Canada's Scolds and Croakers. The Dominion newspapers that are enstantly bewailing the iniquities of the times, the poverty of the country, the sins of the politicians and the fact that the population is not increasing at the accustomed rate, should pause to consider whether they are making the best use of their circulation and influence. If we are more iniquitous than other peoples-which we do not believe—the natural effect of the fact upon those of us who are not as wicked as the average, will be either to become so as soon as possible, or go to a country where righteousness is more appreciated. If we believe our country is a poor cne-which is not truethe effect will be a desire to leave it and go to a better.
