Large Crowds at Opening Dance-The New York dancing pavilion got away to a good start last night, when some 1500 attended the opening dance, fore asking for the appointr St. Patrick's night. It was well for new committee. the management that they have such an immense floor, otherwise last night would have been a flat failure owing to the rush, but the accommodation until next session. In his opinion the for 400 couples dancing at one time government was endeavoring to side helped to relieve the congestion. Powers' Orchestra certainly did its thare in supplying the best of music, share in supplying the best of music, and for an opening and such an immense crowd the staff employed by the company did exceedingly well, as everything went smoothly when once the young folks got onto the rules, for the dancing is on the latest American plan, favorably known as the "Nickel Dance." In other words, one can dance just as long and as often as one chooses, but a nickel each dance, and that is not so bad considering this company does not here in Toronto resort to the rush, for a full ten minutes is allowed for each dance; so there is no hurry, but all is conso there is no hurry, but all is conducted in good order.
