WALCOTT BEAT JIM JUDGE.

Hard Bout in the Pavilion Saturday Night Before a Big Crowd.

CONTEST LASTED 11 ROUNDS.

After Going Down Seven Times Judge Stayed There—Daily Beat O'Brien.

According to bylaw, Saturday night saw the last boxing entertainment in the Pavilion, and the occasion was the scene of two clean knockouts. The Empire Athletic Club arranged a program of 32 rounds, which was reduced to 12 by the punching process. Jack Daly of local fame stopped Bonny O'Brien, a strongly touted feather weight from Buffalo, in two minutes. Both boys seemed eager to end it quickly and mixed from the bell. Right swings did the trick, O'Brien going down squarely in a minute and again after he was forced to the ropes for 12 seconds. They were billed for 12 rounds at 122 lbs.

Jim Judge never gave Joe Walcott any trouble at any stage of the game, and the Scotman waterweight was practically a defeated man in the eighth round.

There was a good crowd present, that plainly showed its preference for the white boxer over the Barabadoes black, and his fruitless rushes in the earlier rounds met with general favor. When the pair came to the centre for instructions, Judge towered just a head over Walcott, who more than made up in chest, shoulders and arms. Tom O'Rourke and Lou Scholes were in the black's corner, while Judge had an army of seconds, including Dan Kelly, Bobby Thompson, Archie McEachern and Manager Whelan. E. H. McBride of Buffalo was referee and Messrs. Scholes and Popp the time keepers. The sudden termination of the only preliminary shortly after 8 o'clock, and with Walcott also resting 20 minutes, was quite apparent on Judge's nervousness was quite apparent on
