

XLVII. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That every Master of a vessel, after such vessel shall have been released from Quarantine, shall, (whether he has or has not passengers on board,) on arriving in the Harbour of Quebec, bring his vessel to anchor, and remain at anchor, until the vessel shall have been visited by the Health Officer of the Port of Quebec, and until he shall have exhibited his Bill of Health to the said Health Officer, and shall have received instructions from him or leave to proceed further.

XLVIII. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That every Master of a vessel who shall contravene any one of the Orders or Regulations aforesaid, or any Order or Regulation made under the authority of this Act, shall for every act of contravention incur a penalty not exceeding                      pounds, currency, and shall be imprisoned during a term not exceeding six months or until such fine be paid.

XLIX. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the Master of any Vessel having Passengers on board, some of whom are to become resident in the City of Quebec, or to draw money there, and others to proceed higher up the country, may land such Passengers only as are so to become resident, or to draw money, and their baggage and effects, at such Wharves as shall be pointed out to him by the Health Officer of the Port of Quebec, and shall proceed with the other Passengers to the place of their destination if he has engaged to convey them thither, or shall procure such other Vessel or Steam Boat as shall be in the Harbour, and bound to such place, to come alongside of his Vessel and take out such other Passengers and their baggage, and to convey them to the place of their destination.

L. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That in every case where the Master of any Vessel having Passengers on board, shall not have engaged to convey them further than
