scott, J. D. Henderson, S. Beatty. A number of excellent speeches were made, all complimentary to the guest and expressive of good wishes for unbounded success in his new field of labor. Toronto was in his new field of labor. Toronto was about to lose one of her most energetic men, Winnipeg would gain a citizen full of enterprise and push. One of the happiest of the speeches was that of Ald. The Cause of Woman. A farewell reception to Mrs. D. Mc-Ewen, retiring president of the Canadian woman's suffrage association, was given on Friday evening at the residence of Mr. W. Friday evening at the residence of Mr. W. B. Hamilton. An address to Mrs. Mc-Ewen, read by Mr. Wm. Houston, one of the society's vice-presidents, elicited a suitable reply from Mrs. McEwen, who promised to continue working for the improvement of woman's social position just as energetically in the Northwest, whither when we color as the has been doing in she was going, as she has been doing in Toronto. A varied program of music, recitations and speeches made up a pleasant evening's entertainment.

Is Quebec a British Province?

From the Montreal Shareholder This British province, won from France, like so much of our present empire, at the point of the bayonet, has already lost many of the distinguishing features of its real nationality.
