

What Dr. Bourque, of Ottawa, Says About Neal Cure

Ottawa, Dec. 28, 1911
I have sent four patients to take the Neal treatment over 4 months ago. One of the patients had been drinking hard for fifteen years, and had been given up as a hopeless case. Two of the others had taken other cures without success. I have carefully watched these patients since they took the Neal treatment, and I cheerfully testify they are all living good, clean, Christian, sober lives, and they say the very sight of liquor still makes them sick.

I permit this testimony to be printed in public, feeling and knowing it is a scientific treatment for man or woman who cannot give up liquor of their own accord.

Wishing the Neal Institute success for 1912 in the good work it is doing.

(Signed) D. BOURQUE, M. D.

Hamilton Girl POISONED BY HER PATIENT

Hamilton, Ont., Aug. 12.—Events are marking time in the tragedy of Miss Rose Ziebe, who died Sunday evening, at the city hospital after eating some candies prepared by Mrs. Edith Bruce, a patient, whom she was calling upon.
The facts gathered by the police have been forwarded to the crown authorities at Toronto, and no new developments are expected pending the inquest. The Misses Gertrude and Ethel Dalby, sisters of Mrs. Bruce, and Miss Vance, who were also with Mrs. Bruce at the time, and ate some of the candies, have fully recovered and returned to their homes last night. According to the police story, the Dalby girls and Miss Vance each ate one of the chocolates and Miss Ziebe ate two, while Mrs. Bruce bit into one and finding it bitter to the taste, spat it out.
The tin in which the dead girl and half a pound of the chocolates have been sent to Toronto for analysis, and no statement will be given out before the inquest as to what sort of poison the candies contained, though it is supposed to have been strychnine.

James Bruce, who is under arrest on an open charge is in his early thirties. He was in debt and his marriage with Edith Dalby was arranged in a hurry under circumstances which have shown on several occasions had greatly irritated and annoyed him. It had never occurred to him before Sunday to treat his wife as he did.
Miss Vance, Miss Ziebe and the Misses Dalby were chatting at the hospital with Mrs. Bruce, when the latter opened the box of chocolates which she informed her mother later in the evening, had been given to her by her husband during the afternoon, and offered them to her chums. Miss Ziebe immediately partook of the candies as did the other girls, and it was at that time that they had an odd taste.
About twenty minutes later, the Ziebe girl, with a cry of pitiful agony, flung her hands to her breast and moaned terribly, while the others looked on stunned, for the moment. The house doctors were rushed for, as well as several nurses, but when they arrived, the unfortunate girl was stretched on a nearby bed, uttering shrieks of agony. The doctors worked over her to ascertain the cause of his illness, but as the time sped away she gradually ceased moaning and passed away without uttering many words. It was on the information supplied by Mrs. Bruce that the young woman had eaten some of the chocolates which she had given her yesterday afternoon, he was not very friendly to her, she said, and attracted considerable attention by speaking in abusive terms to her.
According to the parents of the young wife, Bruce has been in difficulties financially, for some time, and thus to some extent, caused the rift between them. Mrs. Dalby declared late in the evening after visiting her daughter, that Bruce had declared to her that he had practically been forced to marry the girl to save her from disgrace. "I put it in the papers about her marriage, and he did not like it," said Mrs. Dalby. "I thought it should be announced and did not care whether he liked it or not."

TELLS THE WHOLE STORY

Detroit, Aug. 12.—All doubt that the alleged confession of Edward Schreiter, clerk of the common council, was the basis for the sixteen arrests, last week, was removed this afternoon when Prosecuting Attorney Hugh Shephard, in an interview, told the details of Schreiter's confession.
Schreiter was taken before Police Justice Jeffries, to assist in making out warrants against the sixteen aldermen arrested last Friday and two additional members of the common council, making eighteen in all who will appear in police court tomorrow for examination some on a charge of accepting a bribe and others on a charge of promising to accept a bribe.
Schreiter, who is secretary of the American League of Municipalities, is charged by the operatives of Detective William J. Burns, with being the leader in the alleged bribery arrangements made with the Wabash railroad for street rights in the city of Detroit which resulted in the first of the sixteen arrests being made several days ago. Schreiter was arrested at the time and is now at liberty on bail.

Effective, Economical Complexion Beautifier

(Julia Orr in The Clubwoman)
One reason I so strongly recommend merozilized wax is that it really takes the place of several different cosmetics, saving time, patience and expense. It is better than any cleansing cream, better than any massage cream, and better than any rouge, for accomplishing the results for which such articles are used. As the wax actually absorbs an old, faded or discolored cuticle, a little each day, the underlying skin which gradually appears is clearer, softer, healthier and more youthful than any cosmetic could accomplish. Spreading on a thin coat of this wax at night, washing it off morning, in a week or so produces a marvelous transformation. Just one ounce of merozilized wax, obtainable at any drug store, will do the work. There's nothing better to remove freckles, tan, sallowness, blotches, pimples or blackheads.
For wrinkles and loose, saggy skin, I invariably recommend a face bath made by dissolving 1 ounce powdered exfoliate in one-half pint of water. This has remarkable softening and tonic properties.

The Fly in the Ointment

by RUTH CAMERON

"WELL, you know there is always a fly in the ointment," concluded the author's wife with bromidic philosophy, as she finished telling us why she had not had quite as good a time as she might have had on a recent pleasure excursion.
There certainly always IS a fly in the ointment to that woman. And from the attention which she bestows upon it and the certainty with which she remembers to mention it, it can't be any ordinary household pest; it must be a horsefly at the very least—something larger if that be possible.
Nor is the author's wife eccentric in this ability of hers to find flies in the ointment of all her pleasures. On the contrary she is merely one of a very common type. You meet this sort of person everywhere, and she always has substantially the same story to tell.
A neighbor in the kindness of his heart takes her out auting some evening, and when you ask her if she had a good time she says reluctantly, "Yes, I enjoyed it, but I did wish he had come last week when it was so much hotter."
She goes to the theatre and admits grudgingly that the seats, the play and the acting were all that could be desired, but the orchestra really spoiled the whole thing. It was so wretched. She simply cannot see why a first class theatre should tolerate such a miserable performance.
The facts gathered by the police have been forwarded to the crown authorities at Toronto, and no new developments are expected pending the inquest. The Misses Gertrude and Ethel Dalby, sisters of Mrs. Bruce, and Miss Vance, who were also with Mrs. Bruce at the time, and ate some of the candies, have fully recovered and returned to their homes last night. According to the police story, the Dalby girls and Miss Vance each ate one of the chocolates and Miss Ziebe ate two, while Mrs. Bruce bit into one and finding it bitter to the taste, spat it out.
The tin in which the dead girl and half a pound of the chocolates have been sent to Toronto for analysis, and no statement will be given out before the inquest as to what sort of poison the candies contained, though it is supposed to have been strychnine.

Now I suppose if we are to be perfectly honest, optimists though we are, we must admit that there always IS a fly in every ointment, just as the lady says. The happiest and most contented of mortals will not find out something which might have been improved even in our happiest day. But here is the difference between the author's wife and her class and the kind of people who usually come back from the theatre saying they have had a perfect "time—the usual fly, the other, the ointment.
And this is the difference not only between these two but, between the two great classes that make up the whole world.
To which class do YOU belong?
"Some people are grieved because roses have thorns," says Mrs. Whitney; "I am glad because thorns have roses."
Which are YOU?

LA MARQUISE DE FONTENOY

Grand Duchesse Rebels on School Question. Ministers' Answer. Question of Various Types. Hastings Buys Historic Castle Built by Conqueror (Copyright, 1912, by the Brentwood Company)

Although less than two months have elapsed since the young Grand-Duchess Marie de Luxembourg took the reins of government in her own hands on attaining her eighteenth birthday, she is already confronted by a Constitution which consists of forty-five members, recently passed by a very narrow majority a measure secularizing the schools, and eliminating religion therefrom.
The Grand-Duchess absolutely declines to give the measure her signature, without which it cannot become the law of the land. She takes the ground that she represents 250,000 subjects, all save 2,000 are Catholics and devout ones at that, and further that the cabinet ministers have thus far declined to countermand her decree dissolving the chambers, so as to render possible an appeal to the electorate on the school question, and matters such as this stand still until she dismisses the cabinet, and finds among the opposition, statesmen willing to do her bidding.
As I mentioned at the time of her accession, she is very strong-willed, the more so since, as one of the richest sovereigns in Europe, she is altogether independent of the grand-duchy, and she trifles with the cabinet ministers have thus far declined to countermand her decree dissolving the chambers, so as to render possible an appeal to the electorate on the school question, and matters such as this stand still until she dismisses the cabinet, and finds among the opposition, statesmen willing to do her bidding.

Young Jack Mitjains, who is about to marry Lady Victoria Perry, only daughter of Lord and Lady Limerick, has a strange mixture of illustrious and plebeian blood in his veins; for through his mother Dona Sol, sister of the Duke of Alba, he is descended from the Duke of Devonshire. It is useless to recall here expecting quite "en passant," the king's "friendship" with Archbishop Churchill, sister of the first Duke of Marlborough, and his consequences. As for his father, the Duke of Devonshire, he is the son of a natural daughter of the first duke of that ilk, who in his early days was a hatter in Madrid. Subsequently the latter acquired a huge estate in Cuba and thanks to his wealth, and to the use which he made of it, he was able to restore Alfonso XII, to the throne of Spain, he received the title of Duke of Devonshire.

Daily Hints For the Cook

CURRIED EGGS.
Melt one tablespoon of butter, blend in one tablespoon of flour mixed with one teaspoon of curry powder, add slowly one cup of white stock, season with half a teaspoon of onion juice and one-third of a teaspoon of salt, and stir until smooth and thick. Add six hard-boiled eggs cut into halves lengthwise; cook until thoroughly heated and serve on rounds of buttered toast.
VEGETABLE SOUP.
Get a piece of beef or a soup bone and start it in cold water. When the meat is done, take it out; then take two onions, two carrots, two parsnips, half a turnip and three or four potatoes, peel and scrape them. Put them all through the coarse meat grinder. Put it all into the water the meat was boiled in, which should be strained. Some of the meat finely chopped may be added; also rice or barley. Season with salt and pepper.

SAGE TEA WILL DARKEN THE HAIR

Restores Faded and Gray Hair To Natural Color—Dandruff Quickly Removed
There is nothing new about the idea of using Sage for restoring the color of the hair. Our grandmothers kept their hair dark, shiny and abundant by the use of a simple "Sage Tea." Whenever their hair fell out or took on a dull, faded or streaked appearance, they made a brew of Sage leaves, and applied it to their hair with wonderful beneficial effect.
Nowadays we don't have to resort to the old-time tiresome method of gathering sage herbs and making the tea. This is done by skillful chemists better than we could do it ourselves; and all we have to do is to get the ready-made product, Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, containing Sage in the proper strength, with herbs and making the tea. WEDDINGS

An interesting ceremony was performed in the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception at 7.30 last evening, when Thomas J. Pye was united in marriage with Miss Florence Oley. Rev. A. W. Meahan officiated. The bride was attended by Miss McGuigan, while the latter's brother, Leo McGuigan, supported the groom. Mr. and Mrs. Pye will reside in Egbert street.
At the Methodist parsonage, Sussex, on August 7th, Margerie Boyd, Barton, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. W. Barton was united in marriage to George J. Fletcher of Forest Glen, by Rev. Charles Flanders.

THE COST OF LIVING

Ottawa, Aug. 12.—The labor department "index number" of wholesale prices in Canada for July, according to the official statement issued today, shows a decline, after a steady upward tendency for several months. It stands at 135 as compared with 137 for June. In July of last year the index number was 126, so that the cost of living is still somewhat higher than twelve months ago. The falling off occurred chiefly in the prices of grain, fruits, vegetables and hay. Boots, shoes, hides, lumber, metals and furniture went up slightly.
The retail price of potatoes and sugar were lower but edgings and coal have gone somewhat higher in the month. The average consumer therefore is not much benefited by the decline.
