New York, Sept. 11.—Several persons on Ward's Island about 6:30 o'clock saw a large balloon about 800 feet in the air drifting to the southwest. When about 300 feet south of Nigger Rock the balloon was seen to be on fire. In an instant it began to descend rapidly and striking the water at Hell Gate, sank immediately. The balloon was of the kind ordinarily used in making ascensions for a display. Many persons who saw the balloon from Ward's Island say there was a basket attached to it and in the dusk of the evening they saw in it what they supposed to be a man and from his motions he was either throwing out ballast or waving a flag. The police are confident that the aeronaut was drowned.

> Interesting Description of Gunboats Which Will Play Such an Importan. Part.

Caire, Egypt, Sept. 11.-Dispatches just received from the front say that the North Staffordshire regiment, numbering 900 men, arrived at Kosheh camp, the southernmost fortified post on the Nile yesterday. They are to be pushed forward to Absarrat with the main body of cavalry.

Cavalry scouts report that the dervishes are still in view south of Duglo, but Big Hod Carriers' Strike Endedthe enemy retreats at the slightest sign of a forward movement. Anglo-Egyp tian scouts are feeling the way for the advance guard steadily and are pushing on to Kasbar, 14 miles further south, which will be the next place occupied. All the troops, black and white, are full of enthusiasm and anxious for a brush with the enemy. The weather is hot in the extreme, but the soldiers are benefitting from being on the move. All the troops taking part in the expedition are now on the march towards Dongola. Duglo, hitherto held by a small force of cavalry, is being fortified and added to the string of depots connecting gress, but it was carried by a vote of the expedition with Wady Halfa, the real base of supplies. The intelligence department reports that the dervishes are gathering in force north of Dongola, and clashes between the dervishes and Anglo-Egyptian scouts are expected at any moment. Thus the advance of the British-Egyptian expedition up the river Nile, with Dongola, if not Khartoum, as the objective point, is now in full swing after months of struggling with the terrific heat and cholera, during which the work of railroad building and passing the gunboats in sections up the river and over cataracts has been carried on incessantly by the troops, under the direction of British officers, a number of them having already given up their lives as a sacrifice to the task undertaken. It is looked upon as more than probable that the gunboats will play a very important part in the campaign. They are from 100 to 175 feet long, have 20 to 27 feet beam,, only draw two feet of water when fully loaded. ere able to make 14 miles an hour and carry a large number of men and tow barges, etc., containing many more men Each gunboat carries a twelve-pounder quick-firing Maxim gun, able to disharge a shot every three seconds. Mounted forward on an armored citadel deck amidships are a conning-tower and electric searchlight, another lighter Maxim from seven to twenty feet above the water line, and the armament of these deadly boats is completed with two quick-firing six-pounders and six to eight more Maxims. Besides these guns, some of the larger gunboats carry 24-pounder Armstrongs, capable of delivering a very effective fire at long range. The hulls of the gunboats are constructed in sections, enabling them to be taken apart and put together again in a very short space of time. Finally the soldiers on board stand in shallow hull well protected by patches, which are capable of being folded for an admirable portable breastwork. The gunners ascend into the conning towers by a circular armored staircase, and seated well above the banks of the Nile they can deliver a very destructive fire along both banks. The gunboats are manned by British sailors and soldiers.

Feeling of the Greatest Anxiety Prevails in All Circles in Constantinople.

Mr. Gladstone Termed the Action of Europe a "Miserable, Disgraceful Mockery,

Constantinople, Sept. 12.-A feelof the greatest anxiety prevails in all circles. There is no doubt that a crisis of extreme gravity has been reached and that the powers are discussing the deposition of settlement, that being, apparently, the only means of restoring confidence and quiet within the Turkish empire. A British fleet of fifteen warships is off the island of Thasos, within easy striking distance, and should the emergency arise it is believed that Great Britain would not hesitate to act alone in the matter, putting an end to the present disgraceful state of affairs, if the other powers delay action. too long. As expected, the extraordinary tribunal, which has been trying men accused of massacring Armenians on the streets of this city and suburbs, turned out to be nothing more than a whitewashing court; men who were ar rested for brutally killing two Armenians before the guard house of the British embassy in full view of several British officials, being acquitted, and as federal officers. She has a cargo of ish officials, being acquitted, and as bananas for a Philadelphia firm. Her there is no possible doubt about their guilt, the acquittal is regarded as showing how useless it is to expect the Mussulmans to be punished for the crimes committed against the Armenians. This has aroused the great indignation among the foreign population here and has served to greatly increase the feeling of easiness which prevails on all sides. Europeans justly feel that the action of the extraordinary tribunal in acquit-

The note of powers then under several specific clauses gives evidence in support of this and concludes with the demand that the instigators and principal actors in the tragedies be punished with the utmost rigor. The Turkish government yesterday answered the note of the powers in a long communication. The ministry, in trying to refute the charges made, practically denied the ocular testimony of representatives of powers, and this is now, with good reason, regarded as tantamount to a defiance of Europe. As usual, the porte is relying upon the jealousy existing among the six powers to save the sultan orce more at the last moment from being brought to terms, and as Abdul Hamid so frequently escaped punishment during the course of his long and much troubled reign, has grounds for believing that now Europe will not step even in and put an end to the disgraceful state of affiairs prevailing in the Turkish empire.

News from Armenia shows that a very serious condition prevails there and that further masseeres are anticipated. It is true that the Soltan has caused all the governors to be notified that they will be held responsible if outbreaks involving the destruction of property and loss of life occurs. But such warnings have frequently been issued in the past, and they have served more to create disorder than to suppress it.
