

Board of Investment Canada. The participants did not describe the threat of foreign control of our economy as serious, but one that will always exist. To most, the benefits of foreign investment outweighed the dangers of foreign control, but they did suggest a reliance on government to institute the regulations necessary to minimize that danger.