TERRIBLE SWEDE WILL ARRIVE TODAY

Bull Olsen, the Terrible Swede, will arrive in St. John today to prepare for the match with Jim Prokos at the Opera House on Wednesday night of this week. Olsen is about 30 years of age and has been in the wrestling game since he came of age. He has defeated such good men as Leo Pardo and Frank West—also stayed with Frank Gotch for 42 minutes before being thrown. Has lately been touring the West with a big carnival company meeting all comers in every city, with a $50.00 forfeit if thrown and states he never met a defeat in that time. Has also been under the management of George Tuohy in Boston and is considered to be a good man in the game. He has been training in Worcester for the past three weeks for the match in St. John and expects to throw Prokos in two straight falls. Needless to say that Prokos is sure he will not do it. The match on Wednesday night should be the best event of its kind ever staged in the city. The two preliminaries, Mattson and The Bulgarian, and Brooks and O'Toole will also furnish plenty of sport for the fans.

LANCASTER LEAGUE MEETING

There was an enthusiastic meeting of those interested in the Lancaster league held in the Fairville Court House last evening. Councillor John T. O'Brien was re-elected president of the league, and it was decided that there would be four teams in the league this year, viz: two teams from Fairville, one from Beaconsville and one from the North End. The league will open on the evening of May 20. There will be a brass band present to furnish music, and President O'Brien will toss the first ball over the plate. A committee was appointed to look after the arrangements and get the grounds into good shape for the opening game. A tentative schedule was drawn up, and at the next meeting of the league the names of the players will be posted. The teams will play for the cup presented by J. B. M.

COWARDS DON'T FOLLOW FISTIC OCCUPATIONS

When Jess Willard enters the ring again it will be interesting to note how his new honors affect his fighting style. Willard always has been inclined to wait his opponents out instead of forcing matters. When he was merely one of the white hopes this was held to be a fatal fault, although Johnson, an even less aggressive man, was considered perfect. It is hardly likely that Willard will change his style to any great extent, but no doubt the point of view regarding his tactics will change. At any rate it has never been the fashion to criticize the champion heavyweights on the principle that the king can do no wrong no doubt. Willard proved in his battle with Johnson that he has a very useful style for fights over the long distance. In ten rounds to no decision he may not show up any better than he did before, but the memory of his showing at Havana will prevent him from being roasted as he was after most of his early battles. As a matter of fact most of the flood of adverse criticism that Willard was compelled to suffer was a result of a common mistake. Very few persons are able to appreciate the difficulties that confront the novice boxer. As a rule, when he fails to tear in regard to consequences, ringriders at once suspect his courage. If a better understanding existed of the game from the boxer's point of view fight followers would be a great deal more sympathetic. When to attack and when to defend is something that can be learned only by actual practice in the ring. The first lesson the novice learns by bitter experience is to conserve his strength. Once he becomes exhausted through overexertion he is lost, no matter how much natural skill he may possess. That deadly tired feeling is the one thing that all boxers fear. According to observers of the war there are few cowards in the world. Certainly there are few cowards in the ring; for if a man lacked courage he never would elect to follow such a strenuous sport long enough to reach a stage where he began to attract attention. But no matter how courageous he may be, no boxer who once has become thoroughly exhausted ever cares to repeat the experience. That is why so many hang back when it is apparent to the outsider that a little more exertion would bring victory. He is not afraid of his opponent's blows, but he would be more than foolish to neglect the warning given by overtaxed heart and lungs. The least mistake on the side of overconfidence is likely to lose a bout, and ready practically won.

MURPHY SWIMS AT LOWELL.
Lowell, May 10.—Frank M. Murphy swam from Centralville Bridge, Lowell, yesterday afternoon to Belle Grove, Draught, on the north bank of the Merrimack River. The distance is about three miles and the time was one hour and twenty minutes. The strong current drove Murphy against rocks and one of his feet was injured. The start from Central Bridge was witnessed by 500 Lowell residents. It was enlivened by Edward Vanderbilt of Lowell, attempting to leap from the bridge railing into the river. He was stopped by the police. OFFERED $30,000 TO BOX.
Denver, May 10.—A flat guarantee of $30,000 has been offered Jess Willard to box twenty rounds to a decision here with Gunboat Smith on July 4. Johnny Corbett, manager of Young Corbett when the latter won the featherweight title from Terry McGovern, is match maker of the local club. He expects to confer with both Willard and Smith before the end of the week, the vanderbilt schedules bringing both here. Smith outpointed Willard in a similar bout in California a year ago last winter.
