

they do, to their blindness, sometimes punish the innocent for the guilty. If a white man kills one of a tribe, some of that tribe will kill a white man. This accords with their rude ideas of retributive justice. How far have we acted differently towards them? When white men have been attacked and slain by Indians, have the guilty Indians alone borne the penalty? Far from it; we have pursued precisely their own rule, and, in this respect, the action of the whites has not been confined in times of war or excitement, merely to the Indians. Instances of the same crude justice, or injustice, will spring up immediately in the mind of the reader, without involving Indian savagery. But the Indians have rarely aggressed upon the whites. Appearances are often against them, because we have possession of the press, and first access to the ear of the public. The Indians have no channel by which to make their grievances known. Our good missionary said that an American General, famous as an Indian fighter, had said to him that out of a hundred aggressions, ninety-nine were on the part of the whites against one on the part of the red men. The traders cheat one on the part of the red men. The traders cheat one on the part of the red men. The traders cheat one on the part of the red men. The traders cheat one on the part of the red men.

EMANCIPATION PROBABLE.—The correspondent of the New York Post hints at 'long interviews held by Mr. Lincoln with leading Northern statesmen, to whom he has submitted his well-developed ideas for a proclamation which, when issued, will end the war and its cause. When success shall again have crowned our arms, this important manifesto may be confidently expected; although desperate efforts have been made, are now making and will be made, to stifle it with the wet blanket of border State conservatism.'

The London Times does justice to the heroism of the South:—'They are subjected to a rigorous blockade. They have to face, in addition to the armies with which the North began the war 600,000 new soldiers raised for their destruction. They have to provide from their exhausted resources all the material of war, and must manufacture for themselves all the necessities of life which they hitherto imported. They have to keep down 4,000,000 negro slaves, and they now have on their frontiers large tribes of fierce and fickle Indians, whom a slight cause might convert into dangerous and bloodthirsty enemies. Their manhood is all in the field, and they are about to call out those of more advanced age to supply the gaps which the cannon may make in it. Yet in such a situation they are able to speak and act with moderation and dignity. In the midst of their reverses they can look forward with confidence to success; in the midst of success they can contemplate and look forward to the possibility of loss and failure. Such men would seem worthy of a better destiny than to be dragged at the chariot wheels of a conquering democracy, and to live under a perpetual Reign of Terror.'

TELEGRAPHICALLY DRUNK.—A citizen of St. Louis being brought before a magistrate on a charge of drunkenness, the following dialogue took place:— Judge.—What is the charge against this individual? Policeman.—Getting drunk; completely drunk, attempting to destroy private property, and collecting a crowd around him.

Mr. Erskine, (arising painfully).—That's a mistake, a caution beyond description. I was not drunk, I am not drunk, I shall not and will not be drunk. I never drank anything but water, ask Thompson. In order to prove to you that I have my senses perfectly I will proceed to sing Star-Spangled Banner without missing a note. Gossipianere? Judge.—Poor Lunatic! Mr. Erskine.—Indeed, that's more'n likely. Reading the newspapers has brought me into this state—I like to know the war news. I read all the despatches published on the subject. That's the way I lost my reason. The second edition contradicts the first; the third contradicts that again, and so on. You believe you know, and you don't know anything. You learn all at once that what happened yesterday didn't happen yesterday, but is going to happen to-morrow. That's enough to shatter the organized intellect. It produces the effect of mixing your liquor—you go on swallowing, without knowing how much you take. Judge.—So you have been mixing your liquor, then?

Mr. Erskine.—No! I've mixed my despatches. Oh! Telegraph, Telegraph! you're my ruin. Notwithstanding this ingenious system of defence Mr. Erskine was sent to work off his whiskey at the station house. On his way thither he promised the public officer not to read any more newspapers, and above all, no more despatches from the seat of war.

It comprises two kinds of teaching: 1st. Primary and Commercial, in a course of four years. This includes reading, writing, grammar and composition, arithmetic, the elements of history, ancient and modern, geography, book-keeping, linear drawing, algebra, geometry, mensuration, the elements of astronomy and of general literature; in a word, every branch of knowledge necessary to fit persons for occupations that do not require a classical education. The French and English languages are taught with equal care. 2nd. Classical studies, such as are usually made in the principal colleges of the country. This course comprises seven years, but pupils who are very assiduous, or endowed with extraordinary ability, may go through it in six or even five years. Nevertheless before a pupil can be promoted to a superior class, he must prove by an oral examination and a written composition, that he is sufficiently acquainted with the various branches taught in the inferior class. 3. No pupil can be admitted to a course exclusively commercial, unless he has first acquired a correct knowledge of those branches usually taught in Primary Education. 4. No one can commence the Latin course until he writes a good hand, and is able to give a grammatical analysis of the parts of speech of his mother tongue. 5. Every pupil coming from another house of education must present a certificate of good conduct, signed by the Superior of that Institution. 6. There will be a course of religious instruction suited to the age and intelligence of the pupils. 7. In conformity with the rules of the Institution great care will be taken that the classical instruction is governed by the Catholic spirit, and a careful selection will be made of those authors best adapted to develop that spirit. VIII. CLASSICAL COURSE. 1st Year.—Rudiments of Latin, French Grammar, English Grammar, Sacred History, Geography, Writing, Arithmetic. 2nd Year.—Latin Syntax, French Grammar, English Grammar, History of Canada, Geography, Arithmetic, Calligraphy. 3rd Year.—Method, Greek Grammar, English and French Exercises, Ancient History, Ecclesiastical History, Geography, Arithmetic, Calligraphy. 4th Year.—Latin Versification, Greek, French, and English Exercises, Roman History, Natural History, Algebra. 5th Year.—Latin, Greek, French, and English Belles-Lettres, Medieval History, Natural History, Geometry. 6th Year.—Rhetoric, Elocution, Greek, Latin, French and English Exercises, Modern History, Geometry, Astronomy. 7th Year.—Philosophy, Physics, and Chemistry. IX. TERMS FOR BOARDERS. 1st. The scholastic year is ten months and a-half. 2nd. The terms for board are $75. The house furnishes a bedstead and straw mattress, and also takes charge of the shoes or boots, provided there be at least two pairs for each pupil. 3rd. By paying a fixed sum of $24, the House will undertake to furnish all the school necessities, books included. 4th. By paying a fixed sum of $20 the House will furnish the complete bed and bedding, and also take charge of the washing. 5th. The terms for half-board are $9 per month. Half boarders sleep in the House, and are furnished with a bedstead and palliass. 6th. Every month that is commenced must be paid entire without any deduction. 7th. Doctors' Fees and Medicines are of course extra charges. 8th. Lessons in any of the Fine Arts are also extra charges. Instrumental Music $1.50 per month. 9th. The cleanliness of the younger pupils will be attended to by the Sisters who have charge of the Infirmary. 10th. Parents who wish to have clothes provided for their children will deposit in the hands of the Treasurer a sum proportionate to what clothing is required. 11th. The parents shall receive every quarter, with the bill of expenses, a bulletin of the health, conduct, assiduity, and improvement of their children. 12th.
