THE MINDS OF GREAT MEN

ARCHDEACON FARRAR'S LECTURE ON ROBERT BROWNING.

Shaftesbury Hall Crowded With a Select Audience. A Couple of Hours of Interesting Instruction.

The lecturer passed rapidly in review some of Browning's characteristics as a poet, the conditions of life he has sketched, and the manner in which he has treated them. His powers of realistic description are unique, and while his learning is broad and varied it never impedes his movement. Perhaps the most startling assertion was that Browning is the most subjective of all poets except Shakespeare.

THE LIB. L. ON THE 65th

EVIDENCE OF PLAINTIFF AND ADDRESS OF DEFENDANT.

Arrest of the City Editor of the News. The case was continued in the court of Queen's bench today, the evidence being concluded. Major Dugas, the private prosecutor, was first examined, and said he considered that any reader would include him in the attacks made on the regiment, when his name were drunk together, and that he committed a crime and other offences.
