ST. JOHN STAR.

ST. JOHN, N. B., SEPTEMBER 17, 1908.

THE B. C. ELECTIONS.

Of October 3rd, two weeks from next Saturday, the British Columbia provincial elections take place. For many reasons, but chiefly because in this election the fight will be along the lines of federal politics, the progress of the campaign is being watched with keen interest by politicians all over Canada.

In the past, while the Conservative influence has been dominant in the several governments of the province, elections have been run almost wholly on local issues. But government on the coalition principle proved of late unsatisfactory, so when Hon. Richard McBride, who was called upon to form a cabinet after the dismissal of the Prior administration his announcement that he would lead a party composed of federal conservatives occasioned little surprise.

The immediate result has been the carrying on of a more spirited contest than the province has been accustomed to and the throwing into the campaign of every influence which the Liberal government at Ottawa can bring to bear in favor of the opposition candidates.

For one thing, the premier and his cabinet are immensely popular. All are young men, Mr. McBride being only 33 years old and each is bound to the other by close personal friendship in addition to party loyalty. With the exception of the premier none have previously been portfolios, so they have no political sins to answer for.

In addition to endorsing the policy of the opposition in the federal house the British Columbia government advocates in its platform the government ownership and control of railways and telephone systems; provides for state assistance for the agricultural resources and mining of the province, states its strong opposition to the influx of Asiatic labor and advocates legislation to provide for the amicable adjustment of disputes between employers and employees.

Mr. Tarte is still incurring the dislike of the liberals by his telling exposures of government weaknesses and failings. All the troubles that are pursuing the party, Mr. Tarte attributes to the ascendancy of the machine element represented by Messrs. Sifton and Sutherland, who started the cabal which resulted in his retirement and who, in the face of protest from the respectable liberals, compelled the premier to resign the position to Prefontaine instead of Bradeur. Tarte defies Sir Wilfrid or any of his colleagues to meet him on the platform in Quebec.

The Star published a statement of George Robertson yesterday to the effect that work on the dry dock would be begun next spring. The heading over the paragraph would convey the impression that Mr. Robertson had previously predicted a beginning as early as next November. That was the impression of the copy reader, who learned later that the development foretold for November was nothing more than the calling for tenders, and that was not guaranteed.

Mr. Sifton's declaration that the Doukhobors would some day make good citizens is being partially verified. Already they have learned to put up as forceful a kick as any born and bred Canadian against paying taxes.

The liberal papers are rejoicing because a daring explorer has returned from the region north of the Lakes where the new railway is to run and has reported good shooting and fishing around there.

Now that the auditor general is to be well muzzled, the grits will be more anxious to postpone that election than ever.

Now that the G. P. brigade know that the revolver of the guards are not for real use, the element of slight danger which has added spice to the escapades will be removed and perhaps the pastime will fall in general favor.

When the auditor general held up the pay of the "members," some of them groined it would have been made "Cox" wait.—Montreal Star.

A New Brunswick young lady could not get married because her aunt had carried off her wedding dress. Up here it is more often the bridegroom who is in trouble because his "uncle" has some of his needed garments.—Montreal Star.

The installation of the new fire alarm system appears to be chiefly an opportunity for some persons to do a lot of wire pulling.

A man advertised in the Globe the other day for a watering cart on Garden street. He gets a whole rainstorm today. That ought to give the Globe's adv. man a good argument.

Lipton might have known that some of those Yankee souvenir fenders would have been after his vermiform appendix after they had lifted everything else movable about his boat and his person.

GERRYMANDER PLUS HYPOCRISY.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's method of gerrymandering a province combines hypocrisy with fraud and injustice. The premier first appoints a committee with a majority of liberals to draft the schedules. Then his machine prepares the gerrymander after the most scientific principles, so that a minority of electors may elect a majority of members. This scheme is carried to the committee by the ministerial members, who vote it through by a party majority. When the gerrymander is reported Sir Wilfrid presents it as the conclusion of a committee of members of both parties, and expresses great surprise that the opposition in the house should object to the programme. This is a pharisaical way of adding insult to injury.—Sun.

THE SURVIVOR.

I will not drown my day of grief, But I shall breast the tide and know; And knowledge shall not make me brief, But I will eat thereof and grow.

One happiness shall not possess The treasure soul I was before; But I will drink down happiness With a good heart, and call for more!

My brain may crave for knowledge, chief, Though I am more than brain, indeed; My present need will brave his grief, Though I am more than present need.

And heart, with hunger never less, May scorn all ministries apart, Imporing for no happiness; But I am greater than my heart.

—Josephine Preston Peabody.

OTHER PEOPLE'S MONEY.

Life wins, improves with age. In fact so clever is this play and so popular with the lover of the amusing order of plays, that it bids fair to take its place with those entertainers that have become household words by their repeated presentation. This play is announced for this evening at the Opera House, with James R. Waite as the stellar attraction, and he is said to have drawn around him a most excellent company, fully alive to the many laugh-making possibilities with which the author has endowed his three acts, occupied in giving an audience an insight into the life and affairs of one Hutchinson Hopper, of Chicago. The engagement is for three days with a special matinee Saturday.

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—Sir Thomas Lipton is suffering from appendicitis. Another conference of doctors has called today. Last night the three physicians agreed that his indisposition had developed unmistakable symptoms of inflammation of the stomach and bowels.

It was stated yesterday afternoon that operation will be necessary. The ailment is catarrhal appendicitis and the patient's condition is distinctly favorable.

WANTED—A case of Headache that KUMPORT Powders will not cure in from ten to twenty minutes.

THE LIGHT WENT OUT.

Sch. Victory, Capt. McHenry, of Yarmouth, N. S., which went ashore in the heavy fog Friday night off Long Island, in Hancock Co., is nearly a total wreck. The crew was saved. The schooner is insured for $2,000. The rigging, sails and chains were removed.

The ghost of the old burial ground is on its annual round, and at the unghostly hour of four o'clock yesterday afternoon was the cause of much speculation. Being hit by a weather stain on a tombstone, descendants of the Loyalists need not fear the reappearance of an ancestor. The stain will no doubt be removed.

DIES IN HIS BOOTS.

Half Hour Before End He Calls for Footgear to Fulfill His Prophecy. CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Sept. 15.—Old "Bill" Turner, the famous fighting mountaineer, is no more. This morning at eight o'clock he bade goodbye to his stalwart sons, kissed his wife goodnight, and lay down to his last sleep. Characteristic of his life was the death of Turner. A half hour before the end came he called for his boots, which had been taken off after a shooting match with "Jim" Swaney, an old time enemy.

"Let me put them on," he said, "for I always said I'd die in my boots. That's more than a good many people do."

Putting the boots on without any assistance, Turner staggered to the door of the Rose cabin, which is just across the road from the Swaney store. Shaking his brawny fist at Swaney's home, he muttered the words of thirty years ago to the home of his old enemy.

"I'll leave Jim Swaney to you," he said to his son "Dave," who was at his side. "You and Chauncey look after him if he ever gets back from Uniontown."

Then he walked back to his bed and breathed his last. Coroners A. S. Hagan, who attended Turner, said he died of septic peritonitis, which set in after the shooting.

Word of Turner's death was sent to the officials of Uniontown. Detective Alex McBeth, who investigated the circumstances of the shooting, went before Justice of the Peace W. H. Miller and made a complaint against Jas. Swaney, charging him with the murder of William Turner. Swaney was not released on bail, and is still in jail at Uniontown, where he will await his trial.
