Secretary Walsingham,—an eminent courtier and statesman in the days of Elizabeth, in his old age, retired into privacy in the country. Some of his former gay companions came to see him, and told him he was melancholy. "No," said he, "I am not melancholy; I am serious, and 'tis fit I should be so. Ah! my friends: while we laugh, all things are serious round about us. God is serious, who exerciseth patience towards us; Christ is serious, who shed his blood for us; the Holy Spirit is serious, in striving against the obstinacy of our hearts; the Holy Scriptures bring to our view the most serious things in the world; the Holy Sacraments represent the most serious and awful matters; the whole creation is serious in serving God and us; all that are in heaven and hell are serious; how then can we be gay?"

God a Respector of Persons.—In the memoirs of the Marquis of Anjou, it is said, that the Marquis being in conversation with another about the vicious life of Prince Philip, of France, (died 1693,) and the other expressing great doubts of his salvation,—said, "God always thinks twice before he damns people of his quality."
