BUSINESS OF THE HOUSE

Mr. Pickersgill: I presume the business for tomorrow will be as indicated by the house leader last night. First, a continuation of these estimates and then trade and commerce estimates.

Mr. Green: Yes, Mr. Speaker. There is a notice on Votes and Proceedings today which will provide for extension of the hours of sitting next week. That will be taken first; then the estimates of justice and then those of trade and commerce. On Monday we intend to start with item 2 on today's order paper, house in committee on the bill concerning superannuation of members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police; then item No. 9, second reading of a bill to amend the Criminal Code; item 10, second reading of a bill to amend the Combines Investigation Act; item number 13, second reading of a bill to amend the Prisons and Reformatories Act; item number 12, second reading of a bill respecting the testing, inspection and sale of seeds; then item number 15, resolution concerning crop insurance; then item number 17, a resolution concerning farm credit; and item number 18, a resolution concerning maritime coal production assistance.

Mr. Pickersgill: Is that sequence going to be followed on Tuesday, as well?

Mr. Green: I am not quite sure whether we shall finish all of that on Monday. If we do not we shall have to go on with it on Tuesday.

Mr. Pickersgill: In that order?

Mr. Green: Probably.

Mr. Pickersgill: The minister is very cautious.

At six o'clock, the house adjourned, without question put pursuant to standing order.
