A LESSON ON THE DIPPER.

The present is an excellent time to see and study the Dipper. It is rather high in the sky, northwest of the zenith, and on a clear, moonless night is so well defined and conspicuous that even tall buildings and the unfavorable atmosphere of the city are not able wholly to hide it. There it hangs, silent and solitary, amid the northern star-lighted firmament, like the verifield each of the city are the same of the city are it hangs, silent and solitary, amid the northern star-lighted firmament, like northern star-lighted firmament, like a veritable sky dipper, indeed, or a sky plow driven around and around Polaris, the north star. As we all know, the dipper's "pointers," Merak and Dubhe, indicate pretty accurately the whereabouts of the north star. These two pointers are the north-western stars in the Dipper's bowl. and they aim in a northeastwardly direction toward Polaris. There are five other stars in the Dipper. They are, respectively, in order from the end of the handle, Benetnasch, Misar, Alloth, Megres and Phecoa. We speak of this collection of stars as the Dipper, while abroad it is known as "La Grande Ourse," "Der Grosse Bar," "Orsa Magiore," and among the ancient Egyptians who were not clent Egyptians, who were not acquainted with the bear, it was known
