

wing, and hopes to obtain the balance (£1,000) of the fund required for this purpose from other than University sources.

Finance.—The income from subscriptions and donations for the past year shows an increase of £214 on that of the previous year. This increase is more apparent than real, owing to the fact that during the past twelve months there have been received two Life Subscriptions and a special contribution of £100 from Trinity College, Cambridge, towards the publication of Dr. Trendall's volume on Paestan Pottery. General subscriptions other than those from Universities and Colleges show the normal decrease due to the death of subscribers. It is essential that this decrease, which not only involves financial loss but also implies the loss of personal support and interest which is of great value to the School, should be made good, and it is hoped that those who are interested in the School will use every endeavour to persuade their friends to support it by annual subscriptions. Such support is more than ever necessary to enable the Faculty to meet further badly needed expenditure on the Library and some increase in the annual value of the Scholarships, which is very desirable and is now under consideration.

It will be noticed that the expenditure on the Library largely exceeds that of the previous year, but this is partly due to the fact that in 1935-1936 the total amount of the Library allocation was not actually expended. The transfer of £200 to Publications Reserve is somewhat higher than last year, but is by no means excessive in view of actual commitments.
